Alps Searched For U. S. Plane With 20 Aboard

AIX EN PROVENCE, France, March 5 (AP)—Airmen of three nations turned their attention to the lofty Alpine crags along the French-Italian border in a search today for a missing U. S. Air Force C47 with 20 Americans aboard. Darkness forced a temporary halt to the hunt tonight.

Hope of finding the crew and passengers alive faded fast.

The plane, used as a transport for the 50th Bomber Wing, was flying northwest from Rome to Hahn, American air base in West Germany near the Luxembourg border, on a flight that originated in Tripoli.

It was last heard from when the pilot was off Bastia, the port of northern Corsica, at 12:42 p.m. Thursday.

Air And Sea Search

After an air-sea search today by 22 American, French and Italian planes and by vessels of the French and Italian navies, plans were made to turn the hunt full force to the Alps tomorrow.

Amphibious radar-equipped Albatross planes, some B26 bombers and helicopters will augment the search force at dawn tomorrow.

Plane On Routine Flight

U. S. Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden said the transport was engaged in a "routine movement of passenger traffic" when it vanished. It had fuel for only seven hours flight.

Aboard were 16 passengers, returning to duty at the Bitburg Air Base in West Germany: 4 officers, 9 airmen and 3 civilians. The crew was made up of 2 officers and 2 airmen from the Hahn Air Base near Wiesbaden. It had been assigned to the 50th Fighter-Bomber Wing and was returning from a flight to Tripoli, where the wing is moving its headquarters.

Grenades Injure Morocco Sultan

MARRAKECH, French Morocco, March 5 (AP)—Terrorists tried for the second time in six months today to kill the pro-French Sultan of Morocco, Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa.

But he suffered only a slight head wound in the explosion of two hand grenades while he was praying at a mosque in this traditional southern capital of French Morocco.

Three of his aides suffered slight injuries. The Pasha of Marrakech, Thami El Glaoui, escaped without injury. El Glaoui, also known to be sympathetic to the French, had a similar escape at the same mosque several weeks ago.

Police put the blame on independence-seeking Moroccan nationalists. The authorities said nationalists have killed 60 persons and wounded several hundred others since the French put Ben Arafa on the throne last August to replace Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef.

Aged Mother Of Four Catholic Priests Dies

BOSTON, March 5 (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, 82, mother of four Catholic priests, died today. Three of her sons will celebrate a solemn mass of requiem Monday at Mission Church.

They are the Rev. John P. Sullivan of Bradford, Vt., celebrant; the Rev. Timothy J. Sullivan, of Spartansburg, S.C., deacon; and the Rev. Neil Sullivan of Annapolis, Md., sub-deacon. Another son, the Rev. Thomas G. Sullivan, died several years ago.

Prohibition Era Beer Baron Dies In Chicago

CHICAGO, March 5 (AP)—Terry Druggan, one of the original public enemies who made millions peddling bootleg beer for Al Capone, died yesterday at the age of 52, virtually ignored and his fortune nearly gone.

The prohibition era beer baron died in St. Ann's Hospital where he had been for two weeks, suffering from heart disease, stomach ulcers and asthma.

Investigation Will Decide If Ex-POW Will Stand Trial

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 5 (AP)— The Army put Cpl. Claude Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., a prisoner of war in Korea who changed his mind about staying with the Reds, behind bars today.

Fourth Army headquarters here announced that charges of collaborating with the enemy had been preferred against the corporal and a pretrial investigation will begin soon to determine whether the evidence justifies trial by court martial.

Dickenson Awaits Trial

The other American POW who changed his mind about staying with the Communists also had been charged with collaborating with the enemy and is awaiting trial by a court martial. He is Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, 23, of Cracker's Neck, Va., who came out of a Korean stockade several weeks before Batchelor walked out of a neutral zone encampment in Korea last Jan. 1.

Both of the soldiers are 23 and both are from small towns.

Batchelor got back to Kermit, in West Texas, last Sunday. He came to Brooke Army Hospital here yesterday for a medical checkup.

Today he was confined to the stockade at Fort Sam Houston here, headquarters of the Fourth Army. He refused to make any statement.

"Didn't Harm" Fellow POWs

Army authorities quoted him: "I did not harm my fellow prisoners. I never gave information about them."

They said the soldier showed little reaction when informed the charges were brought against him.

He accepted an offer to have Lt. Col. Kerlin J. Bragdon, a fellow Texan, serve as his counsel and he and the colonel went into conference.

Md. Censors Ban Dance Sequences From Two Films

BALTIMORE, March 5 (AP)—Maryland's motion picture censors have banned two dance sequences featuring "very scanty attire and definitely indecent movements" from the films "Top Banana" and "The French Line."

Sydney R. Traub, chairman of the State censoring board, said Jane Russell's dance in "The French Line" and a burlesque scene in "Top Banana" were objectionable.

Traub reviewed "Top Banana" "definitely burlesque of the lower type."

"As I understand it, burlesque shows here and elsewhere will not admit minors," he said. He pointed out that minors "could see the same dances in this picture if the distributor (United Artists) is successful in gaining permission to have it shown."

New York Dock Workers Strike, Defy Court Order

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—The smouldering union rivalry for control of New York's big waterfront flared into a portwide wildcat strike today in defiance of a federal court no-strike order.

Dockers of the old International Longshoremen's Assn. (ind) ignored their own leaders as well as the government to tie up about half of the port's 159 piers.

"Pretty effective throughout the port," was the way shipping circles summed up the strike.

Union Showdown Seen

Some waterfront observers sensed in the walkout the long-awaited, do-or-die showdown between the ILA and a new, rival AFL dock union. However, ILA dockers have staged similar walkouts in the recent past as demonstrations and they have been short-lived.

The strike hit hardest at the Hudson River Luxury Line piers, among the busiest in the world. The world's largest liner, the Queen Elizabeth, was caught in the tieup but sailed on schedule nevertheless. Some of her passengers had to carry their own baggage aboard.

The midtown Luxury piers are the domain of the ILA's Local 824—called the "pistol local" because of its notorious record of violence.

NLRB Under Attack

An unidentified official of the local said of the strike:

"You can blame the NLRB for giving us a dirty deal. The AFL started this business and the NLRB lowered the boom on us."

It was the National Labor Relations Board that went into federal court yesterday to get an injunction against ILA strikes or interference with normal waterfront loading activities.

ILA officials called this discrimination, and said any court order should have covered rival AFL unions as well. Nevertheless, ILA President William V. Bradley said he had ordered his dockers to stay on the job. They refused.

House Action Slated On Excise Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — Legislation slicing the excise, or sales, taxes on movie tickets, telephone bills, luggage and many other items today was ticketed for House action Wednesday.

The proposed cuts, to be effective April 1, would cost the government 912 million dollars a year in revenue.

Four Puerto Ricans Plead 'Innocent' In Capitol Attack

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)— Formal pleas of "innocent" were entered in U. S. District Court today for four Puerto Rican Nationalists accused of shooting down five congressmen in the House of Representatives Monday.

"I would like it to be charged that what I committed was the defense of my country," said Lolita Lebron, 34, in broken English. She describes herself as the ringleader in the attack.

"We came here to defend the independence of our country," chimed in Rafael Cancel Miranda, 25, another defendant.

The brief proceedings, calmly judicial, contrasted sharply with the wild scene in the House four days ago, when the floor was sprayed with pistol bullets from a public gallery.

U. S. marshals stood at all stratetic spots in the courtroom to maintain order and guard against any new outbreak by Puerto Rican terrorists.

Mrs. Lebron was the first of the four asked to enter a plea. She appeared confused by the proceedings, but after a Spanish interpreter was called upon to help her she said:

"I would like to talk about it in one respect. I would like it to be charged that what I committed was the defense of my country."

"But you do enter a plea of not guilty?" Judge James W. Morris asked.

"Yes, on those grounds," Mrs. Lebron replied.

Judge Morris entered pleas of innocent for all four and set April 5 as the tentative date for their trial.

Mrs. Lebron, Cancel, Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29, and Irving Flores Rodriguez, 28, are each charged with five counts of assault with intent to kill and five counts of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Bitter Attack Made On U. S. By Guatemala

Red Scare Warnings Labeled As Mask For Intervention Attempt

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 5 (AP)—Guatemala accused the United States today of using Red scare warnings as a mask for attempts to pry into her internal affairs. Secretary of State Dulles lashed back, saying the United States would not permit "abusive" language to obscure the Communist issue.

Guatemala's Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello in a stinging 55-minute speech accused the United States of pressuring the 20-nation Inter-American Conference to investigate Red infiltration in this hemisphere. This, he said, was designed to embarrass Guatemala and tag her with an "unjust" Communist label.

Dulles Is "Outapplauded"

Toriello's speech won him 60 seconds of applause, nearly twice that accorded Dulles when he spoke yesterday. Some delegates said the Guatemalan used an approach that appealed to many Latin Americans.

Toriello said an attempt by the United States to get the conference to adopt an anti-Communist position was a "maneuver against Guatemala, which has been maliciously and unjustly accused of being Communist, of being the beachhead of communism, a danger to the Panama Canal, a bad example for the other peoples of the continent, and a menace to the security and solidarity of the American republics."

Dulles Issues Statement

Dulles did not reply on the conference floor, but promptly issued this statement:

"The Guatemalan foreign minister has made clear that he opposes any declaration by this conference against international communism. Not only does he oppose any new action but also he goes further and says that his government considers invalid prior resolutions for which his government voted at the Ninth Inter-American Conference in 1948 and at the fourth meeting of American foreign ministers in 1951. By these resolutions the American states unanimously condemned international communism as incompatible with the concept of American freedom and as a danger for the American states.

"We do not intend to let this issue be obscured by an abusive attack made upon the United States. x x x x"

Indochina Reds Blow Up Dozen French Planes

HANOI, Indochina, March 5 (AP)— Vietminh commandos raided Hanoi's big civil airport yesterday, blowing up at least 12 transport planes before they were beaten off. The attack crippled the vital airlift to the embattled French Union bastion of Dien Bien Phu.

In anticipation of fresh rebel assaults, the French hastily ordered their key defenses bolstered all along the vital Red River Delta around Hanoi.

A spokesman said today more than 200 suspects have been rounded up following the daring raid on Gialam Airport—important base for funneling men and supplies to Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indochina.

The Reds struck before dawn, planting triggered bombs in planes along the main runways. The explosives went off with a roar that startled Hanoi across the Red River. Airport guards opened fire, killing one raider.

The French command in Saigon said "about a dozen" aircraft were damaged or partially destroyed. Most of them were C47s belonging to private companies and requisitioned by the army.

Bill To Save Old Ships Introduced

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — A bill to authorize complete restoration of the 156-year-old frigate Constitution and to give the USS Constellation to Baltimore and USS Hartford to Mobile, Ala., as historic relics was introduced today by Rep. Devereux (R-Md).

Disposition of two other old naval vessels, the USS Olympia and USS Oregon, also is provided in the measure offered as a substitute for a Navy-backed bill calling for junking of all but the Constitution as too costly to restore and maintain.

Police Seize Huge Arms Cache

A cache of arms New York police said were apparently professionally crated are shown in a store after they were seized yesterday. Included were nine cases of anti-tank guns, 25 Garand rifles and five cases of grenades. Police took into custody two men described as Cubans. (Story at bottom of page)

Europe Nations Get Aid Despite Red Shipments

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — President Eisenhower told Congress today he has ordered continuance of aid to five European nations even though they have shipped more than six million dollars worth of strategic materials to Soviet Russia and her satellites.

The nations involved are Denmark, France, Italy, Norway and the United Kingdom. The President said to stop military and economic aid to these countries because they permitted trade with Eastern Europe in recent months would "clearly be detrimental to the security of the United States."

Turkish Copper Sent Czechs

Congress also was informed of a movement of 500 tons of copper worth $450,000 from Turkey to Czechoslovakia, but was told that Turkey has taken steps to "prevent a repetition of the incident."

The President made a periodic report on East-West trade to the Senate and House chairmen of the Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees, as he is required to do under the Battle Act.

This act forbids American aid to any country that "knowingly permits" shipments to Communist and Red-dominated countries of items on an embargo list, such as arms, ammunition, implements of war, or atomic energy materials.

Stassen Letter Forwarded

But it authorizes the President to continue aid to countries allowing shipments of strategic materials not on the embargo list when unusual circumstances indicate the cessation of aid would be against the interests of the U.S.

The President forwarded to the Capitol a letter from Harold E. Stassen, director of foreign aid, which said none of the five countries involved permitted shipment of any embargoed items. None of the embargoed shipments went to Communist China.

Martha Raye Denies She'll Wed Dancer

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Martha Raye today denied a report that she intended to marry Eddie Begley, a dancer in her television show.

The Ansonia, Conn., Sentinel had quoted members of Begley's family in Ansonia as saying the marriage would take place in six or eight weeks.

Miss Raye was in bed with a slight cold today. She said through her secretary, Mimi Marlo:

"There is absolutely no truth to the report. I am not married now and I am not planning to marry Mr. Begley or anybody else."

American Lieutenant Sticks With Russians

VIENNA, March 5 (AP)—U.S. authorities in Austria announced tonight they have been unable to persuade an American lieutenant, who deserted to the Russians in January, to return to the U. S. Army.

A statement by the American Embassy in Vienna confirmed an earlier announcement by the Russian news agency Tass that 2nd Lt. William Donal Adkins, 23, of Indianapolis, Ind., had asked for political asylum.

Arthur Godfrey To Be Grounded Six Months

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner threw the book at Arthur Godfrey today for "reckless" flying, recommending that he be grounded for six months. This is the stiffest available penalty.

In New York, the radio-television star said through a spokesman that he would not appeal. If no appeal is filed by March 15, the finding of the examiner, Albert H. Ruppar, will become the final decision of the five-man board and Godfrey's pilot's certificate will be suspended for six months.

Buzzing Intentional?

Ruppar said he was convinced, from the evidence submitted by Godfrey and by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in its complaint, that Godfrey intentionally buzzed the Teterboro, N.J., airport control tower with his twin-engine DC3 on a takeoff Jan. 7.

Ruppar also noted that Godfrey's CAA medical certificate had expired in July, 1951, and said the entertainer had flown in violation of the regulations since that time.

The examiner ordered that Godfrey be given a CAA flight test to qualify as a DC3 pilot, and that he also be required to obtain a medical certificate showing his physical flying qualifications, before suspension of his private pilot's certificate is lifted.

"Reckless Operation"

Ruppar went considerably beyond the CAA complaint, which had asked that Godfrey's pilot certificate be suspended for "no less" than 30 days, and had accused the performer merely of "careless" flying.

Ruppar said the evidence required that a finding be made also of "reckless operation."

The CAB took particular pains to make sure that Godfrey learned of the examiner's finding directly, rather than from newspaper or radio reports.

It withheld the examiner's "initial decision" until it had been assured by Godfrey's attorneys that the document had been read by long distance telephone to Godfrey in New York.

Wartime RAF Pilot And Father Of Two Becomes Woman

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—A British wartime fighter pilot, father of two children, has undergone medical and surgical treatment that has transformed him into a woman, Press Association reported tonight.

In a long detailed dispatch the news agency said this "may well be the most complete change of sex in the world's medical history."

Press Association declined to state the source of the story but said documents prove its authenticity.

Rosenberg Custody Actions Consolidated

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Actions in three separate courts were consolidated into one today to determine the eventual custody of the two sons of executed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Surrogate William T. Collins announced the three courts had agreed that he would decide on the questions of a guardian for the children's property and on a personal guardian. The value of a trust fund in the children's name is estimated at more than $44,000.

Collins said the boys, Michael, 10, and Robert, 6, would continue staying temporarily with their grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg, 65.

Collins set March 18 for the submission of briefs and recommendations on the property question and April 5 for a hearing on a personal guardian.

N. Y. Police Seize Big Arms Cache, Arrest Two Cubans

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Police raiders today seized a huge cache of armaments in an upper West Side Manhattan building, and arrested two men they identified as Cubans.

The big store of weapons, police said, included 27 large caliber anti-tank guns with 24 cases of ammunition, 25 Garand rifles with four cases of ammunition and five cases of hand grenades.

The arms were stacked in a street-level store room of a five-story business and residential structure at 173 West 99th St.

Nathan Small, clerk of the firm which owns the building, said that recently "trucks began to unload heavy cases outside the premises."

He said he rented the store quarters last November at $75 a month to a man who said he and his partner wanted to use it to manufacture crates.

The man identified himself as "Mario Cruz," Small said.

"This is evidently a Cuban affair," said Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams, who took over command at the scene.

"We have discovered no link with the Puerto Rican Nationalists' attempt to assassinate members of the U. S. Congress. We know nothing of any relationship between Puerto Rican and Cuban revolutionaries."

The commissioner added that police "cannot yet say whether there is any connection between this cache of arms and the current waterfront tension."

He referred to an inter-union war that today flared into a wildcat, unauthorized strike on most of the giant port's piers.

Protests Boss Was 'Let Down' By Superiors

Kane Declares Army Chief Lacked Support In McCarthy Battle

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—A top aide to Army Secretary Stevens quit his job today in protest against what he called the failure of Stevens' superiors to give him badly needed support in his fight with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

John F. Kane, special assistant to the secretary, announced his resignation in a letter which charged that Stevens had not received "full fighting support in the gallant battle you are trying to put up for the Army."

Kane wrote also that he felt that Stevens and the Army need such help "very badly" and added his opinion that the Army should "never be subjected, even indirectly, to politics of any kind."

Kane did not say just what superiors he had in mind.

Hopes Stevens Won't Quit

Steven's immediate superiors would be Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Deputy Secretary Roger M. Kyes. Over them is President Eisenhower.

Kane expressed the hope that Stevens would stay in his post to "fight for the firm establishment" of his principles.

Rescinded Orders

Later, however, after a conference with McCarthy and other senators he rescinded these orders. Still later he said he would never accede to any "browbeating" of Army witnesses. On Wednesday President Eisenhower entered the controversy with a call for "fair play" by congressional investigators.

McCarthy had criticized Gen. Zwicker because of an honorable discharge given Maj. Irving Peress, a New York dentist whom McCarthy calls "a Fifth Amendment Communist." Zwicker said he merely acted under orders in giving the discharge.

McCarthy Drops $2 Million Suit Against Benton

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) dropped his two million dollar libel and slander suit against former Sen. William Benton (D-Conn) today amid clashing statements as to why the action was abandoned.

Benton, who had accused McCarthy of perjury, fraud and deceit, said the Wisconsin senator "refuses to face examination under courtroom conditions." He said McCarthy never could have won the suit "because I told the truth about him and he knew it."

McCarthy said his lawyers had advised him they were unable to find anyone who believed Benton's charges. Under these circumstances he said, it would be impossible to prove he had been damaged, and just to demonstrate that Benton's charges were false would "not be enough."

McCarthy sued Benton two years ago, accusing him of "libel, slander and conspiracy" to have the Wisconsin Republican ousted from the Senate.

The litigation was based on Benton's charges before a Senate Elections subcommittee in September, 1951, that McCarthy committed perjury, fraud and calculated deceit of the American people in pressing his campaign against what McCarthy termed subversives in the government.

At that time Benton submitted 10 cases which he said showed, among other things, that McCarthy "apparently lied under oath" before a Senate committee in 1950 and that McCarthy committed a "most serious breach of senatorial integrity—that of accepting 'influence money.'"

Army Jails Batchelor As Red Collaborator

Investigation Will Decide If Ex-POW Will Stand Trial

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 5 (AP)— The Army put Cpl. Claude Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., a prisoner of war in Korea who changed his mind about staying with the Reds, behind bars today.

Fourth Army headquarters here announced that charges of collaborating with the enemy had been preferred against the corporal and a pretrial investigation will begin soon to determine whether the evidence justifies trial by court martial.

An unidentified official of the local said of the strike:

"You can blame the NLRB for giving us a dirty deal. The AFL started this business and the NLRB lowered the boom on us."

It was the National Labor Relations Board that went into federal court yesterday to get an injunction against ILA strikes or interference with normal waterfront loading activities.

ILA officials called this discrimination, and said any court order should have covered rival AFL unions as well. Nevertheless, ILA President William V. Bradley said he had ordered his dockers to stay on the job. They refused.

House Action Slated On Excise Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — Legislation slicing the excise, or sales, taxes on movie tickets, telephone bills, luggage and many other items today was ticketed for House action Wednesday.

The proposed cuts, to be effective April 1, would cost the government 912 million dollars a year in revenue.

Red Scare Warnings Labeled As Mask For Intervention Attempt

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 5 (AP)—Guatemala accused the United States today of using Red scare warnings as a mask for attempts to pry into her internal affairs. Secretary of State Dulles lashed back, saying the United States would not permit "abusive" language to obscure the Communist issue.

Guatemala's Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello in a stinging 55-minute speech accused the United States of pressuring the 20-nation Inter-American Conference to investigate Red infiltration in this hemisphere. This, he said, was designed to embarrass Guatemala and tag her with an "unjust" Communist label.

Dulles Is "Outapplauded"

Toriello's speech won him 60 seconds of applause, nearly twice that accorded Dulles when he spoke yesterday. Some delegates said the Guatemalan used an approach that appealed to many Latin Americans.

Toriello said an attempt by the United States to get the conference to adopt an anti-Communist position was a "maneuver against Guatemala, which has been maliciously and unjustly accused of being Communist, of being the beachhead of communism, a danger to the Panama Canal, a bad example for the other peoples of the continent, and a menace to the security and solidarity of the American republics."

Dulles Issues Statement

Dulles did not reply on the conference floor, but promptly issued this statement:

"The Guatemalan foreign minister has made clear that he opposes any declaration by this conference against international communism. Not only does he oppose any new action but also he goes further and says that his government considers invalid prior resolutions for which his government voted at the Ninth Inter-American Conference in 1948 and at the fourth meeting of American foreign ministers in 1951. By these resolutions the American states unanimously condemned international communism as incompatible with the concept of American freedom and as a danger for the American states.

"We do not intend to let this issue be obscured by an abusive attack made upon the United States. x x x x"

Indochina Reds Blow Up Dozen French Planes

HANOI, Indochina, March 5 (AP)—Vietminh commandos raided Hanoi's big civil airport yesterday, blowing up at least 12 transport planes before they were beaten off. The attack crippled the vital airlift to the embattled French Union bastion of Dien Bien Phu.

In anticipation of fresh rebel assaults, the French hastily ordered their key defenses bolstered all along the vital Red River Delta around Hanoi.

A spokesman said today more than 200 suspects have been rounded up following the daring raid on Gialam Airport—important base for funneling men and supplies to Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indochina.

The Reds struck before dawn, planting triggered bombs in planes along the main runways. The explosives went off with a roar that startled Hanoi across the Red River. Airport guards opened fire, killing one raider.

The French command in Saigon said "about a dozen" aircraft were damaged or partially destroyed. Most of them were C47s belonging to private companies and requisitioned by the army.

Bill To Save Old Ships Introduced

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — A bill to authorize complete restoration of the 156-year-old frigate Constitution and to give the USS Constellation to Baltimore and USS Hartford to Mobile, Ala., as historic relics was introduced today by Rep. Devereux (R-Md).

Disposition of two other old naval vessels, the USS Olympia and USS Oregon, also is provided in the measure offered as a substitute for a Navy-backed bill calling for junking of all but the Constitution as too costly to restore and maintain.

Police Seize Huge Arms Cache

A cache of arms New York police said were apparently professionally crated are shown in a store after they were seized yesterday. Included were nine cases of anti-tank guns, 25 Garand rifles and five cases of grenades. Police took into custody two men described as Cubans. (Story at bottom of page)

Europe Nations Get Aid Despite Red Shipments

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — President Eisenhower told Congress today he has ordered continuance of aid to five European nations even though they have shipped more than six million dollars worth of strategic materials to Soviet Russia and her satellites.

The nations involved are Denmark, France, Italy, Norway and the United Kingdom. The President said to stop military and economic aid to these countries because they permitted trade with Eastern Europe in recent months would "clearly be detrimental to the security of the United States."

Turkish Copper Sent Czechs

Congress also was informed of a movement of 500 tons of copper worth $450,000 from Turkey to Czechoslovakia, but was told that Turkey has taken steps to "prevent a repetition of the incident."

The President made a periodic report on East-West trade to the Senate and House chairmen of the Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees, as he is required to do under the Battle Act.

This act forbids American aid to any country that "knowingly permits" shipments to Communist and Red-dominated countries of items on an embargo list, such as arms, ammunition, implements of war, or atomic energy materials.

Stassen Letter Forwarded

But it authorizes the President to continue aid to countries allowing shipments of strategic materials not on the embargo list when unusual circumstances indicate the cessation of aid would be against the interests of the U.S.

The President forwarded to the Capitol a letter from Harold E. Stassen, director of foreign aid, which said none of the five countries involved permitted shipment of any embargoed items. None of the embargoed shipments went to Communist China.

Martha Raye Denies She'll Wed Dancer

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Martha Raye today denied a report that she intended to marry Eddie Begley, a dancer in her television show.

The Ansonia, Conn., Sentinel had quoted members of Begley's family in Ansonia as saying the marriage would take place in six or eight weeks.

Miss Raye was in bed with a slight cold today. She said through her secretary, Mimi Marlo:

"There is absolutely no truth to the report. I am not married now and I am not planning to marry Mr. Begley or anybody else."

American Lieutenant Sticks With Russians

VIENNA, March 5 (AP)—U.S. authorities in Austria announced tonight they have been unable to persuade an American lieutenant, who deserted to the Russians in January, to return to the U. S. Army.

A statement by the American Embassy in Vienna confirmed an earlier announcement by the Russian news agency Tass that 2nd Lt. William Donal Adkins, 23, of Indianapolis, Ind., had asked for political asylum.

Arthur Godfrey To Be Grounded Six Months

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner threw the book at Arthur Godfrey today for "reckless" flying, recommending that he be grounded for six months. This is the stiffest available penalty.

In New York, the radio-television star said through a spokesman that he would not appeal. If no appeal is filed by March 15, the finding of the examiner, Albert H. Ruppar, will become the final decision of the five-man board and Godfrey's pilot's certificate will be suspended for six months.

Buzzing Intentional?

Ruppar said he was convinced, from the evidence submitted by Godfrey and by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in its complaint, that Godfrey intentionally buzzed the Teterboro, N.J., airport control tower with his twin-engine DC3 on a takeoff Jan. 7.

Ruppar also noted that Godfrey's CAA medical certificate had expired in July, 1951, and said the entertainer had flown in violation of the regulations since that time.

The examiner ordered that Godfrey be given a CAA flight test to qualify as a DC3 pilot, and that he also be required to obtain a medical certificate showing his physical flying qualifications, before suspension of his private pilot's certificate is lifted.

"Reckless Operation"

Ruppar went considerably beyond the CAA complaint, which had asked that Godfrey's pilot certificate be suspended for "no less" than 30 days, and had accused the performer merely of "careless" flying.

Ruppar said the evidence required that a finding be made also of "reckless operation."

The CAB took particular pains to make sure that Godfrey learned of the examiner's finding directly, rather than from newspaper or radio reports.

It withheld the examiner's "initial decision" until it had been assured by Godfrey's attorneys that the document had been read by long distance telephone to Godfrey in New York.

Wartime RAF Pilot And Father Of Two Becomes Woman

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—A British wartime fighter pilot, father of two children, has undergone medical and surgical treatment that has transformed him into a woman, Press Association reported tonight.

In a long detailed dispatch the news agency said this "may well be the most complete change of sex in the world's medical history."

Press Association declined to state the source of the story but said documents prove its authenticity.

Rosenberg Custody Actions Consolidated

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Actions in three separate courts were consolidated into one today to determine the eventual custody of the two sons of executed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Surrogate William T. Collins announced the three courts had agreed that he would decide on the questions of a guardian for the children's property and on a personal guardian. The value of a trust fund in the children's name is estimated at more than $44,000.

Collins said the boys, Michael, 10, and Robert, 6, would continue staying temporarily with their grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg, 65.

Collins set March 18 for the submission of briefs and recommendations on the property question and April 5 for a hearing on a personal guardian.

Protests Boss Was 'Let Down' By Superiors

Kane Declares Army Chief Lacked Support In McCarthy Battle

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—A top aide to Army Secretary Stevens quit his job today in protest against what he called the failure of Stevens' superiors to give him badly needed support in his fight with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

John F. Kane, special assistant to the secretary, announced his resignation in a letter which charged that Stevens had not received "full fighting support in the gallant battle you are trying to put up for the Army."

Kane wrote also that he felt that Stevens and the Army need such help "very badly" and added his opinion that the Army should "never be subjected, even indirectly, to politics of any kind."

Kane did not say just what superiors he had in mind.

Hopes Stevens Won't Quit

Steven's immediate superiors would be Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Deputy Secretary Roger M. Kyes. Over them is President Eisenhower.

Kane expressed the hope that Stevens would stay in his post to "fight for the firm establishment" of his principles.

Rescinded Orders

Later, however, after a conference with McCarthy and other senators he rescinded these orders. Still later he said he would never accede to any "browbeating" of Army witnesses. On Wednesday President Eisenhower entered the controversy with a call for "fair play" by congressional investigators.

McCarthy had criticized Gen. Zwicker because of an honorable discharge given Maj. Irving Peress, a New York dentist whom McCarthy calls "a Fifth Amendment Communist." Zwicker said he merely acted under orders in giving the discharge.

McCarthy Drops $2 Million Suit Against Benton

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) dropped his two million dollar libel and slander suit against former Sen. William Benton (D-Conn) today amid clashing statements as to why the action was abandoned.

Benton, who had accused McCarthy of perjury, fraud and deceit, said the Wisconsin senator "refuses to face examination under courtroom conditions." He said McCarthy never could have won the suit "because I told the truth about him and he knew it."

McCarthy said his lawyers had advised him they were unable to find anyone who believed Benton's charges. Under these circumstances he said, it would be impossible to prove he had been damaged, and just to demonstrate that Benton's charges were false would "not be enough."

McCarthy sued Benton two years ago, accusing him of "libel, slander and conspiracy" to have the Wisconsin Republican ousted from the Senate.

The litigation was based on Benton's charges before a Senate Elections subcommittee in September, 1951, that McCarthy committed perjury, fraud and calculated deceit of the American people in pressing his campaign against what McCarthy termed subversives in the government.

At that time Benton submitted 10 cases which he said showed, among other things, that McCarthy "apparently lied under oath" before a Senate committee in 1950 and that McCarthy committed a "most serious breach of senatorial integrity—that of accepting 'influence money.'"

Ferdinand's Son Dies

VIENNA, March 5 (AP)—Ernst Hohenberg, elder son of Austria's Archduke Ferdinand whose assassination in the Balkans touched off World War I, died last Saturday of heart failure in a hotel in the southern city of Graz. He was 50.

N. Y. Police Seize Big Arms Cache, Arrest Two Cubans

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—Police raiders today seized a huge cache of armaments in an upper West Side Manhattan building, and arrested two men they identified as Cubans.

The big store of weapons, police said, included 27 large caliber anti-tank guns with 24 cases of ammunition, 25 Garand rifles with four cases of ammunition and five cases of hand grenades.

The arms were stacked in a street-level store room of a five-story business and residential structure at 173 West 99th St.

Nathan Small, clerk of the firm which owns the building, said that recently "trucks began to unload heavy cases outside the premises."

He said he rented the store quarters last November at $75 a month to a man who said he and his partner wanted to use it to manufacture crates.

The man identified himself as "Mario Cruz," Small said.

Police later identified Cruz as a 34-year-old Cuban and his partner as Roberto Oscar Acevedo, 36.

"This is evidently a Cuban affair," said Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams, who took over command at the scene.

"We have discovered no link with the Puerto Rican Nationalists' attempt to assassinate members of the U. S. Congress. We know nothing of any relationship between Puerto Rican and Cuban revolutionaries."

The commissioner added that police "cannot yet say whether there is any connection between this cache of arms and the current waterfront tension."

He referred to an inter-union war that today flared into a wildcat, unauthorized strike on most of the giant port's piers.

Ex-Electronics Lab Worker Former Red

Denies Knowledge Of Any Espionage

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—An admitted former Communist testified today he was a member of a Red cell operating in a Nutley, N. J., electronics laboratory, but denied knowledge of any spying there.

The testimony came from Peter A. Gragis of Levittown, N. Y., appearing before the Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Gragis named Frank McGee as educational director of the Communist cell in the Federal Telecommunications Laboratory. McGee was brought to the witness stand, refused to say whether he is or ever has been a Communist, but also disclaimed any part in sabotage or espionage or any knowledge of it.

Gragis was instructed to come back Wednesday, when McCarthy said Gragis will identify four more Communists, including a worker in a defense plant.

The Federal Telecommunications Laboratory is a private firm, owned by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., and is engaged largely in electronics and weapons research for the armed forces.

Both Gragis and McGee testified they handled secret work.

Gragis said he "made the mistake" of joining the Communist party in 1936. He said he walked out of it in 1950, the same year he left the Telecommunications Laboratory. He said he had been advised his security clearance had been cancelled because of his Communist party membership.

Price Of Coffee Is Seen Reaching $1.23 Per Pound

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — Senate investigators developed this gloomy forecast today: American coffee drinkers may be shelling out $1.23 a pound for java before the year is up.

The figure, $1.23, represents conclusions reached by Sen. Frear (D-Del) after hearing testimony by Horacio Cintra Leite, president of Pan-American Coffee Bureau, before a Senate Banking subcommittee.

Three American clubwomen, just back from an inspection trip to Brazil, also told the senators that coffee prices would go up before they come down.

Negro Is Convicted Of Raping White Girl

ELLICOTT CITY, March 5 (AP)—Washington, D. C. Negro, was convicted in Howard County Circuit Court today of raping and robbing a 26-year-old white girl from Forrestville, Md.

Chief Judge James E. Boylan Jr. and Judge James E. Clark heard the case without a jury. Sentencing was delayed until next Wednesday.

The case was moved here from Prince Georges County at the request of the defendant.

State's Attorney Carlyle Lancaster of Prince Georges County, who prosecuted, said the assault occurred at knife point last July 7 when the unmarried woman was on her way home from work as a radio operator at Washington National Airport.

Mass To Commemorate Pope Pius' Coronation

VATICAN CITY, March 5 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said today a solemn Mass in the Sistine Chapel on March 12 will commemorate the 15th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII.

The Pope, ill since Jan. 25 with gastritis, will not be able to attend. No official word was issued on the Pope's condition today but Vatican sources said his slow improvement of the past few days is continuing.

The mass will be celebrated by Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Masella, the first cardinal created by the Pope among those now in Rome, the newspaper said.

State Demands Death For Wable In Pike Slayings

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 5 (AP) — Selection of a jury was completed today and the state opened its case against John Wesley Wable by demanding "death in the electric chair" for the accused phantom killer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Asst. Dist. Atty. John K. Best said the state will prove by witnesses that Wable had the death gun the night Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., was shot to death while asleep in the cab of his truck.

Wable, 24-year-old resident of Ohiopyle, Fayette County, Pa., also is accused of killing Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Duncannon, Pa., and wounding a third trucker, John K. Sheperd, of West Alexander, Pa. Sheperd recovered and will be a state's witness. Wable is on trial only for the slaying of Pitts.

The bodies of Pitts and Woodward were found within three days of each other. Both had been shot in the head.

10 Mau Maus Reply To Surrender Pleas

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 5 (AP)—The colonial government said today 10 Mau Mau leaders had replied to surrender appeals thus far from Gen. China, but no conference to discuss terms for ending the terrorism in Kenya had been arranged.

China, a captured terrorist leader, is making contact with his former companions in a government-supported effort to negotiate an end to the anti-white violence which has plagued this British East African colony for more than two years.

McLeod Won't Resign

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — The State Department said today that R. W. Scott McLeod has no intention of quitting as department security chief despite the loss of his hiring-firing authority.

Secretary of State Dulles last Monday relieved McLeod of his power as personnel chief. He was left in charge of security and consular affairs.

This trimming of McLeod's authority came a few days after the House Appropriations subcommittee released testimony in which he had called his personnel and security powers "inseparable."

State's Finances Face Legislative Council Review

ANNAPOLIS, March 5 (AP)—State finances, whose handling by the Republican administration was attacked today by the House Democratic leader, may be given a full-scale review by the Legislative Council.

A joint subcommittee headed by Senate Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) and his like number in the House, Del. Thompson (D-Dorchester), asked for one in announcing its budget cuts during the General Assembly session which just ended.

Dr. Carl R. Everstine, director of legislative reference, said today the suggestion would be taken up when the council convenes again. The Legislature's recess sounding board probably will meet within the next six weeks.

Thompson charged today that "because the incumbent governor has postponed and deferred facing up to the fiscal problems of this state, our future has been mortgaged."

The next governor, "like 'old Mother Hubbard,' will find the cupboard bare," he said.

The Dorchester Democrat accused Gov. McKeldin of lacking "the intestinal fortitude to grapple with the fiscal problems of this state."

Thompson said the governor elected this November may be faced with a deficit of 20 million dollars in making up the next budget because of rising expenses and a leveling off of income. He commented the governor's "tricky device" of collecting utility taxes twice in the same year couldn't be expected again.

McKeldin had left for a speech in Atlantic City tomorrow and was unvailable for comment.

The basic budget study was among the usual variety proposed by the General Assembly.

The subcommittees recommended "a complete review of all mandatory items in the budget, reviewing these items with reference to present-day conditions and determine which are really essential and which should be eliminated, thus saving the taxpayers' money."

Egypt Election Is Set For July

CAIRO, Egypt, March 5 (AP) — Egypt's military regime announced today that election of a new constituent assembly—which will also serve as an interim parliament while a constitution is drafted—will be held in July.

The announcement was believed by observers to have been made for the dual purpose of reinforcing the regime's patched-up unity and gain public support following the hectic events of last week when the Young Officers' Revolutionary Council abruptly dropped Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib from power and reinstated him as president after three days.

The announcement also promised to relax military rule which has been maintained since the ouster of King Farouk in July, 1952. It said local press censorship would be ended immediately except for defense matters, and that martial law would be wiped out soon.

These steps did not mean, however, that Egypt is headed toward a democratic government as such a term would be understood in the United States.

The Revolutionary Council will continue to exercise power until the parliament is elected and hence be in a position to strongly influence the selection of the parliament.

Conference Agenda Set

OTTAWA, March 5 (AP)—Canada and the United States agreed today on an agenda for top-level economic talks in Washington March 16, but details remained secret.

Steam generated by lava heat has been used to create electric power at Larderello, in northern Italy.

LEAVE BUILDING WHERE ARMS SEIZED—Two men identified by police as Roberto Oscar Acevedo (right foreground), 36, and Mario Cruz (behind Acevedo wearing checkered cap), 34, described as Cubans, are escorted by detectives from a New York store where police discovered crated arms feady for shipment. Stevenson Raps McCarthy's Red Coddling Charge

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said today he is sure the Army has not coddled Communists—as charged by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) — "any more than previous Democratic administrations ever coddled a single subversive, traitor or spy deliberately."

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, struck out against what he called "McCarthyism" on his arrival here for the Southeastern Democratic Conference.

The former Illinois governor said that if he is asked for advice by Democratic candidates in this year's campaign for control of Congress, he will urge them to oppose "McCarthyism" because he said it was "distasteful and possibly injurious to the United States."

Stevenson To Go On Air

Asked about McCarthy's charges that the Army has coddled Communists, Stevenson said he will discuss in a radio-television address to the conference tomorrow night the relationship between President Eisenhower and the Wisconsin senator.

"I am sure the Army has not coddled Communists at all any more than the previous Democratic administrations ever coddled a single subversive, traitor or spy deliberately," Stevenson said vigorously.

This was an obvious reference to Republican attacks, including the assertion by Atty. Gen. Brownell that former President Truman had promoted Harry Dexter White, knowing at the time that White was a spy.

Economy Seen Issue

Although he spoke out forcibly in this case, Stevenson said he thinks it is too early to determine how much of an issue the Communists in government investigations will be in the congressional campaign.

The former Illinois governor said he thinks, along with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) and Sen. Russell (D-Ga), that the condition of the national economy will have a great deal to do with next November's election results. He said that economists disagree on their forecasts for the future and he was in no position to know what would happen.

Ginger Rogers Loses Long Locks

PARIS, March 5 (AP)—Veteran movie star Ginger Rogers got her hair cut tonight for the first time since she's been a star and said: "I did it because it looks more modern but mainly because my husband wants it short."

Her husband is French actor Jacques Bergerac. "Now I can run my fingers through her hair more easily," he said gleefully as the coiffeur snipped off the blond locks.

Va. Senate Rejects Truck Tax Measure

RICHMOND, March 5 (AP) — The Virginia Senate today beat down a second legislative effort to require out-of-state truckers to pay a 2 per cent gross receipts tax to bring in some 2 million dollars a year for the road fund.

By a 27 to 11 vote it killed the Fenwick-Palmer-Fitzpatrick bill to call a halt to the policy of reciprocity under which the state absolves the foreign truckers from the receipts tax.

After disposing of the truck bill, the Senate recessed to let its committees go to work and then went back into a floor session for a fight on the bill tightening the enforcement provisions of the state's right-to-work-act.

Thief Snatches $1560 From Hand Of Store Owner

BALTIMORE, March 5 (AP)—Police said a thief snatched an envelope containing $1,560 from the hands of a drug store proprietor today as the Baltimore businessman was walking a scant six blocks from his store to the bank.

The victim of the theft, Steve Mantsangos, said the man who stole the envelope stopped him and asked for directions to catch a downtown bus.

As the man snatched the envelope a No. 11 bus came by and the driver paced the fleeing thief, taking down the license number of a car he climbed into a few blocks away.

Police said the car was stolen.

Mass To Commemorate Pope Pius' Coronation

VATICAN CITY, March 5 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said today a solemn Mass in the Sistine Chapel on March 12 will commemorate the 15th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII.

The Pope, ill since Jan. 25 with gastritis, will not be able to attend. No official word was issued on the Pope's condition today but Vatican sources said his slow improvement of the past few days is continuing.

The mass will be celebrated by Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Masella, the first cardinal created by the Pope among those now in Rome, the newspaper said.

State Demands Death For Wable In Pike Slayings

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 5 (AP) — Selection of a jury was completed today and the state opened its case against John Wesley Wable by demanding "death in the electric chair" for the accused phantom killer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Asst. Dist. Atty. John K. Best said the state will prove by witnesses that Wable had the death gun the night Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., was shot to death while asleep in the cab of his truck.

Wable, 24-year-old resident of Ohiopyle, Fayette County, Pa., also is accused of killing Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Duncannon, Pa., and wounding a third trucker, John K. Sheperd, of West Alexander, Pa. Sheperd recovered and will be a state's witness. Wable is on trial only for the slaying of Pitts.

The bodies of Pitts and Woodward were found within three days of each other. Both had been shot in the head.

10 Mau Maus Reply To Surrender Pleas

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 5 (AP)—The colonial government said today 10 Mau Mau leaders had replied to surrender appeals thus far from Gen. China, but no conference to discuss terms for ending the terrorism in Kenya had been arranged.

China, a captured terrorist leader, is making contact with his former companions in a government-supported effort to negotiate an end to the anti-white violence which has plagued this British East African colony for more than two years.

McLeod Won't Resign

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — The State Department said today that R. W. Scott McLeod has no intention of quitting as department security chief despite the loss of his hiring-firing authority.

Secretary of State Dulles last Monday relieved McLeod of his power as personnel chief. He was left in charge of security and consular affairs.

This trimming of McLeod's authority came a few days after the House Appropriations subcommittee released testimony in which he had called his personnel and security powers "inseparable."

State's Finances Face Legislative Council Review

ANNAPOLIS, March 5 (AP)—State finances, whose handling by the Republican administration was attacked today by the House Democratic leader, may be given a full-scale review by the Legislative Council.

A joint subcommittee headed by Senate Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) and his like number in the House, Del. Thompson (D-Dorchester), asked for one in announcing its budget cuts during the General Assembly session which just ended.

Dr. Carl R. Everstine, director of legislative reference, said today the suggestion would be taken up when the council convenes again. The Legislature's recess sounding board probably will meet within the next six weeks.

Thompson charged today that "because the incumbent governor has postponed and deferred facing up to the fiscal problems of this state, our future has been mortgaged."

The next governor, "like 'old Mother Hubbard,' will find the cupboard bare," he said.

The Dorchester Democrat accused Gov. McKeldin of lacking "the intestinal fortitude to grapple with the fiscal problems of this state."

Thompson said the governor elected this November may be faced with a deficit of 20 million dollars in making up the next budget because of rising expenses and a leveling off of income. He commented the governor's "tricky device" of collecting utility taxes twice in the same year couldn't be expected again.

McKeldin had left for a speech in Atlantic City tomorrow and was unvailable for comment.

The basic budget study was among the usual variety proposed by the General Assembly.

The subcommittees recommended "a complete review of all mandatory items in the budget, reviewing these items with reference to present-day conditions and determine which are really essential and which should be eliminated, thus saving the taxpayers' money."

Egypt Election Is Set For July

CAIRO, Egypt, March 5 (AP) — Egypt's military regime announced today that election of a new constituent assembly—which will also serve as an interim parliament while a constitution is drafted—will be held in July.

The announcement was believed by observers to have been made for the dual purpose of reinforcing the regime's patched-up unity and gain public support following the hectic events of last week when the Young Officers' Revolutionary Council abruptly dropped Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib from power and reinstated him as president after three days.

The announcement also promised to relax military rule which has been maintained since the ouster of King Farouk in July, 1952. It said local press censorship would be ended immediately except for defense matters, and that martial law would be wiped out soon.

These steps did not mean, however, that Egypt is headed toward a democratic government as such a term would be understood in the United States.

The Revolutionary Council will continue to exercise power until the parliament is elected and hence be in a position to strongly influence the selection of the parliament.

Conference Agenda Set

OTTAWA, March 5 (AP)—Canada and the United States agreed today on an agenda for top-level economic talks in Washington March 16, but details remained secret.

Steam generated by lava heat has been used to create electric power at Larderello, in northern Italy.

LEAVE BUILDING WHERE ARMS SEIZED—Two men identified by police as Roberto Oscar Acevedo (right foreground), 36, and Mario Cruz (behind Acevedo wearing checkered cap), 34, described as Cubans, are escorted by detectives from a New York store where police discovered crated arms feady for shipment. The cache included nine cases of anti-tank guns, 25 Garand rifles and five cases of grenades.

Stevenson Raps McCarthy's Red Coddling Charge

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said today he is sure the Army has not coddled Communists—as charged by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) — "any more than previous Democratic administrations ever coddled a single subversive, traitor or spy deliberately."

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, struck out against what he called "McCarthyism" on his arrival here for the Southeastern Democratic Conference.

The former Illinois governor said that if he is asked for advice by Democratic candidates in this year's campaign for control of Congress, he will urge them to oppose "McCarthyism" because he said it was "distasteful and possibly injurious to the United States."

Stevenson To Go On Air

Asked about McCarthy's charges that the Army has coddled Communists, Stevenson said he will discuss in a radio-television address to the conference tomorrow night the relationship between President Eisenhower and the Wisconsin senator.

"I am sure the Army has not coddled Communists at all any more than the previous Democratic administrations ever coddled a single subversive, traitor or spy deliberately," Stevenson said vigorously.

This was an obvious reference to Republican attacks, including the assertion by Atty. Gen. Brownell that former President Truman had promoted Harry Dexter White, knowing at the time that White was a spy.

Economy Seen Issue

Although he spoke out forcibly in this case, Stevenson said he thinks it is too early to determine how much of an issue the Communists in government investigations will be in the congressional campaign.

The former Illinois governor said he thinks, along with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) and Sen. Russell (D-Ga), that the condition of the national economy will have a great deal to do with next November's election results. He said that economists disagree on their forecasts for the future and he was in no position to know what would happen.

Ginger Rogers Loses Long Locks

PARIS, March 5 (AP)—Veteran movie star Ginger Rogers got her hair cut tonight for the first time since she's been a star and said: "I did it because it looks more modern but mainly because my husband wants it short."

Her husband is French actor Jacques Bergerac. "Now I can run my fingers through her hair more easily," he said gleefully as the coiffeur snipped off the blond locks.

Va. Senate Rejects Truck Tax Measure

RICHMOND, March 5 (AP) — The Virginia Senate today beat down a second legislative effort to require out-of-state truckers to pay a 2 per cent gross receipts tax to bring in some 2 million dollars a year for the road fund.

By a 27 to 11 vote it killed the Fenwick-Palmer-Fitzpatrick bill to call a halt to the policy of reciprocity under which the state absolves the foreign truckers from the receipts tax.

After disposing of the truck bill, the Senate recessed to let its committees go to work and then went back into a floor session for a fight on the bill tightening the enforcement provisions of the state's right-to-work-act.

Thief Snatches $1560 From Hand Of Store Owner

BALTIMORE, March 5 (AP)—Police said a thief snatched an envelope containing $1,560 from the hands of a drug store proprietor today as the Baltimore businessman was walking a scant six blocks from his store to the bank.

The victim of the theft, Steve Mantsangos, said the man who stole the envelope stopped him and asked for directions to catch a downtown bus.

As the man snatched the envelope a No. 11 bus came by and the driver paced the fleeing thief, taking down the license number of a car he climbed into a few blocks away.

Police said the car was stolen.

Potomac Park Tax Rate Fixed

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners was notified yesterday by the Citizens Committee of Potomac Park Addition that the special taxing area will have a 15-cent rate per $100 of assessable property for the coming fiscal year.

The tax rate is based upon a total assessable basis of $725,000 and will raise $1,087.50 for street lights and fire protection.

Another letter was received from Police Commissioner John J. Long in which the board was told the setting aside space in front of the Court House for 15-minute parking is agreeable to the city. The time will allow motorists to obtain their new car tags inside the Court House.

Five letters were received concerning the issuance of a commemorative stamp on the 200th birthday of Fort Cumberland in 1955.

Letters from Rep. Samuel N. Friedel (7th-Md.), Rep. Joseph Martin (14th Mass.), Sen. J. Glenn Beall and Sen. John Marshall Butler in which they said they will give their assistance wherever possible.

Albert J. Robertson, assistant to the postmaster general, also wrote the board stating that the matter has been referred to the Post Office Department for consideration.

An invitation was received to a meeting of county directors of Civil Defense and county commissioners with state Civil Defense officials at the University of Maryland on May 7. A number of federal officials heading the CD program will also attend.

Local Insurance Men Will Attend Meeting

Four representatives of the Cumberland office of the Home Beneficial Life Insurance Company will attend a three-day convention in New York City in May as a result of their work during the past year.

They are Ray F. Hamner, manager; R. H. Potts, J. A. Rowe and E. D. VanMeter, agents.

Kimble To Speak

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who is also safety supervisor for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, will speak on "Safety" and "Legislative Procedure at Annapolis" at a meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

KC Unit Will Present Chalice Tomorrow

The presentation of a chalice, contributed annually to Catholic missionary societies by Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, will feature the communion-breakfast program of the organization tomorrow morning at the Social Center of St. Patrick's Church.

Arthur F. Young, faithful navigator of Taney Assembly, said the breakfast will follow the 8:30 a. m. mass at St. Patrick's. Members are to assemble in formal attire at 8 a. m. in the hall of the parish school, Young explained, and march to the church for the mass.

The chalices are inscribed with the names of the deceased members of the assembly each year, and this year's chalice will carry the name of Martin M. Corrigan, the only member to have died in 1953.

Young said the 1953 chalice will be presented to a relatively new mission society, the Glen-Mary Missioners of Glendale, Ohio. According to Rev. W. Howard Bishop, superior general of the order, the work on the Glen-Mary Missioners is carried on mainly in the United States.

Although Taney Assembly makes no effort to keep records on where the chalices are sent by the various mission bands, Young said it is believed that they are being used daily in masses throughout most of the world.

Chalices in previous years have been presented to the Order of Friars Minor Capuchin, 1948; Maryknoll Missionary Society, 1949; St. Joseph's Society of the Sacred Heart, 1950; the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer (the Redemptorist Order), 1951, and the Jesuit Missionary Society, 1952.

Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, will be the principal speaker at the breakfast, according to John W. Kreidler and John F. O'Rourke, chairmen in charge of arrangements.

Young also announced that the next meeting of the assembly will be held Tuesday night at the K. of C Home in Piedmont.

Board Accepts Food Program

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has sent a letter to Paul Simpson, of the State Department of Budget and Procurement, providing for the county's acceptance of the task of distributing surplus foods to the needy and the methods to be followed.

An agreement will be signed in which the county will be the recipient agency for the surplus food, to be sent here by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The county will certify to Edward L. Vogelman, of the State Department of Budget and Procurement, to number of families and their size which are eligible for the surplus foods.

J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, will be in charge of the distribution and will use county trucks to transport the food to various community depots. All foods will be stored in warehouses in Cumberland.

Tentative distribution points will be at the fire halls in Frostburg, Midland, Lonaconing, Barton, and Westernport and possibly Cresaptown and one or two other communities.

Follow your curiosity to new interests! It will keep you young, and alive!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

As insurance against boredom, and against becoming boresome, a healthy curiosity is something to be cultivated and tenderly nourished.

Although it is possible to travel through life with only a modicum of this quality, those who do so are somewhat like people who travel only at night. They get wherever they are going but they miss a lot of scenery in between.

Young in Spirit

Usually we associate curiosity with youngsters and their eternal inquiry of "why?" Perhaps the difficulty in finding answers gradually causes them to give up the pursuit and settle down into being disillusioned adults. But if you can retain even a nubbin of your early inquiring attitude toward life, you never can actually be termed devoid of youth. At least your orientation is away from self and outward toward the world.

If you are curious about how things are put together and how they were made you can easily be led into new hobbies. In seeking your answers, if some degree of carefulness accompanies your inquiry, you may even find yourself becoming adept in an art or skill that will become a source of livelihood—or even fame.

By giving your curiosity full reign, you may become the parent of some invention or the creator of an idea that will solve a problem for thousands.

Kindling Spark

As all creative people know, one idea sparks another. Quite generally, curiosity generates that spark. People whose livelihood depends on coming up with new ideas, value and expand their curiosity; they learn how to channel and direct it at will.

Of course, curiosity is not necessarily easy to live with. It keeps your mind alert and alive. Those who prefer a half-somnolent state should take care to never respond to any twinge of curiosity. By never responding, in time their curiosity will be so completely subdued that it will never bother them again.

But tell me — have you ever met a person with a bright curiosity who was a dull companion?

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as toneless-ness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

As insurance against boredom, and against becoming boresome, a healthy curiosity is something to be cultivated and tenderly nourished.

Although it is possible to travel through life with only a modicum of this quality, those who do so are somewhat like people who travel only at night. They get wherever they are going but they miss a lot of scenery in between.

Young in Spirit

Usually we associate curiosity with youngsters and their eternal inquiry of "why?" Perhaps the difficulty in finding answers gradually causes them to give up the pursuit and settle down into being disillusioned adults. But if you can retain even a nubbin of your early inquiring attitude toward life, you never can actually be termed, devoid of youth. At least your orientation is away from self and outward toward the world.

If you are curious about how things are put together and how they were made you can easily be led into new hobbies. In seeking your answers, if some degree of carefulness accompanies your inquiry, you may even find yourself becoming adept in an art or skill that will become a source of livelihood—or even fame.

By giving your curiosity full reign, you may become the parent of some invention or the creator of an idea that will solve a problem for thousands.

Kindling Spark

As all creative people know, one idea sparks another. Quite generally, curiosity generates that spark. People whose livelihood depends on coming up with new ideas, value and expand their curiosity; they learn how to channel and direct it at will.

Of course, curiosity is not necessarily easy to live with. It keeps your mind alert and alive. Those who prefer a half-somnolent state should take care to never respond to any twinge of curiosity. By never responding, in time their curiosity will be so completely subdued that it will never bother them again.

But tell me — have you ever met a person with a bright curiosity who was a dull companion?

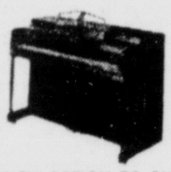

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Communism In Latin America

The threat of international communism in the Western Hemisphere—and what to do about it—poses serious problems for the 10th Inter-American Conference now under way at Caracas, Venezuela. Congressional spokesmen and others in the United States have voiced deep concern over events in Guatemala, where the government in power has been accused of "playing the Communist game" and serving as a "beachhead" for Soviet penetration of the Americas. They have demanded "effective action" by the United States together with other American states to remove the threat to hemispheric security.

Many Latin American countries have been less concerned about the danger of communism than about economic problems of the Americas. A considerable body of opinion in the southern half of the hemisphere is reluctant to arraign Guatemala on what would amount to charges of undermining continental security. In the past few Latin American governments have been willing to take punitive action against a sister republic for any reason short of overt intervention or outright aggression.

Estimates of Red influence in Latin America vary, but most authorities agree that the Communist party, as such, has lost ground in recent years. From a peak of about 390,000 members in 1944-47, Communist party membership in Latin America is believed to have dropped to some 200,000, and voting strength of the party in national elections has been largely dissipated.

More than half of the Latin American governments have outlawed the Communist party or curbed its activities. In 13 of the 20 republics, the party has been effectively disenfranchised. The constitution of Costa Rica and Nicaragua ban the Communists and forbid the formation of any political party or organization with "foreign" connections. Eleven other countries have suppressed the Reds and other subversive groups by law or decree: Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Haiti, Honduras, Panama, Paraguay, Peru and Venezuela have all enacted anti-Communist laws since 1947.

With the exception of Guatemala, the only Latin American countries in which avowed Communists hold seats in the national legislatures are Uruguay and Ecuador. In Uruguay, the Reds won two seats in the last election with 2.3 per cent of the popular vote. In Ecuador, the party polled less than one per cent of the vote but captured one seat in the parliament.

The "fallacy of numbers" in gauging Communist strength is illustrated in the case of Guatemala, where a relatively small group of hard-core Communists admittedly wields political power and influence out of all proportion to its numerical strength. Estimates of Communist (Labor) party membership there range from 500 to not more than 2,500, and the party holds only 4 of the 51 seats in the Guatemalan Congress. Its influence, however, has been felt in virtually every phase of Guatemala's political and economic life.

According to information submitted to the Senate by Chairman Wiley of the Foreign Relations Committee on January 14, Communists hold key posts in important agencies of the Guatemalan government, including the Social Security agency, the Labor department, the government-owned radio station, and the press section of the president's information office. One of the leaders of the party heads the Guatemalan Confederation of Labor.

Legally enrolled as a national political party, the Communist-led group is a member of the governing coalition and has cooperated with President Arbenz in carrying out the government program of nationalization and agrarian reform. Guatemalan denials that the government is dominated by Communists have not stemmed the flow of allegations that the Arbenz regime is allowing the country to come under the domination of Moscow.

Precedent For Geneva

Secretary of State Dulles has been assuring members of Congress that this country is not recognizing the Chinese Communists, nor their claim for admission to the United Nations, in accepting their presence at the Geneva Conference on April 26. The conference was arranged at the recent meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers at Berlin to reach a "peaceful settlement of the Korean question" and to discuss "the problem of restoring peace in Indochina.

The Berlin communique on the conference stipulated that this was "not to be deemed to imply diplomatic recognition in any case where it has not already been accorded." And 22 years ago the United States met with Communists it did not recognize—at that time the Russian variety—without recognition ensuing as a result.

This was also at Geneva, to try to work out limitations of armaments. The Hoover administration had followed the policy of the Wilson, Harding and Coolidge administrations in withholding recognition from Soviet Russia, which up to that time had also been barred from the League of Nations.

At the 1932 Geneva Conference the Russians were all for disarmament, limited or unlimited, and gave much support to the American proposals, until these were whittled down by the conference. But the Hoover administration still refused to recognize Russia, and diplomatic recognition by the United States had to wait until the following year, after Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democratic party had taken over.

Comfort For Hogs

Farming today is a complicated, scientific process that entails huge expenditures for mobile equipment and machinery, and a man on the farm today must be constantly alert to new methods of cutting costs and improving production.

The pattern is the same as that which applies to industry. Methods of 20 years ago, which were considered marvelously ingenious at the time, are being left far behind.

Take the news item from a small town in Georgia, which reports that a hog raiser has installed air conditioning in his pens because he finds that it pays cash dividends. Before long other farmers will be doing likewise, if the claims of better profits hold up. And why not? Hog farmers are in business to make money from hogs, and if air conditioning will contribute to that end, it would be foolish not to install air conditioning merely because nothing of the sort was done in the past.

It isn't difficult to visualize the result. Food stores of the future probably will advertise "hams from air conditioned hogs," and restaurants will feature "air conditioned pork chops."

Self-Vaccination

One of the most remarkable examples of Yankee ingenuity occurred on board a prisoner of war ship during the Revolutionary War. The account appeared in "American Rebels" by Richard M. Dorson and concerned an American naval officer, Thomas Dring, who was captured and taken aboard the British ship, the Jersey. It was said that more than 10,000 American prisoners of war died from sickness and starvation aboard this loathsome boat.

Dring arrived at night and had been thrust into one of the lower decks, which was overcrowded with human wrecks. Next morning, two disturbing circumstances confronted him. The black silk handkerchief around his neck was completely dotted with vermin and the sight brought the shocked realization that these parasites would be his "constant companions and unceasing tormentors" so long as he remained on board.

The next sight was a man suffering from smallpox and then, as he turned, he say many more victims. Dring had never suffered from smallpox and decided that immediate protection was essential. Since there were no physicians or vaccines, he looked about and found a man with a fresh pustule and asked for some of the secretion from the lesion. Next, he had to find a suitable instrument, which turned out to be a common pin. He dipped the pin into the pus and scarified the skin of one hand between the thumb and index finger. The vaccination was effective; a light case of smallpox occurred, requiring little or no attention. The scar was still visible 40 years later and whenever he looked at this hand, he was reminded of his good fortune.

When Dring first boarded the Jersey, he was disconcerted by the looks of the prisoners who had come long before. Their appearance was in sharp contrast to the new arrivals who were ruddy and cheerful as sailors usually are. The old timers were "shrunken and decayed" and it disturbed the newcomers who realized that their predecessors once had been strong and vigorous.

Dring was released after five months of imprisonment and in his diary, ascribed his good health as a captive to the fact that he never ate any of the food cooked in copper kettles. It was the practice, on the Jersey, to cook meat in a copper vat in sea water taken from alongside the ship. Dring wrote that the vat was "corroded and poisonous, the fatal consequences of which were so obvious that I need not enlarge upon the subject."

WALKING IS TOUGH

Mrs. S. writes: I am 83 years old and suffering from hardening of the arteries. When I try to walk sometimes my feet refuse to move and I'm worried about it. What can I do?

REPLY

Stay under the care of a physician as there are numerous remedies for hardening of the leg arteries. The list includes drugs that dilate the vessels and a host of mechanical aids. It also helps to keep the feet clean and warm and to avoid injury, no matter how trivial.

FOOD FADS

S. F. writes: I am a great believer in health foods and take garlic for pure blood, onions for real sleep, and lemons for good digestion. What is your opinion?

REPLY

Everyone agrees that food encourages health but I have never seen any scientific proof that certain foods have the specific effects you mention. Garlic has no magical power to purify the blood and I've heard of more people who were wakeful at night because of eating onions than were put to sleep by this vegetable.

DEAFNESS

D. A. writes: One doctor says otosclerosis is causing my deafness, and another says it is due to nerve degeneration. I'm confused.

REPLY

There is a possibility that both exist so why not discuss this matter with the physician you have the most confidence in?

Thought For Food

England is taking all controls off its austerity after 14 long years of short rations.

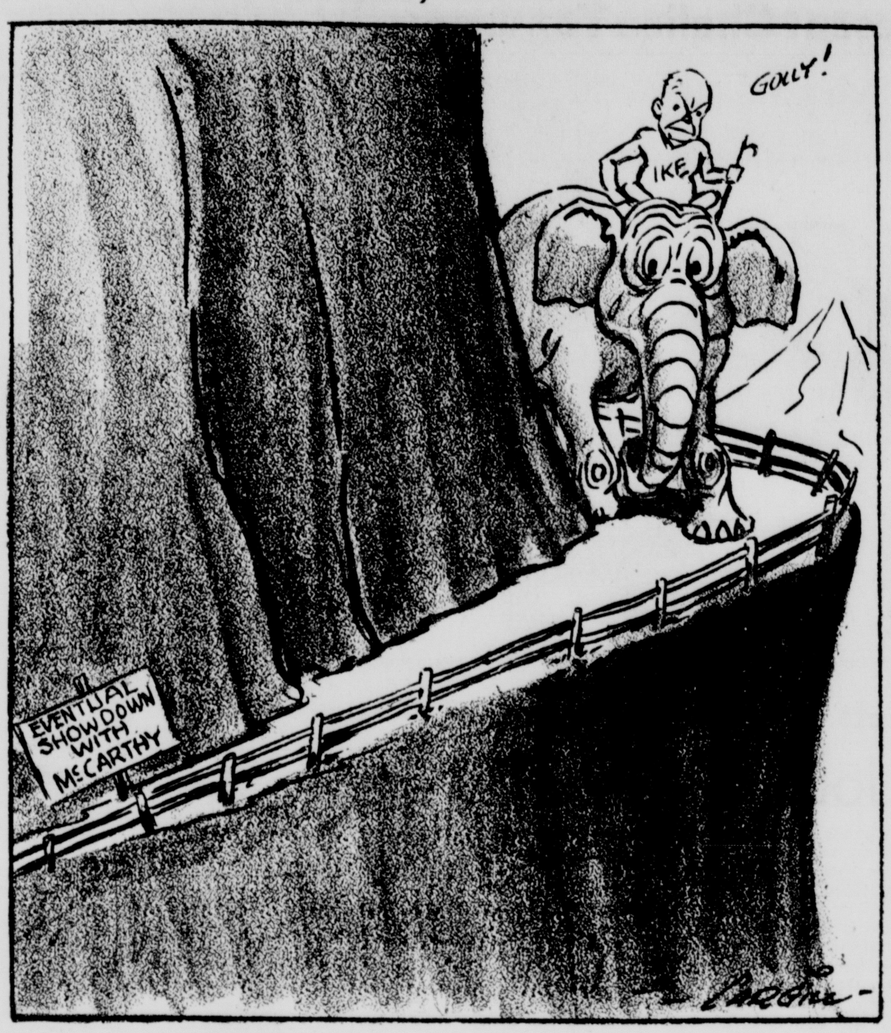

It tightened its belt on its appetite. And also its shoe-laces on its gout.

It was a terrific siege but we are glad to accolade the British on their victory. The Spartan youth returns on his cafeteria platter.

The first eclipse of the menu started in 1940 when Shickelgruber was off and running. You remember the man who used a three-em dash for a mustache.

The British can now order both ends of an egg, run riot to their knees in parsley, make one snap of a cherry, smother on oyster in grated nutmeg and bite off the ends of an acre of asparagus.

Secretary Stevens Refused To Blame His Troubles On Harry Truman; Nationalist Puerto Rican Released From Jail Because Of Insanity And Martyrdom.

WASHINGTON — When naive, fair-minded Secretary of the Army Stevens huddled with Republican members of Senator McCarthy's investigating committee, Senator Mundt of South Dakota typed out their mutual agreement with three fingers on a typewriter.

In it he inserted a paragraph that the trouble inside the Army—over Major Peress, Genehal Zwicker, etc.—was all the fault of the previous administration, referring of course to Truman days.

"No," remonstrated Secretary Stevens, "that was not the case, and it would not be fair to say so."

Insane Puerto Rican

Puerto Rico's statesmanlike Gov. Luis Munoz-Marian has been asked why he released Nationalist leader Albizu Campos from jail last September despite the fact that Campos lived for two years in the home of Oscar Collazo, one of the two Nationalists who tried to kill President Truman in 1950 and who also plotted against Munoz-Marin.

Discussing this with me, Governor Munoz explained:

"Campos had become a martyr to many people and the longer he remained in jail, the more martyrdom he assumed. Actually he was a mental case. And now that he is released from jail, people can see how crazy he is and no longer take him seriously.

"While in jail, Campos wore cold towels around his head to protect him—so he claimed—from atomic rays from the United States," Governor Munoz explained. "He was convinced that the United States Government was directing atomic rays into his jail cell to kill him.

"Now that he is out of jail, he still wears the towels around his as that of Jimmy Walker or Bill head, and of course people realize that if the United States had the power to direct such a ray they would have used it first perhaps on such a person as Joe Stalin. So he has become quite ludicrous to the people who once looked up to him as a great martyr.

"The editor of Bohemian, the Cuban magazine, for instance, was among those who wanted to make a martyr of Campos; play him up as a victim of United States oppression. However, when they came to see him and realized his mental condition they changed their tune."

I asked the governor whether Puerto Rican Nationalists were visiting Campos today and whether he might have helped to plot the recent attack on Congress.

"Unfortunately," Governor Munoz replied, "Campos was probably in contact with the Nationalists just as much while in jail as today. Under our democratic process he had a right to see his lawyer and also members of his family. And as long as he was in jail, I'm sure the Nationalists went out of their way to try to get messages to him and also to revere him as a saint.

"I doubt whether Campos had much to do with this unfortunate incident," the governor concluded. "It is a few young hotheads who were responsible."

No Curb On Senate Probes

Senator Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the powerful Republican Policy Committee of the Senate, seemed to mean business when he announced an overhauling of Senate investigative procedure. He even told newsmen that the overhaul was aimed at Senator McCarthy's methods. It was also made known that the President himself wanted such an overhaul.

However, the charming senator from Michigan is not a man who shows great determination when put on the hot spot as far as other senators are concerned. Once before, when he was chairman of the committee McCarthy now presides over, Ferguson let it be known he would probe the speculation of Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, a Democrat who used his high place on the Senate Agriculture Committee to speculate in cotton and other farm products.

Though Ferguson actually started the probe, he suddenly called it off.

His right-about-face took place after receiving a letter from Senator Thomas — subsequently published in this column — in which Thomas told him he knew of certain favors received by the Ferguson family from the Chrysler Company in Detroit.

After receipt of the Thomas letter, the senator from Michigan said no more about probing the senator from Oklahoma.

Though Ferguson started out with a bang regarding a probe of McCarthy's tactic, he has now quietly decided that any committee reforms shall be by "mutual consent." To this end he is currently in the process of calling up Senate committee chairmen, asking them to please follow the rules of fair play.

In other words, the Republican Policy Committee is merely appealing to the same Senate committee chairmen who have been guilty of abuse in the past. No new rules or legislation will be adopted to curb or modify Senate investigations.

Here And Now

Making Ends Meet

"Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown,
What are you going to do
When the rent comes round?"

That's right on the nerve of a ticklish situation in many a household where an endless chain of bills keeps coming in for which scant preparation, if any, has been made to pay.

How to make ends meet is a problem that comes closer home to most of us than how to pay the national debt.

The happy-go-lucky folks will let their bills ride, in the hope that eventually, after the collector wears out his shoe-soles and welcome, the bills will be forgotten.

But the more responsible ones will contrive to pay the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick-maker, even if they have to borrow the money to do it.

In addition they will have such "artificial necessities" as tobacco, chewing gum and the News, which they will not overlook.

Too Busy To Make Money

Some people are allergic to money. It burns holes in their pockets. Others have a penchant for its accumulation. Their chief occupation is clipping coupons, and their chief recreation is chasing dollars.

There are still others who begrudge the time they have to take out to make money enough to live. They are primarily interested in things transcendental.

Louis Agassiz was so busy with his science that he didn't have time to make money. If one is too busy to do anything else but make money he is too busy.

The idea of "making ends meet' is foreign to the vocabulary of some notable people you have known in history.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, speaker of the national House of Representatives from 1901 to 1911, was a profligate spender. When his credit at the bank was exhausted and he was required to put up additional collateral for a new loan, and he didn't have it to offer, he lamented, "What this country needs is more collateral." He it was who on another occasion said, "What this country needs is a good 5-cent cigar."

Henry Watterson (1840-1921), founder and editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, one of the most influential papers in the country at the time, had small pecuniary sense.

He had a way of taking money from the office till on going out to lunch, much to the confusion of the cashier.

Not Much Help

Finally he was implored to leave a memorandum of these withdrawals, so the bookkeeper could keep his records straight.

Next day, the cashier found in his till a note which read: "I took all there was."

On the theory that "a dollar saved is a dollar earned," women (generally speaking) are coequal with their husbands in keeping the exchequer in status quo.

They are the proverbial bargain hunters, and out of their savings and management have become owners of our factories, stores, utilities and material resources.

They spend 85 cents out of every dollar for consumer goods, and suggest what their men should do with the other 15 cents.

The family usually fares better if Mrs. Wife is "comptroller of the currency," and the breadwinner might better turn over his pay check to her if he wants their money to go farther, if not faster. If she overdraws the account she can always write a check to replace the deficit!

It's a good idea to keep one's credit good. A friend of this scribe said he could borrow $200 at the bank any time. And the reason why he could was because he didn't.

Golden Rule Of Solvency

If ever one is financially embarrassed there is usually a way to circumvent it. A certain preacher often borrowed a dollar before going into the pulpit, to give him a feeling of respectability.

The golden rule of financial solvency is: Make more, spend less, make ends meet."

Sometimes "pennies fall from heaven." A "blessed event" is deductible. The boss has a tender feeling and increases your pay when he sees you earn it.

Use your initiative. Most of us have spare time and latent skills that may be employed to yield a revenue.

Read Genesis 30:25-43 and see how a poor man got rich quick by employing his native ingenuity.

Jacob hoodwinked "Uncle Laban" into signing on the dotted line. Then he used his knowledge of animal husbandry and birth control, though unscrupulously, to obtain a monopoly on the milk and wool markets, leaving his uncle barely enough money to pay his income tax.

A wise man said: "Give me neither poverty or riches; feed me with the food that is needful for me, lest I be full, and deny thee, and say, 'Who is the Lord?' or lest I be poor, and steal, and profane the name of my God" (Proverbs 30:8-9). Money is not the chief good in life, or poverty the greatest evil.

If some fairy should drop in your pathway a penny and a dollar bill and you were permitted to pick up one or the other but not both, you would probably seize upon the dollar. In that you would make a mistake, for if one will take care of the pennies the dollars will take care of themselves!

Whew!

"Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which does not satisfy?" (Isaiah 55:2).

Financially yours,

BROTHER BARNABAS

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

The McCarthy Plan

WASHINGTON

The political strategy of Sen. McCarthy is now pretty plain. One can predict rather confidently that he will adopt the following course of action in these next months.

During the present session of Congress, McCarthy will chiefly devote himself to painting the Army red, precisely because it was the Army that raised the President to greatness.

During the congressional election, McCarthy will work even harder to paint the Democrats red, especially in key states like Illinois.

If the Democrats nonetheless win the election, McCarthy will blame Eisenhower for protecting those who would "protect communism." This theme was struck for the first time, in the senator's astonishing comment on the Eisenhower press conference.

If the Republicans win the election, McCarthy will claim all the credit. The ground work for this claim is being helpfully laid by the President's own political advisers, who persist in planning to use McCarthy as their party's star turn this year.

This is to be the buildup in turn for McCarthy's big show for 1955. Unless the signs deceive, the 1955 big show will be painting Eisenhower red.

This will be the final maneuver in turn of an effort to dominate the Republican convention in 1956. Dominating the 1956 convention, gaining control of the Republican party, are the declared objectives of McCarthy and his allies. Their strategy for doing so is already well developed.

Report Was Premature

The eventual smearing of Eisenhower is necessary to that strategy because this is the only way that the party authority of a president in office can conceivably be challenged.

The suggestion that McCarthy can even consider smearing Eisenhower will no doubt astonish and outrage great numbers of people. But even today, the country seems to regard the presence of a suspected Communist in the inglorious uniform of an Army dentist as serious proof of dark, far-reaching plots. Even today, many people really believe that Maj. Peress was undermining the foundations of the Republic while he drilled GI teeth. What may not be believed later on?

As to the nature of the projected smear of the President, that can be easily foreseen. In the immediate post-war period in Germany, when the President was still in command there, a good many things were done that look pretty silly by hindsight. Some of these things were demonstrably done, moreover, as a result of Communist influence in the lower echelons of the President's staff. One of these reporters disclosed the situation back in 1946. "The fact is incontestable," it was then stated in this space, "that a considerable number of American Communists (somehow) found posts in the military government." The details of their influence were also given.

Those were the days, however, when the Wisconsin CIO, then thoroughly Communist-dominated, gave Cen. McCarthy his primary victory over Sen. LaFollette. In that distant period, when McCarthy was asked about his Communist supporters, he could still reply airily, "Well, Communists vote, don't they?"

In other words, these reporters' anti-communism was somewhat premature. Their report from Germany produced no result, back in 1946, except to give a little extra urgency to the clean-up of military government by the President's successor in command, Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Created National Mood

Nowadays, however, the same facts that formerly attracted no attention would quite probably reduce the country to a condition of seething hysteria.

Few people, nowadays, would bear in mind the post-war confusion that gave the Communists their opportunity. Few people, nowadays, would bother to remember that our early mistakes in Germany did no great harm in the end. Very few people, nowadays, would even trouble to consider that the President had no notion of the Communist affiliation of some members of his staff.

McCarthy well understands this national mood. Why should he not, when he created it? He has been collecting the details of the German story, which are numerous, well documented and extremely bizarre. It is clear he means to throw these facts at Eisenhower when, as, and if the opportunity offers.

McCarthy will get his opportunity whenever he has been built up to the point where a great many people will take his word against the President. Certain members of the President's own staff are carrying on that build-up by the repeated appeasements which McCarthy knows so well how to extort from them. Altogether, the McCarthy plan may be the symptom of a diseased ambition, but it also shows a characteristic wild shrewdness.

Fortunately, McCarthy's reaction to the President's press conference seems to have shocked even the most obstinate of the White House appeasers into a sense of their danger. The President still has a chance to sound the clarion call. He is still able to restore the national sense of proportion and give back a semblance of decency to our political life. And if the President moves to do these things, the McCarthy plan will be instantly frustrated.

These Days

The Cop On The Beat

J. Edgar Hoover, year by year, calls attention to the increase of juvenile delinquency and his statements fall on dullened ears. Nobody does much about it, perhaps because this country is becoming accustomed to crime. In fact, crime has become a principal form of amusement.

Frank S. Hogan, district attorney of New York County, apparently assumes that he will lessen this interest in crime by withholding news in advance of trials. Actually, he will succeed only in heightening interest in crime because suppression always whets the appetite. He picked a poor subject for a test of censorship, the murder of the Bodenheims, which, while gruesome, produced no sustaining excitement. To most, Max Bodenheim was just a funny-looking drunk and his alleged, if you please, murderer a poor sap.

What with murder a daily fare on the air, the private-eye story being a substitute for the tiresome soap opera and a means to avoid controversy, with many toys imitations of murderous weapons, with comics for children emphasizing murder, it is not surprising that crime is increasingly fashionable and that young boys strut their heroics before boy-crazy teen-agers as was done in other periods when the man who killed rode on a horse, while the man of peace was an object of ridicule.

Here in New York, we are going through a police revolution which may die on the vine as such things often do or which may bring about a startling change of attitude toward crime. We have a new mayor who may produce a better-policed and a cleaner city or who may weary of the effort because of lack of interest among the citizens who usually like to complain but rarely support an effort to correct the things complained about. If given half a chance, this police revolution can do much to lessen crime in this big city and perhaps set an example for the country.

Robert A. Wagner, the new mayor, is a difficult man to understand because his training has been in Tammany Hall. Before becoming mayor, not too much was expected of him. In fact, it looked as though we were in for another Tammany regime, not as colorful O'Dwyer, but more honest.

When it came to making appointments, however, Robert Wagner hit the city a wallop. He appointed a set of unusually competent men without regard to political affiliations. And as police commissioner, he appointed a complete outsider, Francis W. H. Adams, a man without police experience but who has studied police problems since the days when he was in the Department of Justice. He hates crime like a G-man.

Adams established it on the very first day that he went to work that he expected the police force to be a disciplined organization, responsible for the peace of the city and the suppression of crime.

That meant putting the policeman back on the beat, a walking policeman who will know the storekeepers and the janitors and the children who play on the sidewalks. It means watching a kid grow into a fierce punk and stopping the process before a jail sentence becomes inevitable. It means getting wise to marijuana and heroin pushers and catching up with them before a murder is committed. It means a humane understanding of all the complex problems of a big city and catching them on the beat, which is where they express themselves first.

That is police work and good policemen like that kind of work. Those who do not like it should get themselves jobs elsewhere. Adams abolished the police band and glee club because the city is short of policemen and these men were hired for policing. If a band is needed for an occasion, it can be hired from Petrillo's union. Discipline and order within the force became the watchword and of course that started trouble, which the mayor faced staunchly.

In many cities, motorization of the police force has made the police impersonal and remote from the citizens. A police officer cannot know children when he is in a prowl car. He cannot watch the recruiting criminal by a glance out of his left eye. The return of the cop to the beat can be the first great forward step in the battle to save our children from the forces of corruption.

Communism In Latin America

The threat of international communism in the Western Hemisphere—and what to do about it—poses serious problems for the 10th Inter-American Conference now under way at Caracas, Venezuela. Congressional spokesmen and others in the United States have voiced deep concern over events in Guatemala, where the government in power has been accused of "playing the Communist game" and serving as a "beachhead" for Soviet penetration of the Americas. They have demanded "effective action" by the United States together with other American states to remove the threat to hemispheric security.

Many Latin American countries have been less concerned about the danger of communism than about economic problems of the Americas. A considerable body of opinion in the southern half of the hemisphere is reluctant to arraign Guatemala on what would amount to charges of undermining continental security. In the past few Latin American governments have been willing to take punitive action against a sister republic for any reason short of overt intervention or outright aggression.

Estimates of Red influence in Latin America vary, but most authorities agree that the Communist party, as such, has lost ground in recent years. From a peak of about 390,000 members in 1944-47, Communist party membership in Latin America is believed to have dropped to some 200,000, and voting strength of the party in national elections has been largely dissipated.

More than half of the Latin American governments have outlawed the Communist party or curbed its activities. In 13 of the 20 republics, the party has been effectively disenfranchised. The constitution of Costa Rica and Nicaragua ban the Communists and forbid the formation of any political party or organization with "foreign" connections. Eleven other countries have suppressed the Reds and other subversive groups by law or decree: Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Haiti, Honduras, Panama, Paraguay, Peru and Venezuela have all enacted anti-Communist laws since 1947.

With the exception of Guatemala, the only Latin American countries in which avowed Communists hold seats in the national legislatures are Uruguay and Ecuador. In Uruguay, the Reds won two seats in the last election with 2.3 per cent of the popular vote. In Ecuador, the party polled less than one per cent of the vote but captured one seat in the parliament.

The "fallacy of numbers" in gauging Communist strength is illustrated in the case of Guatemala, where a relatively small group of hard-core Communists admittedly wields political power and influence out of all proportion to its numerical strength. Estimates of Communist (Labor) party membership there range from 500 to not more than 2,500, and the party holds only 4 of the 51 seats in the Guatemalan Congress. Its influence, however, has been felt in virtually every phase of Guatemala's political and economic life.

According to information submitted to the Senate by Chairman Wiley of the Foreign Relations Committee on January 14, Communists hold key posts in important agencies of the Guatemalan government, including the Social Security agency, the Labor department, the government-owned radio station, and the press section of the president's information office. One of the leaders of the party heads the Guatemalan Confederation of Labor.

Legally enrolled as a national political party, the Communist-led group is a member of the governing coalition and has cooperated with President Arbenz in carrying out the government program of nationalization and agrarian reform. Guatemalan denials that the government is dominated by Communists have not stemmed the flow of allegations that the Arbenz regime is allowing the country to come under the domination of Moscow.

Precedent For Geneva

Secretary of State Dulles has been assuring members of Congress that this country is not recognizing the Chinese Communists, nor their claim for admission to the United Nations, in accepting their presence at the Geneva Conference on April 26. The conference was arranged at the recent meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers at Berlin to reach a "peaceful settlement of the Korean question" and to discuss "the problem of restoring peace in Indochina.

The Berlin communique on the conference stipulated that this was "not to be deemed to imply diplomatic recognition in any case where it has not already been accorded." And 22 years ago the United States met with Communists it did not recognize—at that time the Russian variety—without recognition ensuing as a result.

This was also at Geneva, to try to work out limitations of armaments. The Hoover administration had followed the policy of the Wilson, Harding and Coolidge administrations in withholding recognition from Soviet Russia, which up to that time had also been barred from the League of Nations.

At the 1932 Geneva Conference the Russians were all for disarmament, limited or unlimited, and gave much support to the American proposals, until these were whittled down by the conference. But the Hoover administration still refused to recognize Russia, and diplomatic recognition by the United States had to wait until the following year, after Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democratic party had taken over.

Comfort For Hogs

Farming today is a complicated, scientific process that entails huge expenditures for mobile equipment and machinery, and a man on the farm today must be constantly alert to new methods of cutting costs and improving production.

The pattern is the same as that which applies to industry. Methods of 20 years ago, which were considered marvelously ingenious at the time, are being left far behind.

Take the news item from a small town in Georgia, which reports that a hog raiser has installed air conditioning in his pens because he finds that it pays cash dividends. Before long other farmers will be doing likewise, if the claims of better profits hold up. And why not? Hog farmers are in business to make money from hogs, and if air conditioning will contribute to that end, it would be foolish not to install air conditioning merely because nothing of the sort was done in the past.

It isn't difficult to visualize the result. Food stores of the future probably will advertise "hams from air conditioned hogs," and restaurants will feature "air conditioned pork chops."

Self-Vaccination

One of the most remarkable examples of Yankee ingenuity occurred on board a prisoner of war ship during the Revolutionary War. The account appeared in "American Rebels" by Richard M. Dorson and concerned an American naval officer, Thomas Dring, who was captured and taken aboard the British ship, the Jersey. It was said that more than 10,000 American prisoners of war died from sickness and starvation aboard this loathsome boat.

Dring arrived at night and had been thrust into one of the lower decks, which was overcrowded with human wrecks. Next morning, two disturbing circumstances confronted him. The black silk handkerchief around his neck was completely dotted with vermin and the sight brought the shocked realization that these parasites would be his "constant companions and unceasing tormentors" so long as he remained on board.

The next sight was a man suffering from smallpox and then, as he turned, he say many more victims. Dring had never suffered from smallpox and decided that immediate protection was essential. Since there were no physicians or vaccines, he looked about and found a man with a fresh pustule and asked for some of the secretion from the lesion. Next, he had to find a suitable instrument, which turned out to be a common pin. He dipped the pin into the pus and scarified the skin of one hand between the thumb and index finger. The vaccination was effective; a light case of smallpox occurred, requiring little or no attention. The scar was still visible 40 years later and whenever he looked at this hand, he was reminded of his good fortune.

When Dring first boarded the Jersey, he was disconcerted by the looks of the prisoners who had come long before. Their appearance was in sharp contrast to the new arrivals who were ruddy and cheerful as sailors usually are. The old timers were "shrunken and decayed" and it disturbed the newcomers who realized that their predecessors once had been strong and vigorous.

Dring was released after five months of imprisonment and in his diary, ascribed his good health as a captive to the fact that he never ate any of the food cooked in copper kettles. It was the practice, on the Jersey, to cook meat in a copper vat in sea water taken from alongside the ship. Dring wrote that the vat was "corroded and poisonous, the fatal consequences of which were so obvious that I need not enlarge upon the subject."

WALKING IS TOUGH

Mrs. S. writes: I am 83 years old and suffering from hardening of the arteries. When I try to walk sometimes my feet refuse to move and I'm worried about it. What can I do?

REPLY

Stay under the care of a physician as there are numerous remedies for hardening of the leg arteries. The list includes drugs that dilate the vessels and a host of mechanical aids. It also helps to keep the feet clean and warm and to avoid injury, no matter how trivial.

FOOD FADS

S. F. writes: I am a great believer in health foods and take garlic for pure blood, onions for real sleep, and lemons for good digestion. What is your opinion?

REPLY

Everyone agrees that food encourages health but I have never seen any scientific proof that certain foods have the specific effects you mention. Garlic has no magical power to purify the blood and I've heard of more people who were wakeful at night because of eating onions than were put to sleep by this vegetable.

DEAFNESS

D. A. writes: One doctor says otosclerosis is causing my deafness, and another says it is due to nerve degeneration. I'm confused.

REPLY

There is a possibility that both exist so why not discuss this matter with the physician you have the most confidence in?

Thought For Food

England is taking all controls off its austerity after 14 long years of short rations.

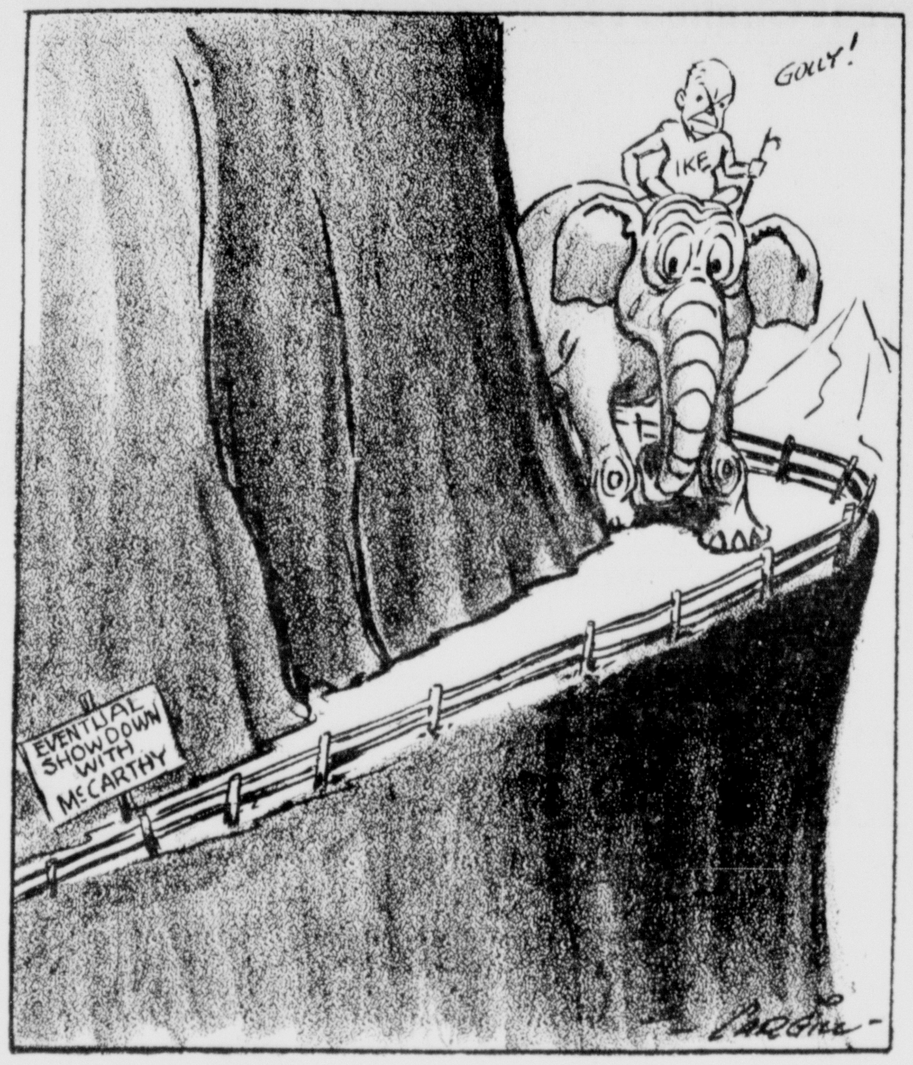

It tightened its belt on its appetite. And also its shoe-laces on its gout.

It was a terrific siege but we are glad to accolade the British on their victory. The Spartan youth returns on his cafeteria platter.

The first eclipse of the menu started in 1940 when Shickelgruber was off and running. You remember the man who used a three-em dash for a mustache.

The British can now order both ends of an egg, run riot to their knees in parsley, make one snap of a cherry, smother on oyster in grated nutmeg and bite off the ends of an acre of asparagus.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Secretary Stevens Refused To Blame His Troubles On Harry Truman; Nationalist Puerto Rican Released From Jail Because Of Insanity And Martyrdom.

WASHINGTON — When naive, fair-minded Secretary of the Army Stevens huddled with Republican members of Senator McCarthy's investigating committee, Senator Mundt of South Dakota typed out their mutual agreement with three fingers on a typewriter.

In it he inserted a paragraph that the trouble inside the Army—over Major Peress, Genehal Zwicker, etc.—was all the fault of the previous administration, referring of course to Truman days.

"No," remonstrated Secretary Stevens, "that was not the case, and it would not be fair to say so."

Insane Puerto Rican

Puerto Rico's statesmanlike Gov. Luis Munoz-Marian has been asked why he released Nationalist leader Albizu Campos from jail last September despite the fact that Campos lived for two years in the home of Oscar Collazo, one of the two Nationalists who tried to kill President Truman in 1950 and who also plotted against Munoz-Marin.

Discussing this with me, Governor Munoz explained:

"Campos had become a martyr to many people and the longer he remained in jail, the more martyrdom he assumed. Actually he was a mental case. And now that he is released from jail, people can see how crazy he is and no longer take him seriously.

"While in jail, Campos wore cold towels around his head to protect him—so he claimed—from atomic rays from the United States," Governor Munoz explained. "He was convinced that the United States Government was directing atomic rays into his jail cell to kill him.

"Now that he is out of jail, he still wears the towels around his as that of Jimmy Walker or Bill head, and of course people realize that if the United States had the power to direct such a ray they would have used it first perhaps on such a person as Joe Stalin. So he has become quite ludicrous to the people who once looked up to him as a great martyr.

"The editor of Bohemian, the Cuban magazine, for instance, was among those who wanted to make a martyr of Campos; play him up as a victim of United States oppression. However, when they came to see him and realized his mental condition they changed their tune."

I asked the governor whether Puerto Rican Nationalists were visiting Campos today and whether he might have helped to plot the recent attack on Congress.

"Unfortunately," Governor Munoz replied, "Campos was probably in contact with the Nationalists just as much while in jail as today. Under our democratic process he had a right to see his lawyer and also members of his family. And as long as he was in jail, I'm sure the Nationalists went out of their way to try to get messages to him and also to revere him as a saint.

"I doubt whether Campos had much to do with this unfortunate incident," the governor concluded. "It is a few young hotheads who were responsible."

No Curb On Senate Probes

Senator Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the powerful Republican Policy Committee of the Senate, seemed to mean business when he announced an overhauling of Senate investigative procedure. He even told newsmen that the overhaul was aimed at Senator McCarthy's methods. It was also made known that the President himself wanted such an overhaul.

However, the charming senator from Michigan is not a man who shows great determination when put on the hot spot as far as other senators are concerned. Once before, when he was chairman of the committee McCarthy now presides over, Ferguson let it be known he would probe the speculation of Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, a Democrat who used his high place on the Senate Agriculture Committee to speculate in cotton and other farm products.

Though Ferguson actually started the probe, he suddenly called it off.

His right-about-face took place after receiving a letter from Senator Thomas — subsequently published in this column — in which Thomas told him he knew of certain favors received by the Ferguson family from the Chrysler Company in Detroit.

After receipt of the Thomas letter, the senator from Michigan said no more about probing the senator from Oklahoma.

Though Ferguson started out with a bang regarding a probe of McCarthy's tactic, he has now quietly decided that any committee reforms shall be by "mutual consent." To this end he is currently in the process of calling up Senate committee chairmen, asking them to please follow the rules of fair play.

In other words, the Republican Policy Committee is merely appealing to the same Senate committee chairmen who have been guilty of abuse in the past. No new rules or legislation will be adopted to curb or modify Senate investigations.

Here And Now

Making Ends Meet

"Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown,
What are you going to do
When the rent comes round?"

That's right on the nerve of a ticklish situation in many a household where an endless chain of bills keeps coming in for which scant preparation, if any, has been made to pay.

How to make ends meet is a problem that comes closer home to most of us than how to pay the national debt.

The happy-go-lucky folks will let their bills ride, in the hope that eventually, after the collector wears out his shoe-soles and welcome, the bills will be forgotten.

But the more responsible ones will contrive to pay the butcher, the baker, and the candlestickmaker, even if they have to borrow the money to do it.

In addition they will have such "artificial necessities" as tobacco, chewing gum and the News, which they will not overlook.

Too Busy To Make Money

Some people are allergic to money. It burns holes in their pockets. Others have a penchant for its accumulation. Their chief occupation is clipping coupons, and their chief recreation is chasing dollars.

There are still others who begrudge the time they have to take out to make money enough to live. They are primarily interested in things transcendental.

Louis Agassiz was so busy with his science that he didn't have time to make money. If one is too busy to do anything else but make money he is too busy.

The idea of "making ends meet" is foreign to the vocabulary of some notable people you have known in history.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, speaker of the national House of Representatives from 1901 to 1911, was a profligate spender. When his credit at the bank was exhausted and he was required to put up additional collateral for a new loan, and he didn't have it to offer, he lamented, "What this country needs is more collateral." He it was who on another occasion said, "What this country needs is a good 5-cent cigar."

Henry Watterson (1840-1921), founder and editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, one of the most influential papers in the country at the time, had small pecuniary sense.

He had a way of taking money from the office till on going out to lunch, much to the confusion of the cashier.

Not Much Help

Finally he was implored to leave a memorandum of these withdrawals, so the bookkeeper could keep his records straight.

Next day, the cashier found in his till a note which read: "I took all there was."

On the theory that "a dollar saved is a dollar earned," women (generally speaking) are coequal with their husbands in keeping the exchequer in status quo.

They are the proverbial bargain hunters, and out of their savings and management have become owners of our factories, stores, utilities and material resources.

They spend 85 cents out of every dollar for consumer goods, and suggest what their men should do with the other 15 cents.

The family usually fares better if Mrs. Wife is "comptroller of the currency," and the breadwinner might better turn over his pay check to her if he wants their money to go farther, if not faster. If she overdraws the account she can always write a check to replace the deficit!

It's a good idea to keep one's credit good. A friend of this scribe said he could borrow $200 at the bank any time. And the reason why he could was because he didn't.

Golden Rule Of Solvency

If ever one is financially embarrassed there is usually a way to circumvent it. A certain preacher often borrowed a dollar before going into the pulpit, to give him a feeling of respectability.

The golden rule of financial solvency is: Make more, spend less, make ends meet."

Sometimes "pennies fall from heaven." A "blessed event" is deductible. The boss has a tender feeling and increases your pay when he sees you earn it.

Use your initiative. Most of us have spare time and latent skills that may be employed to yield a revenue.

Read Genesis 30:25-43 and see how a poor man got rich quick by employing his native ingenuity.

Jacob hoodwinked "Uncle Laban" into signing on the dotted line. Then he used his knowledge of animal husbandry and birth control, though unscrupulously, to obtain a monopoly on the milk and wool markets, leaving his uncle barely enough money to pay his income tax.

A wise man said: "Give me neither poverty or riches; feed me with the food that is needful for me, lest I be full, and deny thee, and say, 'Who is the Lord?' or lest I be poor, and steal, and profane the name of my God" (Proverbs 30:8-9). Money is not the chief good in life, or poverty the greatest evil.

If some fairy should drop in your pathway a penny and a dollar bill and you were permitted to pick up one or the other but not both, you would probably seize upon the dollar. In that you would make a mistake, for if one will take care of the pennies the dollars will take care of themselves!

Whew!

"Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which does not satisfy?" (Isaiah 55:2).

Financially yours,

BROTHER BARNABAS

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

The McCarthy Plan

WASHINGTON

The political strategy of Sen. McCarthy is now pretty plain. One can predict rather confidently that he will adopt the following course of action in these next months.

During the present session of Congress, McCarthy will chiefly devote himself to painting the Army red, precisely because it was the Army that raised the President to greatness.

During the congressional election, McCarthy will work even harder to paint the Democrats red, especially in key states like Illinois.

If the Democrats nonetheless win the election, McCarthy will blame Eisenhower for protecting those who would "protect communism." This theme was struck for the first time, in the senator's astonishing comment on the Eisenhower press conference.

If the Republicans win the election, McCarthy will claim all the credit. The ground work for this claim is being helpfully laid by the President's own political advisers, who persist in planning to use McCarthy as their party's star turn this year.

This is to be the buildup in turn for McCarthy's big show for 1955. Unless the signs deceive, the 1955 big show will be painting Eisenhower red.

This will be the final maneuver in turn of an effort to dominate the Republican convention in 1956. Dominating the 1956 convention, gaining control of the Republican party, are the declared objectives of McCarthy and his allies. Their strategy for doing so is already well developed.

Report Was Premature

The eventual smearing of Eisenhower is necessary to that strategy because this is the only way that the party authority of a president in office can conceivably be challenged.

The suggestion that McCarthy can even consider smearing Eisenhower will no doubt astonish and outrage great numbers of people. But even today, the country seems to regard the presence of a suspected Communist in the inglorious uniform of an Army dentist as serious proof of dark, far-reaching plots. Even today, many people really believe that Maj. Peress was undermining the foundations of the Republic while he drilled GI teeth. What may not be believed later on?

As to the nature of the projected smear of the President, that can be easily foreseen. In the immediate post-war period in Germany, when the President was still in command there, a good many things were done that look pretty silly by hindsight. Some of these things were demonstrably done, moreover, as a result of Communist influence in the lower echelons of the President's staff. One of these reporters disclosed the situation back in 1946. "The fact is incontestable," it was then stated in this space, "that a considerable number of American Communists (somehow) found posts in the military government." The details of their influence were also given.

Those were the days, however, when the Wisconsin CIO, then thoroughly Communist-dominated, gave Cen. McCarthy his primary victory over Sen. LaFollette. In that distant period, when McCarthy was asked about his Communist supporters, he could still reply airily, "Well, Communists vote, don't they?"

In other words, these reporters' anti-communism was somewhat premature. Their report from Germany produced no result, back in 1946, except to give a little extra urgency to the clean-up of military government by the President's successor in command, Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Created National Mood

Nowadays, however, the same facts that formerly attracted no attention would quite probably reduce the country to a condition of seething hysteria.

Few people, nowadays, would bear in mind the post-war confusion that gave the Communists their opportunity. Few people, nowadays, would bother to remember that our early mistakes in Germany did no great harm in the end. Very few people, nowadays, would even trouble to consider that the President had no notion of the Communist affiliation of some members of his staff.

McCarthy well understands this national mood. Why should he not, when he created it? He has been collecting the details of the German story, which are numerous, well documented and extremely bizarre. It is clear he means to throw these facts at Eisenhower when, as, and if the opportunity offers.

McCarthy will get his opportunity whenever he has been built up to the point where a great many people will take his word against the President. Certain members of the President's own staff are carrying on that build-up by the repeated appeasements which McCarthy knows so well how to extort from them. Altogether, the McCarthy plan may be the symptom of a diseased ambition, but it also shows a characteristic wild shrewdness.

Fortunately, McCarthy's reaction to the President's press conference seems to have shocked even the most obstinate of the White House appeasers into a sense of their danger. The President still has a chance to sound the clarion call. He is still able to restore the national sense of proportion and give back a semblance of decency to our political life. And if the President moves to do these things, the McCarthy plan will be instantly frustrated.

County School Orchestra Will Plan Festival

First Rehearsal Set For March 22

First rehearsal for the Allegany County High School Orchestra will be held Monday, March 22, at Valley High School in Lonaconing, according to W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music education in the county schools.

The County High School Orchestra and County Senior High School Band will present a joint concert at Valley High School Thursday, May 6, as the climax to an all-day festival.

Routch said that the 54 musicians who will participate in the string section of the county orchestra already have been selected by their school music teachers. The 23 other musicians who will play brass, woodwind and percussion instruments in the orchestra will be selected in auditions next Tuesday through Friday by Routch. Selection of the brass, woodwind and percussion performers is considered important because of the responsibility which will be placed upon each position. The supervisor will select the most capable musicians on these respective instruments.

Meanwhile the next rehearsal for the County Senior High School Choral will be conducted from 7:15 to 9:15 p. m. Tuesday, March 16, at Allegany High School. That festival will be conducted at Fort Hill High School Tuesday, March 23. Some 90 singers from all county schools attended the first practice Thursday night. Especially talented singers from Allegany, Fort Hill and Oldtown were successful in tryouts for solo parts.

1,545,000 Trees Being Distributed For Reforestation

The first of some 1,545,000 young trees available for reforestation planting in the four Western Maryland counties have been distributed in three of the counties and some planting already has started, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

Trees from the State Nursery at Harmans in Anne Arundel County have been distributed to Frederick, Washington and Allegany Counties and some planting has been completed in the first two counties. About 25,000 trees have been planted in Washington County by the department's tree planting machine at a cost to the land owner of $10 per acre.

Some five tree planting machines will be available for use in the four counties, two of them having been assigned to Garrett County. Some of the trees still are available, Johnson reported for acreage reforestation. It takes about 1,000 trees to reforest each acre. Most of the trees are white pine, red pine, Norway spruce and Scotch pine.

The city and county will be represented by Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, and Gorman E. Getty, county attorney.

Petitions signed by thousands of residents of this city, protesting the rate increase proposal, will be presented to the Mayor and Council on Monday.

These petitions will be turned over to the Public Service Commission to show the reaction of the citizens to the proposal. It has been suggested that letters be written to the PSC as an additional expression of public opinion.

Guard Company Staging Drive For Enlistments

Eight Men Sworn In This Week

Company C, First Battalion, 115th Regiment, Maryland National Guard, enlisted eight men and re-enlisted two this week, according to Lt. Robert Andres, company commander.

The two men who re-enlisted are Cpl. George Posselt and Cpl. Edwin Thorpe. The new enlistees include Sgt. Joseph T. Nelson, a Korean veteran; Cpl. William Steppe, a Navy veteran; James E. Robinson, David W. Folk, James R. Cortwright, Thomas F. Imes, Thomas E. Campbell and Robert E. Hill.

Lt. Andres said the company still has vacancies for 15 men between the ages of 17½ and 35 years. Men who enlist in the National Guard before reaching their 18½-year birthday, and who satisfactorily perform their duties in the company, are thereby exempt from military induction through Selective Service.

The company is now sponsoring an extensive recruiting campaign, and these 15 vacancies are expected to be filled very shortly, Lt. Andres said.

M/Sgt. George Drew is in charge of the recruiting campaign and he is on duty at the State Armory, South Centre Street, weekdays between 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m.

The fifth step involved a gradual but firm enforcement of all traffic rules and regulations with no exceptions or discrimination. Pedestrians as well as motorists must be educated and the laws must be enforced upon both, it was pointed out.

Numerous cities adopted various methods of calling attention to accidents. In one instance, three days after an accident, a red flasher light was erected at this point to remind everyone of the mishap.

In another city the program started with pedestrian education and safety studies and education among school children.

One community reported that after a total of 288 auto accidents in 1952, the number was cut in half in 1953 by education. This town uses a slogan, "Use Horse Sense with Horse Power."

When it is considered, McFarland remarked, that there were in 1953, a total of 54,000,000 automobiles driving about among 160,000,000 people, and traveling a total of 512 billion miles, it can readily be seen that safety practices must be adopted and enforced.

In 1953, the conference shows, there were 38,300 people killed by autos and trucks; 1,350,000 were hurt; 100,000 were permanently maimed or injured and dollar loss totaled $3,750,000,000.

The first fatal auto mishap occurred in 1899, and it was in 1907 that the first state, Massachusetts, began issuing driver licenses.

Int the past 50 years auto deaths have exceeded deaths in all wars, and the conference estimates show that by 1975 there will be a total of 80,000,000 autos on the nation's streets and highways.

Marian Year Stamp Issue Being Urged

Cumberland residents are joining in a nation-wide movement for a Marian Year commemorative postal stamp in honor of Mary, Mother of Christ. The year of 1954 has been set aside as Marian Year.

Telegrams and letters are being sent to congressmen and senators urging them to sponsor a bill for the issuance of such a stamp.

In a recent address to the House of Representatives, Congressman Frazier Reams of Ohio said "In this Marian Year I can think of nothing that would be more appropriate than a postage stamp honoring Mary, the Mother of Christ and the world's greatest mother."

Marian Year Stamp Issue Being Urged

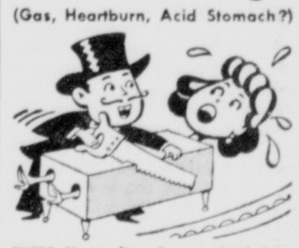

Cumberland residents are joining in a nation-wide movement for a Marian Year commemorative postal stamp in honor of Mary, Mother of Christ. The year of 1954 has been set aside as Marian Year.

Telegrams and letters are being sent to congressmen and senators urging them to sponsor a bill for the issuance of such a stamp.

In a recent address to the House of Representatives, Congressman Frazier Reams of Ohio said "In this Marian Year I can think of nothing that would be more appropriate than a postage stamp honoring Mary, the Mother of Christ and the world's greatest mother."

In these days of swift change and catastrophic events the eyes of thoughtful men turn from the present to the unknown future. What does it hold for them, their families, their friends and their world?

Behind the dark veil that separates today from tomorrow may lie strange, new forces, treacherous tides, innumerable hidden dangers and new foes of human life and happiness. These are the great uncertainties of life.

The man of today, like his primitive ancestor, peers anxiously, even fearfully, into the future and tries to solve its mysteries, but the effort is futile. His vision is unable to pierce the darkness that shrouds tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

Yet man has risen from primitive degradation, through all the difficulties and dangers of the revolving years, to his present civilized estate. He has fought the beasts of the forests, the diseases of the jungle, the pangs of hunger and the sting of cold—and has survived.

He has survived and become preeminent in the world because he possessed faith—faith in himself and his race, and faith in a Supreme Being who drew the pattern of the universe and made the laws that govern human destinies.

This is the golden thread that runs through human history. It is the key to all the uncertainties and mysteries. It is the light that has guided man's footsteps into his eternal futures.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

In these days of swift change and catastrophic events the eyes of thoughtful men turn from the present to the unknown future. What does it hold for them, their families, their friends and their world?

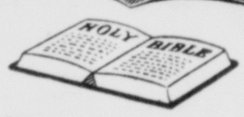

Behind the dark veil that separates today from tomorrow may lie strange, new forces, treacherous tides, innumerable hidden dangers and new foes of human life and happiness. These are the great uncertainties of life.

The man of today, like his primitive ancestor, peers anxiously, even fearfully, into the future and tries to solve its mysteries, but the effort is futile. His vision is unable to pierce the darkness that shrouds tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

Yet man has risen from primitive degradation, through all the difficulties and dangers of the revolving years, to his present civilized estate. He has fought the beasts of the forests, the diseases of the jungle, the pangs of hunger and the sting of cold—and has survived.

He has survived and become preeminent in the world because he possessed faith—faith in himself and his race, and faith in a Supreme Being who drew the pattern of the universe and made the laws that govern human destinies.

This is the golden thread that runs through human history. It is the key to all the uncertainties and mysteries. It is the light that has guided man's footsteps into his eternal futures.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Fire Damages Mental Hospital

CATONSVILLE, Md., March 5 (AP)—A force of more than 100 special guards was formed at Spring Grove State Hospital today, a spokesman said, when a spark from a welding torch set fire to a building used by the criminal-insane.

The fire was quickly extinguished. No one was hurt. No escapes were reported.

Thomas M. Gunther, administrative assistant, said there were no patients in the recreation room where the fire started. About 70 patients were transferred to the far side of the building when the blaze broke out.

The flames were confined to the roof of the recreation wing of a two-story building adjoining the main cottage where the criminal insane patients are confined.

It appeared over the name of the county's Republican State Central Committee, Ralph W. Smith, treasurer, and was addressed to "Citizens of Howard County."

Asking $100,000 damages is State's Attorney Daniel M. Murray Jr., while Police Chief Russell Moxley seeks $50,000. A third suit, asking $75,000, was filed by Clarence O. Furrow, who was found innocent of charges arising from the raid.

Allegany Lands Four On News' All-City Team; LaSalle And Fort Hill Earn Two Places Each

Campers Place Steele, Kirtley, Hoffman, Rank

Shuck, Nolan, Brant, Weber Are Honored For Performances

By TED TROXELL

The once-beaten Allegany High School Campers dominate the Cumberland News' All-City basketball selections for the 1953-54 season, placing four on the eight-man squad, with the Fort Hill Sentinels and LaSalle Explorers landing two players each on the mythical outfit.

This team is one of the best-balanced in years, combining size, speed and a great scoring punch, as well as experience, the entire lineup being composed of seniors.

Allegany's Jim Hoffman, the city's leading scorer, holds down a position on the "dream team." He scored 360 points during the regular season.

In Dick Rank, the team boasts perhaps the greatest foul shooter in the history of this area. The Allegany forward has hit on 81 or 98 tries from the charity stripe for an almost unbelievable mark of .827.

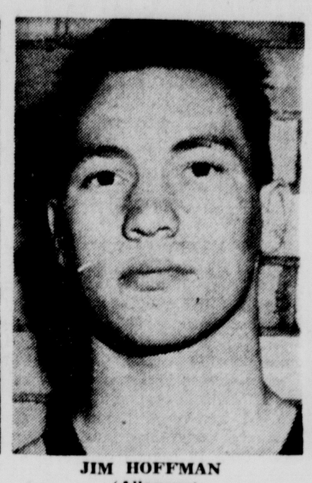

Fort Hill's Bob Brant and Gene Weber, Allegany's Bob Kirtley and the Explorers' Hughie Nolan round out the 1954 edition of the Cumberland News' outstanding player brochure.

Steele appears on the News All-City team for the third straight season. Hoffman and Shuck also are repeaters from last year.

DICK RANK (Allegany)

JIM HOFFMAN (Allegany)

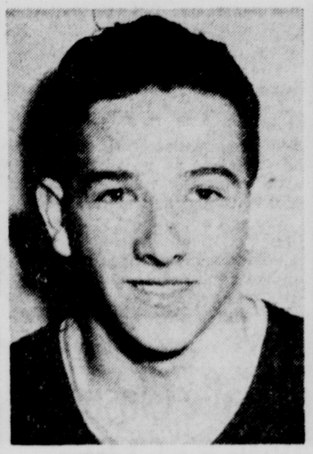

BOB KIRTLEY (Allegany)

DAVE STEELE (Allegany)

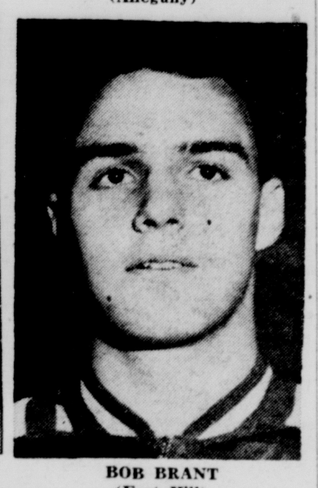

HUGH NOLAN (LaSalle)

DENNY SHUCK (LaSalle)

GENE WEBER (Fort Hill)

BOB BRANT (Fort Hill)

Allegany

JIM HOFFMAN — Serving in his second year as a regular on Coach Bill Bowers' highly rated five, Hoffman paced the city cagers in scoring th' year with 360 points, and a 17-point plus average. In his junior year, he was awarded the highly coveted Babst Award, which is presented annually to the Campobello school's outstanding student-athlete. Jim stands 6'1" and tips the scales a' a husky 180 pounds, specializing on a one-hand jump shot, and driving-in layups. Scored 30 and 32 points respectively, against WMI opponents, Valley and Mt. Savage, and also took runnerup honors in that circuit's scoring race. Quarterback in football, and infielder in baseball.

DICK RANK — Crashing the starting lineup in the middle of the season during his sophomore year Rank has stayed there ever since, being switched to a forward slot this year after holding down at guard for the last two seasons. His amazing accuracy at the foul line enabled Rank to also be a scorer of note as the 5' 10½" forward pushed 225 tallies through the hoops, for an average of better than 10 points per game. Long noted for his great defensive ability, Rank often was assigned the difficult task of guarding the opponent's most proficient scorer, and he usually handled the job well. Dick was a halfback on Coach Roy Lester's city football co-champs last year, and he also plays baseball.

DAVE STEELE — Popularly known as "Spider", this 6' 6½" giant aptly lives up to his nickname, as the success of the Allegany team has depended largely on his rebounding ability. This is Steele's third year as a regular on the Camper squad. Spider's mastery of the hook shot, and the ease with which he scores on shots from under the basket has made him one of the city's most consistent scorers. This year, he scored 313 points, including a 28-point performance against Beall, and a 26-point effort against LaSalle. Confines his athletic participation to basketball.

BOB KI "LEY — One of the most highly sought football players in the state, this rugged six-footer further proves his versatility by his outstanding performances on the cage court. Regarded as a master of the one-hand jump shot, "Kirt" contributed 259 points to his team's cause during the regular season. A guard, he has also bec.. cited for his great defensive work. Can handle nearly any position on the gridiron, with his chief claim tc football fame being his great quarterbacking at the T-slot for the Alco eleven. Also stands out as a shortstop on Allegany baseball teams, having been a regular since his freshman year.

Fort Hill

GENE WEBER — A second year man on Coach "Bobby —Cavanaugh's Fort Hill varsity five, Weberf stands 6-2, and puts in his time at a forward position. A consistent performer, Weber took runnerup honors in the Sentinel scoring, with 179 tallies. Probably his greatest performance of the year came against Mel Henry's Hagerstown Hubs, in the Sentinels' first encounter with the team, here. Weber also plays football, seeing action at an end position, and is on the track team at Fort Hill.

BOB BRANT — An All-City selection last year, Brant, a 6-3 center, was one of the bright spots in an otherwise rather bleak season at Fort Hill this year. At one time, Brant led the race for the city scoring toga, but relinquished the lead to Hoffman, and was never able to regain it. The tall pivotman ranked right behind Steele in the scoring race, getting 313 points in 21 games, for third place place honors. A great rebounder, Brant's scoring specialty is a deadly hook shot, and one-hand jump shot. Not confining himself to basketball, Brant also plays football and runs track.

LaSalle

HUGHIE NOLAN — After being switched from center to a forward position midway in the season, Nolan continued to perform as well as before, leading the Explorers in scoring. A product of Father Regis Larkin's St. Michael's team at Frostburg, Nolan, who stands just six feet, is in his third year as a varsity man on the LaSalle five. In addition to being a steady scorer, the converted center continued to perform many of the main duties of that position, and was one of the best rebound men in the city.

DENNY SHUCK — Although standing only 5'6", Shuck is the main reason why LaSalle scored a pair of victories over Fort Hill, and thus nailed down second place h ors in the triangular city race. Denny covers the court like a tent and his defensive play and ball hawking are a treat to the eyes of the city's basketball fans. Specializes on set shots, with many of his tosses being attempted from more than 30 feet out. Was selected by the magazine, Basketball 1954, as one of the top 500 high school cagers in the country. An All-City selection in football, and a star in his own right on the baseball diamond, Denny also hails from Frostburg.

Campers Meet Southern In Class A Final

Bowersmen Score Over Hagerstown Quint As Frederick Loses 70-54

Lanky Dave Steele and Bobby Kirtley bore the brunt of the Allegany High School Campers scoring assault last night as the Alcomen downed Hagerstown's Hub City five, 71-61 in the nightcap of the Class A District No. 1 basketball tournament at Fort Hill gym.

In the previous Class A semi-final, the third of four games played in the district tourney last night, Southern High's Highlanders beat Frederick High's titlists, 70-54.

Southern and Allegany will meet at 9 o'clock tonight in the district Class A finals following the finals for the Class B crown between Bruce High and Brunswick at 7:30.

1,500 Fans See Game

Approximately 1,500 fans saw Coach Bill Bowers' charges trim the Hub City quintet for the third time this season in chalking up their 21st triumph in 22 games this year. The Alcomen defeated Coach Mel Henry's Hagerstowners 70-41 and 76-60 in two regular season conquests.

Allegany hopped off to an early lead and paced the scoring all the way although the Hubs pulled within two points at 29-27 at halftime.

Steele, connecting for five field goals in each half, hit for 21 points while Kirtley had 20 for the Campers. High man for Hagerstown was Melzer with 16 followed by Kuhn with 15.

Jimmy Hoffman and Kirtley exited via personals for Allegany in the fourth quarter while Stotler left in the third stanza and Anderson in the fourth for Hagerstown.

Durbin Paces Oakland

Center Charley Durbin, the top point getter in Western Maryland this season, led Coach Kyle Wilson's Highlanders into Saturday night's Class A finals by ringing up a total of 24 points. The Oakland pivot man, who registered 446 points during the regular 21-game season schedule, banged in eight fielders and 8-12 at the foul line. Fred Stemple garnered 14 points and Larry Stemple had 13 for the winners.

Center Boyles headed the Frederick offensive with 20 points on six field goals and 8 for 13 at the foul line.

Oakland turned in a shooting percentage of .436 by hooping 24 of 55 shots. Frederick slumped to .207 with 17 fielders in 82 attempts. The Cadets netted 20 of 26 free throws and Southern sank 22 of 46 shots.

Frederick lost three players on personal fouls, Cannon and Gearinger making their exit in the third period while Boyles went out in the final quarter, as did Savage of Oakland. Lineups:

Beverly Upsets Thomas, 44-42, To Gain Finals

Rowlesburg's Lions Top Kingwood, 75-74

PARSONS, W. Va., March 5—Beverly upset Thomas, 44-42, and Rowlesburg High's River Lions eked out a 75-74 decision over Kingwood here tonight to advance to the finals of the West Virginia Region 3 Class B basketball tournament at Parsons High School.

Saturday night's championship game between Beverly and Rowlesburg is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

With 1:30 left to play, Curtis put Beverly ahead with a field goal. Frank Quattro and Jack Sowers, of Thomas, each split a pair of free throws to tie it up at 42-all. Then Curtis scored on an outside shot to win the game and his jubilant teammates carried him off the court.

Frank Quattro, Thomas' high scoring center, sat out the greater part of the second half after having committed four personal fouls in the first half. Stemple, of Thomas, and Bennett, of Beverly, fouled out in the final period.

Curtis led the Beverly scorers with 19 points while Waitkus was Thomas' high man with 13 markers.

Wilson and Felton with 22 and 20 tallies paced the Rowlesburg attack in the second game of the twin bill. Shade and Kingwood had 21 each for Kingwood.

Rowlesburg led at halftime, 37-31. The score was knotted four times—at 2, 6, 59 and 61. Lineups:

Piedmont Tops Wardensville In "B" Opener

Lions Triumph 53-30; Region 4 Finals Set Tonight At Shepherd

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., March 5—Piedmont's Lions and the Petersburg Vikings entered the finals of the West Virginia Region 4, Class B basketball tournament here tonight with victories in the semi-finals played on the Shepherd College court.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Piedmont crew, leading only 15-12 at the end of the first half of their opener against Wardensville, broke loose in the last two periods to defeat Coach Vance's tossers, 53-30.

In the nightcap of the twin bill which was witnessed by a crowd of approximately 1,300 fans Petersburg's Vikings upended the previously unbeaten Musselman Applemen, 59 to 48, snapping the latter's 15-game winning streak. Piedmont and Petersburg will meet in the finals Saturday night in the college gym at 8 o'clock.

Win Game In Third

Bobby Niland and Gene Smith paced the Piedmont team's 20-goal attack against Wardensville with 14 and 11 points respectively. The Lions opened fast to take an 11-4 first quarter lead but their attack sputtered and Wardensville closed the gap against the Potomac Valley Conference champs.

A 16-point outbreak in the third stanza clinched the matter for Piedmont as the Lions racked up their 23rd triumph of the season in 25 games. Campbell of Piedmont and Stine and Hott of Wardensville fouled out of the game.

Tommy Heishman topped the inept Wardensville scoring with 10 points.

In the second contest the much-heralded Musselman team which completed its regular season undefeated and then captured two sectional tournament triumphs finally ran into a tartar in the form of Coach Jesse Riggleman's Petersburg quintet.

Vikings Hot In Shooting

Petersburg, hitting on almost 50 per cent of its shots, played one of its finest games in downing the Applemen. The Vikings led 15-9 and 33-22 in the first half and held a 43-38 advantage at the close of the third stanza.

Musselman closed the gap to 43-41 early in the fourth but Petersburg's fast break broke the losers' backs and the Vikings won going away.

Marlin Stump with 17 points, Jimmy Kessel with 13 and Jerry Brill with 12 topped the Petersburg scorers. Mauck was high for Musselman with 16 markers. Stump and Brill left the game on personals in the fourth quarter. The lineups:

NIT Games Set Today At Garden

Favored Duquesne Plays On Tuesday

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP) — A tripleheader starting at 6 p.m. tomorrow ushers in the 17th annual National Invitation basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden but the favored team—Duquesne—won't see action until next Tuesday night.

One of the best balanced fields in the oldest of the post-season college tournaments promises an interesting duel for championship honors which will be decided in the finals Saturday March 13. Last year Seton Hall defeated St. John's of Brooklyn in the finals.

Loretto Quint Entered

Of the 12 teams invited, Brigham Young University is the only former NIT winner in the tourney. Nine of the title contenders have played in the event before, the newcomers being St. Francis of Brooklyn, St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., and Wichita.

6 p.m.—Louisville (22-6) vs St. Francis (Brooklyn) (20-4).

9:30 p.m.—Bowling Green (16-6) vs Wichita (27-3).

Another triple-decker is scheduled Monday. Brigham Young, winner of the 1951 tournament, over Dayton plays St. Francis (Pa.) to complete the first round, at 6 p.m. Two quarter final games follow, Western Kentucky versus the Bowling Green-Wichita winner at 7:45 p.m., and Niagara versus the Dayton-Manhattan winner at 9:30 p.m.

Dukes To Play Mormons

Two quarter final games are scheduled for Tuesday, Duquesne meeting the BYU-St. Francis (Pa.) winner at 7:45 p.m. and Holy Cross meeting the winner of the Louisville-St. Francis (Brooklyn) game.

The semifinals will be played Thursday, and losers will play for third place Saturday night before the championship game.

Duquesne is seeded No. 1 for the tourney, with Western Kentucky No. 2 Holy Cross No. 3 and Niagara No. 4.

Baseball Clinic Set For Sunday

The Tri-State Umpires Association will hold the first of two baseball clinics on Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

Russell Minnicks, Andrew Lewis and Tom Murphy will be in charge.

The association extends an invitation to high school and college coaches and players, also managers and players of sandlot league teams.

The second clinic will be held March 14.

Fort Hill Snaps Ursuline's 11-Game Victory Skein, 38-35

Annabelle Leatherman Heads Attack; Academy Suffers First Defeat

Coach Henrietta Snyder's Fort Hill High School girls wound up their 1954 basketball campaign in a blaze of glory yesterday by halting the 11-game winning streak of the hitherto undefeated Ursuline Academy sextet on SS. Peter and Paul court. The score was 38-35.

The Hilltoppers "froze" the ball a greater part of the time and wasted few shots in posting their eighth win in nine starts, thus avenging an earlier defeat at the hands of the West Siders.

The first quarter ended 2-2, Ursuline held a 16-11 lead at halftime and also held a one-point advantage at 23-22 when the third period ended.

Annabelle Leatherman was Fort Hill's "big gun" with 19 points on nine field goals and one free throw. Pat Thompson tossed in five shots from the field and Jo Ann Dickel garnered nine points on four baskets and 1 for 4 at the free throw stripe.

Judy Minke accounted for 30 of Ursuline's 35 points with 15 field goals. Her running mates, however, were limited to one goal each.

Blackwell Says He Is Through, Quits Yankees

Ewell Says His Arm "Hurts Like Blazes"

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5 (INS) — New York Yankee pitcher Ewell "The Whip" Blackwell quit baseball today on the eve of starting against the St. Louis Cardinals in the first exhibition game of the year.

The lanky righthander, one of the game's greatest pitchers from 1942 until 1949 when he injured his arm in spring training, told the Yankee club which bought him from Cincinnati for an estimated $35,000 and four players:

"My arm has been hurting like blazes for the last two days ever since I tried to throw hard. There's no use in me kidding myself or anybody else. I'm through."

The 32-year-old Blackwell announced his retirement in a telephone call to publicist Red Patterson from his Tampa home. He asked Patterson to "Please tell (Casey) Stengel I'm hanging 'em up . . ."

Blackwell came to New York in September, 1952.

It was a deal much criticized by Yankee interests. He had pitched 1 and 0 for Cincinnati in 1952 and last year pitched 2 and 0 for the Yanks. In June he began to suffer severe pains in his arm and shoulder and was permitted to go on the voluntary retired list after a shellacking by the Dodgers.

This spring he was advised by physicians that a bone was misplaced in his lower forearm and was the root of his trouble.

The Tampa package store proprietor started like a fireball in 1942 with Syracuse until his injury in a Grapefruit game at Columbia, S. C. for the Cincinnati Redlegs.

In 1947 he won 22 and lost 7 while through his entire major league career his mark was 97 victories and 77 losses.

Colonials Top West Virginia In 83-74 Tilt

Joe Holup's 40 Points Equals Tourney Record

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 5 (AP) — George Washington University stalled off a fourth-quarter West Virginia spurt tonight and beat the Mountaineers 83-74 to enter the finals of the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament.

George Washington's Joe Holup whipped in 40 points to tie the tournament single-game scoring record and set a new free throw record of 18.

Two jump shots and a free throw by Holup in the fourth quarter gave George Washington the punch to win the game.

The lead changed hand six times in the third quarter and with the Colonials ahead 54-53 Holup sank four consecutive free throws just before the quarter ended.

WVU's captain, Red Holmes, opened the final period with a layup shot and Pete White sank a free throw to narrow George Washington's advantage to 58-56.

Holup then made five straight points to poke the Colonials ahead.

Later in the same quarter, with George Washington leading 70-58, WVU's Dubby Morris sank a jump shot and a free throw and Mack Isner plunked in an overhander to bring the crowd of 5,300 to its feet.

But field goals by Corky Devlin and Elliott Karver and another free throw by Joe Holup gave George Washington an advantage the Mountaineers couldn't overcome.

Holup connected on 11 of his 18 field goal attempts and missed only four of his 22 tries from the free throw line. Holmes, with 14 points, was high man for the losers.

Allegany Lands Four On News' All-City Team; LaSalle And Fort Hill Earn Two Places Each

Campers Place Steele, Kirtley, Hoffman, Rank

By TED TROXELL

The once-beaten Allegany High School Campers dominate the Cumberland News' All-City basketball selections for the 1953-54 season, placing four on the eight-man squad, with the Fort Hill Sentinels and LaSalle Explorers landing two players each on the mythical outfit.

This team is one of the best-balanced in years, combining size, speed and a great scoring punch, as well as experience, the entire lineup being composed of seniors.

In Dick Rank, the team boasts perhaps the greatest foul shooter in the history of this area. The Allegany forward has hit on 81 or 98 tries from the charity stripe for an almost unbelievable mark of .827.

Fort Hill's Bob Brant and Gene Weber, Allegany's Bob Kirtley and the Explorers' Hughie Nolan round out the 1954 edition of the Cumberland News' outstanding player brochure.

Steele appears on the News All-City team for the third straight season. Hoffman and Shuck also are repeaters from last year.

Allegany

JIM HOFFMAN — Serving in his second year as a regular on Coach Bill Bowers' highly rated five, Hoffman paced the city cagers in scoring th' year with 360 points, and a 17-point plus average. In his junior year, he was awarded the highly coveted Babst Award, which is presented annually to the Campobello school's outstanding student-athlete. Jim stands 6'1" and tips the scales a' a husky 180 pounds, specializing on a one-hand jump shot, and driving-in layups. Scored 30 and 32 points respectively, against WMI opponents, Valley and Mt. Savage, and also took runnerup honors in that circuit's scoring race. Quarterback in football, and infielder in baseball.

DICK RANK — Crashing the starting lineup in the middle of the season during his sophomore year Rank has stayed there ever since, being switched to a forward slot this year after holding down at guard for the last two seasons. His amazing accuracy at the foul line enabled Rank to also be a scorer of note as the 5' 10½" forward pushed 225 tallies through the hoops, for an average of better than 10 points per game. Long noted for his great defensive ability, Rank often was assigned the difficult task of guarding the opponent's most proficient scorer, and he usually handled the job well. Dick was a halfback on Coach Roy Lester's city football co-champs last year, and he also plays baseball.

DAVE STEELE — Popularly known as "Spider", this 6' 6½" giant aptly lives up to his nickname, as the success of the Allegany team has depended largely on his rebounding ability. This is Steele's third year as a regular on the Camper squad. Spider's mastery of the hook shot, and the ease with which he scores on shots from under the basket has made him one of the city's most consistent scorers. This year, he scored 313 points, including a 28-point performance against Beall, and a 26-point effort against LaSalle. Confines his athletic participation to basketball.

BOB KI "LEY — One of the most highly sought football players in the state, this rugged six-footer further proves his versatility by his outstanding performances on the cage court. Regarded as a master of the one-hand jump shot, "Kirt" contributed 259 points to his team's cause during the regular season. A guard, he has also been cited for his great defensive work. Can handle nearly any position on the gridiron, with his chief claim to football fame being his great quarterbacking at the T-slot for the Alco eleven. Also stands out as a shortstop on Allegany baseball teams, having been a regular since his freshman year.

Fort Hill

GENE WEBER — A second year man on Coach "Bobby —Cavanaugh's Fort Hill varsity five, Weberf stands 6-2, and puts in his time at a forward position. A consistent performer, Weber took runnerup honors in the Sentinel scoring, with 179 tallies. Probably his greatest performance of the year came against Mel Henry's Hagerstown Hubs, in the Sentinels' first encounter with the team, here. Weber also plays football, seeing action at an end position, and is on the track team at Fort Hill.

BOB BRANT — An All-City selection last year, Brant, a 6-3 center, was one of the bright spots in an otherwise rather bleak season at Fort Hill this year. At one time, Brant led the race for the city scoring toga, but relinquished the lead to Hoffman, and was never able to regain it. The tall pivotman ranked right behind Steele in the scoring race, getting 313 points in 21 games, for third place place honors. A great rebounder, Brant's scoring specialty is a deadly hook shot, and one-hand jump shot. Not confining himself to basketball, Brant also plays football and runs track.

LaSalle

HUGHIE NOLAN — After being switched from center to a forward position midway in the season, Nolan continued to perform as well as before, leading the Explorers in scoring. A product of Father Regis Larkin's St. Michael's team at Frostburg, Nolan, who stands just six feet, is in his third year as a varsity man on the LaSalle five. In addition to being a steady scorer, the converted center continued to perform many of the main duties of that position, and was one of the best rebound men in the city.

DENNY SHUCK — Although standing only 5'6", Shuck is the main reason why LaSalle scored a pair of victories over Fort Hill, and thus nailed down second place h ors in the triangular city race. Denny covers the court like a tent and his defensive play and ball hawking are a treat to the eyes of the city's basketball fans. Specializes on set shots, with many of his tosses being attempted from more than 30 feet out. Was selected by the magazine, Basketball 1954, as one of the top 500 high school cagers in the country. An All-City selection in football, and a star in his own right on the baseball diamond. Denny also hails from Frostburg.

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP) — A tripleheader starting at 6 p.m. tomorrow ushers in the 17th annual National Invitation basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden but the favored team—Duquesne—won't see action until next Tuesday night.

One of the best balanced fields in the oldest of the post-season college tournaments promises an interesting duel for championship honors which will be decided in the finals Saturday March 13. Last year Seton Hall defeated St. John's of Brooklyn in the finals.

Loretto Quint Entered

Of the 12 teams invited, Brigham Young University is the only former NIT winner in the tourney. Nine of the title contenders have played in the event before, the newcomers being St. Francis of Brooklyn, St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., and Wichita.

Three first round games tomorrow:

6 p.m.—Louisville (22-6) vs St. Francis (Brooklyn) (20-4).

9:30 p.m.—Bowling Green (16-6) vs Wichita (27-3).

Another triple-decker is scheduled Monday. Brigham Young, winner of the 1951 tournament, over Dayton plays St. Francis (Pa.) to complete the first round, at 6 p.m. Two quarter final games follow, Western Kentucky versus the Bowling Green-Wichita winner at 7:45 p.m., and Niagara versus the Dayton-Manhattan winner at 9:30 p.m.

Dukes To Play Mormons

Two quarter final games are scheduled for Tuesday, Duquesne meeting the BYU-St. Francis (Pa.) winner at 7:45 p.m. and Holy Cross meeting the winner of the Louisville-St. Francis (Brooklyn) game.

The semifinals will be played Thursday, and losers will play for third place Saturday night before the championship game.

Annabelle Leatherman Heads Attack; Academy Suffers First Defeat

Coach Henrietta Snyder's Fort Hill High School girls wound up their 1954 basketball campaign in a blaze of glory yesterday by halting the 11-game winning streak of the hitherto undefeated Ursuline Academy sextet on SS. Peter and Paul court. The score was 38-35.

The Hilltoppers "froze" the ball a greater part of the time and wasted few shots in posting their eighth win in nine starts, thus avenging an earlier defeat at the hands of the West Siders.

The first quarter ended 2-2. Ursuline held a 16-11 lead at halftime and also held a one-point advantage at 23-22 when the third period ended.

Annabelle Leatherman was Fort Hill's "big gun" with 19 points on nine field goals and one free throw. Pat Thompson tossed in five shots from the field and Jo Ann Dickel garnered nine points on four baskets and 1 for 4 at the free throw stripe.

Judy Minke accounted for 30 of Ursuline's 35 points with 15 field goals. Her running mates, however, were limited to one goal each.

Blackwell Says He Is Through, Quits Yankees

Ewell Says His Arm "Hurts Like Blazes"

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5 (INS) — New York Yankee pitcher Ewell "The Whip" Blackwell quit baseball today on the eve of starting against the St. Louis Cardinals in the first exhibition game of the year.

The lanky righthander, one of the game's greatest pitchers from 1942 until 1949 when he injured his arm in spring training, told the Yankee club which bought him from Cincinnati for an estimated $35,000 and four players:

"My arm has been hurting like blazes for the last two days ever since I tried to throw hard. There's no use in me kidding myself or anybody else. I'm through."

The 32-year-old Blackwell announced his retirement in a telephone call to publicist Red Patterson from his Tampa home. He asked Patterson to "Please tell (Casey) Stengel I'm hanging 'em up . . ."

Blackwell came to New York in September, 1952.

It was a deal much criticized by Yankee interests. He had pitched 1 and 0 for Cincinnati in 1952 and last year pitched 2 and 0 for the Yanks. In June he began to suffer severe pains in his arm and shoulder and was permitted to go on the voluntary retired list after a shellacking by the Dodgers.

This spring he was advised by physicians that a bone was misplaced in his lower forearm and was the root of his trouble.

The Tampa package store proprietor started like a fireball in 1942 with Syracuse until his injury in a Grapefruit game at Columbia, S. C. for the Cincinnati Redlegs.

In 1947 he won 22 and lost 7 while through his entire major league career his mark was 97 victories and 77 losses.

Colonials Top West Virginia In 83-74 Tilt

Joe Holup's 40 Points Equals Tourney Record

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 5 (AP) — George Washington University stalled off a fourth-quarter West Virginia spurt tonight and beat the Mountaineers 83-74 to enter the finals of the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament.

George Washington's Joe Holup whipped in 40 points to tie the tournament single-game scoring record and set a new free throw record of 18.

Two jump shots and a free throw by Holup in the fourth quarter gave George Washington the punch to win the game.

The lead changed hand six times in the third quarter and with the Colonials ahead 54-53 Holup sank four consecutive free throws just before the quarter ended.

WVU's captain, Red Holmes, opened the final period with a layup shot and Pete White sank a free throw to narrow George Washington's advantage to 58-56.

Holup then made five straight points to poke the Colonials ahead.

Later in the same quarter, with George Washington leading 70-58, WVU's Dubby Morris sank a jump shot and a free throw and Mack Isner plunked in an overhander to bring the crowd of 5,300 to its feet.

But field goals by Corky Devlin and Elliott Karver and another free throw by Joe Holup gave George Washington an advantage the Mountaineers couldn't overcome.

Holup connected on 11 of his 18 field goal attempts and missed only four of his 22 tries from the free throw line. Holmes, with 14 points, was high man for the losers.

Rowlesburg's Lions Top Kingwood, 75-74

PARSONS, W. Va., March 5—Beverly upset Thomas, 44-42, and Rowlesburg High's River Lions eked out a 75-74 decision over Kingwood here tonight to advance to the finals of the West Virginia Region 3 Class B basketball tournament at Parsons High School.

Saturday night's championship game between Beverly and Rowlesburg is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

With 1:30 left to play, Curtis put Beverly ahead with a field goal. Frank Quattro and Jack Sowers, of Thomas, each split a pair of free throws to tie it up at 42-all. Then Curtis scored on an outside shot to win the game and his jubilant teammates carried him off the court.

Frank Quattro, Thomas' high scoring center, sat out the greater part of the second half after having committed four personal fouls in the first half. Stemple, of Thomas, and Bennett, of Beverly, fouled out in the final period.

Curtis led the Beverly scorers with 19 points while Waitkus was Thomas' high man with 13 markers.

Wilson and Felton with 22 and 20 tallies paced the Rowlesburg attack in the second game of the twin bill. Shade and Kingwood had 21 each for Kingwood.

Piedmont Tops Wardensville In "B" Opener

Lions Triumph 53-30; Region 4 Finals Set Tonight At Shepherd

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., March 5—Piedmont's Lions and the Petersburg Vikings entered the finals of the West Virginia Region 4, Class B basketball tournament here tonight with victories in the semi-finals played on the Shepherd College court.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Piedmont crew, leading only 15-12 at the end of the first half of their opener against Wardensville, broke loose in the last two periods to defeat Coach Vance's tossers, 53-30.

In the nightcap of the twin bill which was witnessed by a crowd of approximately 1,300 fans Petersburg's Vikings upended the previously unbeaten Musselman Applemen, 59 to 48, snapping the latter's 15-game winning streak. Piedmont and Petersburg will meet in the finals Saturday night in the college gym at 8 o'clock.

Win Game In Third

Bobby Niland and Gene Smith paced the Piedmont team's 20-goal attack against Wardensville with 14 and 11 points respectively. The Lions opened fast to take an 11-4 first quarter lead but their attack sputtered and Wardensville closed the gap against the Potomac Valley Conference champs.

A 16-point outbreak in the third stanza clinched the matter for Piedmont as the Lions racked up their 23rd triumph of the season in 25 games. Campbell of Piedmont and Stine and Hott of Wardensville fouled out of the game.

Tommy Heishman topped the inept Wardensville scoring with 10 points.

In the second contest the much-heralded Musselman team which completed its regular season undefeated and then captured two sectional tournament triumphs finally ran into a tartar in the form of Coach Jesse Riggleman's Petersburg quintet.

Vikings Hot In Shooting

Petersburg, hitting on almost 50 per cent of its shots, played one of its finest games in downing the Applemen. The Vikings led 15-9 and 33-22 in the first half and held a 43-38 advantage at the close of the third stanza.

Musselman closed the gap to 43-41 early in the fourth but Petersburg's fast break broke the losers' backs and the Vikings won going away.

Marlin Stump with 17 points, Jimmy Kessel with 13 and Jerry Brill with 12 topped the Petersburg scorers. Mauck was high for Musselman with 16 markers. Stump and Brill left the game on personals in the fourth quarter. The lineups:

West Virginia Streams Closed To All Fishing

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 5 (AP)—The Conservation Department has announced special fishing regulations regarding certain gigging and opening of additional year-around fishing waters.

To protect newly stocked trout, the department said streams in Hampshire and Hardy counties will be closed to all fishing April 18 to April 23 and streams will be closed March 28 through April 23 in these counties: Grant, Mineral, Morgan, Pendleton and Tucker.

Harry Van Meter, acting chief of the fish management division, said experimental gigging is being permitted this season to determine whether it is a satisfactory method of "holding down the large numbers of rough fish, particularly suckers and carp, which over-populate many West Virginia streams."

Gigging already is legal in all streams of Hampshire and Hardy counties and will remain so until midnight, April 18. Gigging in those two counties will reopen Oct. 1.

Major Leaguers Dealt Defeat By Federal Broadcast Ruling

Denied Petition To Halt Airing Games

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — Major league baseball was dealt one defeat today by the government in a radio broadcast ruling, and two officials of the national pastime were summoned to a hearing on a bill designed to force beer-maker August A. Busch to sell the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Federal Communications Commission denied a petition of the New York Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cardinals who sought to compel the Trinity Broadcasting Corp. of Texas to stop alleged unauthorized broadcasts of games.

The ball clubs claimed the radio company "appropriated and pirated" information from authorized game broadcasts then recreated them for re-broadcasting over stations in Dallas, El Paso and Houston.

News Not Copyrightable

A decision on whether the re-broadcasts appropriated any property rights as the complaint alleged was sidestepped. In its decision, the FCC declared the re-broadcast rules do not attempt to define property interests in broadcast material. Trinity claimed that once the news was broadcast, it was not copyrightable and could be picked up by other stations.

Busch and baseball commissioner Ford Frick were summoned to a Senate judiciary subcommittee hearing next Thursday. A bill was introduced recently by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) which would place under the anti-trust laws a baseball club operated by any official of a beer or liquor business.

Minor Cities Involved

Johnson said in a Senate speech his bill was aimed at Busch, head of the Cardinals and president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc. The senator was angry because the Cardinals had planned to broadcast their games into cities where they have farm clubs. The plan later was dropped.

A recent Supreme Court decision held that baseball is not a business within the meaning of the anti-trust laws.

Mickey's Cousin Signs

COMMERCE, Okla., March 5 (AP) —Max Mantle, cousin of the New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle, has signed a baseball contract with the same club.

He expects to be assigned to McAlester, Okla. of the Class D Sooner State League.

Amvets Defeat WOW

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

YUMA, Ariz., March 5 (AP) — Manager Jimmy Dykes picked a squad of 26 Baltimore Orioles he will lead to Mesa, Ariz., tomorrow Club's first spring exhibition game with the Chicago Cubs.

Dykes designated Joe Coleman, Jehosie Heard and Mike Blyzka for three-inning mound stints against the Cubs. Coleman had a 3-4 record last year with the Philadelphia Athletics, Heard is a rookie up from Portland of the Pacific Coast League, and Blyzka and his 2-6 record came along with the St. Louis Browns franchise.

Vincio Garcia, the No.1 Oriole draft choice, and Bob Masser, outfielder called up from the Class A Wichita farm club, reported to training camp today, giving Dykes 44 men to work with and leaving but three stragglers. Garcia, a Mexico City boy, has played with Shreveport for four seasons.

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Manager Walter Alston named Joe Black, Billy Loes and Don Newcombe to start the first three exhibition games as Brooklyn broke camp today and headed for Miami.

Black will open against Milwaukee tomorrow followed by Loes against the same club Sunday and Newcombe opposing Cincinnati Monday night.

Bill Evans To Head Southern Conference Writers Association

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 5 (AP) — Sports writers and broadcasters covering the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament formed a new organization today.

The newsmen disbanded the Southern Sports Writers Assn. and formed the Southern Conference Sports Writers Assn.

Bill Evans of the Fairmont, W. Va., Times was elected president.

Mickey Fufari of the Morgantown Dominion News was elected executive secretary of the new association. Regional vice-presidents named were Jim Anderson of the Greenville News for South Carolina; Alden Williams, athletic publicity director at Davidson College, for North Carolina; Herb Heft of the Washington Post for the West Virginia-District of Columbia area, and Andy McCutcheon of the Richmond News Leader for Virginia.

DeMarco Beats Jimmy Carter To Win Title

Brooklynite Takes Unanimous Decision In Lightweight Go

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP) — Bustling Paddy DeMarco, who appeared headed for boxing's scrap heap only five months ago, put on the greatest fight of his career tonight to wrest the lightweight championship from 30-year-old Jimmy Carter in a sensational upset in Madison Square Garden.

A 4-1 underdog, the 26-year-old DeMarco, who had never gone more than 10 rounds before in his nine year career, won the 15-rounder with ease. The decision was unanimous and was met with a roar of approval by the slim crowd of 5,730 which paid $23,727.

The broad-shouldered, bow-legged Brooklyn battler outhustled, outfought and outmanuevered the hard-hitting New York Negro. Paddy made Carter fight the way he wanted to as he piled up points with a flicking left jab, flashing hooks and daring flurries.

LaSalle Closes With 83-62 Win Over Mt. Savage

LaSalle High's Explorers closed their cage season last night with an 83-62 triumph over the Mt. Savage Braves on the SS. Peter and Paul court. It was LaSalle's 16th victory of the year in 24 games.

Big Phil Geatz banged home 31 points on 13 goals and 5-6 at the foul line to take scoring honors for the game. The outburst gave the blond LaSalle pivot man the scoring title for the Explorers this season with 251 points to Hugh Nolan's 248 despite a 20-point spree by Nolan in last night's contest.

The two teams battled to a 16-16 tie in the initial quarter and the score was tied four times in the first half. Geatz poured three consecutive baskets through the hoops to give LaSalle a lead it never relinquished midway in the second quarter.

Thirty-six personals were called on the two teams by Officials Jim Roby and Lou Baker with Ricky Harris of LaSalle existing via personals with 5:15 to play in the third period and Dick Robeson of Mt. Savage leaving with 4 minutes left in the final stanza.

Eddie Williams paced the Braves' attack with 21 markers, followed by Ronnie Carter with 14. The loss was the 16th in 21 games for visitors. The lineups:

West Virginia Streams Closed To All Fishing

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 5 (AP)—The Conservation Department has announced special fishing regulations regarding certain gigging and opening of additional year-around fishing waters.

To protect newly stocked trout, the department said streams in Hampshire and Hardy counties will be closed to all fishing April 18 to April 23 and streams will be closed March 28 through April 23 in these counties: Grant, Mineral, Morgan, Pendleton and Tucker.

Harry Van Meter, acting chief of the fish management division, said experimental gigging is being permitted this season to determine whether it is a satisfactory method of "holding down the large numbers of rough fish, particularly suckers and carp, which over-populate many West Virginia streams."

Gigging already is legal in all streams of Hampshire and Hardy counties and will remain so until midnight, April 18. Gigging in those two counties will reopen Oct. 1.

Major Leaguers Dealt Defeat By Federal Broadcast Ruling

Denied Petition To Halt Airing Games

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — Major league baseball was dealt one defeat today by the government in a radio broadcast ruling, and two officials of the national pastime were summoned to a hearing on a bill designed to force beer-maker August A. Busch to sell the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Federal Communications Commission denied a petition of the New York Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cardinals who sought to compel the Trinity Broadcasting Corp. of Texas to stop alleged unauthorized broadcasts of games.

The ball clubs claimed the radio company "appropriated and pirated" information from authorized game broadcasts then recreated them for re-broadcasting over stations in Dallas, El Paso and Houston.

News Not Copyrightable

A decision on whether the re-broadcasts appropriated any property rights as the complaint alleged was sidestepped. In its decision, the FCC declared the re-broadcast rules do not attempt to define property interests in broadcast material. Trinity claimed that once the news was broadcast, it was not copyrightable and could be picked up by other stations.

Busch and baseball commissioner Ford Frick were summoned to a Senate judiciary subcommittee hearing next Thursday. A bill was introduced recently by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) which would place under the anti-trust laws a baseball club operated by any official of a beer or liquor business.

Minor Cities Involved

Johnson said in a Senate speech his bill was aimed at Busch, head of the Cardinals and president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc. The senator was angry because the Cardinals had planned to broadcast their games into cities where they have farm clubs. The plan later was dropped.

A recent Supreme Court decision held that baseball is not a business within the meaning of the anti-trust laws.

Mickey's Cousin Signs

COMMERCE, Okla., March 5 (AP) —Max Mantle, cousin of the New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle, has signed a baseball contract with the same club.

He expects to be assigned to McAlester, Okla. of the Class D Sooner State League.

Amvets Defeat WOW

The Amvets scored a 2-1 decision over the Woodmen of the World last night in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match. Ruppert paced the winners with 21 points while Frantz and T. Gibson headed the Woodmen with 11 tallies each.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

YUMA, Ariz., March 5 (AP) — Manager Jimmy Dykes picked a squad of 26 Baltimore Orioles he will lead to Mesa, Ariz., tomorrow Club's first spring exhibition game with the Chicago Cubs.

Dykes designated Joe Coleman, Jehosie Heard and Mike Blyzka for three-inning mound stints against the Cubs. Coleman had a 3-4 record last year with the Philadelphia Athletics. Heard is a rookie up from Portland of the Pacific Coast League, and Blyzka and his 2-6 record came along with the St. Louis Browns franchise.

Vincio Garcia, the No.1 Oriole draft choice, and Bob Masser, outfielder called up from the Class A Wichita farm club, reported to training camp today, giving Dykes 44 men to work with and leaving but three stragglers, Garcia, a Mexico City boy, has played with Shreveport for four seasons.

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Manager Walter Alston named Joe Black, Billy Loes and Don Newcombe to start the first three exhibition games as Brooklyn broke camp today and headed for Miami.

Black will open against Milwaukee tomorrow followed by Loes against the same club Sunday and Newcombe opposing Cincinnati Monday night.

Bill Evans To Head Southern Conference Writers Association

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 5 (AP) — Sports writers and broadcasters covering the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament formed a new organization today.

The newsmen disbanded the Southern Sports Writers Assn. and formed the Southern Conference Sports Writers Assn.

Bill Evans of the Fairmont, W. Va., Times was elected president.

The reorganization stemmed from the breakup of the Southern Conference alignment last year when seven schools withdrew and formed the new Atlantic Coast Conference.

Mickey Fufari of the Morgantown Dominion News was elected executive secretary of the new association. Regional vice-presidents named were Jim Anderson of the Greenville News for South Carolina; Alden Williams, athletic publicity director at Davidson College, for North Carolina; Herb Heft of the Washington Post for the West Virginia-District of Columbia area, and Andy McCutcheon of the Richmond News Leader for Virginia.

DeMarco Beats Jimmy Carter To Win Title

Brooklynite Takes Unanimous Decision In Lightweight Go

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP) — Bustling Paddy DeMarco, who appeared headed for boxing's scrap heap only five months ago, put on the greatest fight of his career tonight to wrest the lightweight championship from 30-year-old Jimmy Carter in a sensational upset in Madison Square Garden.

A 4-1 underdog, the 26-year-old DeMarco, who had never gone more than 10 rounds before in his nine year career, won the 15-rounder with ease. The decision was unanimous and was met with a roar of approval by the slim crowd of 5,730 which paid $23,727.

The broad-shouldered, bow-legged Brooklyn battler outhustled, outfought and outmanuevered the hard-hitting New York Negro. Paddy made Carter fight the way he wanted to as he piled up points with a flicking left jab, flashing hooks and daring flurries.

LaSalle Closes With 83-62 Win Over Mt. Savage

LaSalle High's Explorers closed their cage season last night with an 83-62 triumph over the Mt. Savage Braves on the SS. Peter and Paul court. It was LaSalle's 16th victory of the year in 24 games.

Big Phil Geatz banged home 31 points on 13 goals and 5-6 at the foul line to take scoring honors for the game. The outburst gave the blond LaSalle pivot man the scoring title for the Explorers this season with 251 points to Hugh Nolan's 248 despite a 20-point spree by Nolan in last night's contest.

The two teams battled to a 16-16 tie in the initial quarter and the score was tied four times in the first half. Geatz poured three consecutive baskets through the hoops to give LaSalle a lead it never relinquished midway in the second quarter.

Thirty-six personals were called on the two teams by Officials Jim Roby and Lou Baker with Ricky Harris of LaSalle existing via personals with 5:15 to play in the third period and Dick Robeson of Mt. Savage leaving with 4 minutes left in the final stanza.

Eddie Williams paced the Braves' attack with 21 markers, followed by Ronnie Carter with 14. The loss was the 16th in 21 games for visitors. The lineups:

Dr. Earl K. Holt Will Leave For New Hampshire

Accepts Hospital Position At Concord

BALTIMORE, March 5 (AP) — Dr. Earl K. Holt Jr., leaves Maryland for his new post as superintendent of New Hampshire State Hospital in Concord with the highest praise for his colleagues here and a frown for cuts in the State mental health budget.

The 33-year-old son of two psychiatrists has served 19 months as assistant commissioner of the Department of Mental Hygiene here.

He will become ranking administrative officer of New Hampshire's mental hygiene program.

"You will never find a better commissioner or better superintendents than you have in Maryland," he said.

"The patients are better dressed and cleaner and there have been other strides. The educational program, for example, is coming along very nicely, though, of course it will not produce dividends for a few years," he added.

The doctor is "not very happy" about restrictions on the Maryland department's budget.

"I'm not angry about them," he said, "and I don't say they shouldn't have been made. But while dollars don't make good hospitals, dollars make good hospitals possible."

Dr. Holt's colleagues will say goodbye to him March 17 at a farewell dinner.

Over Half Girl Students In Petersburg High Enroll In 4-Year Home Economics Courses

PETERSBURG — Ninety four girls out of 167 in the upper four classes of Petersburg High School are enrolled in one of the four classes in Home Economics, reported Bess Mohl, who is completing her 20th year at the school.

A survey of the students enrolled indicates that many are members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes. The course, which was originally intended to be only a two-year course, but was extended to a full four years by request of the students, sees about 12 per cent of those first enrolled complete all four years of the course.

In the 15' by 29' classroom, where the students meet, they are confronted with the problem of doing their classroom work at the same time doing the labratory work in the adjoining room, which is even smaller than the classroom. The small kitchen is well equipped for its limited space with a few wall cabinets, two electric stoves, an automatic washer, two wash sinks and a refrigerator. Spaced around the walls of the classroom are ten sewing machines used by the students as part of their instructional work.

First year students in the course, outlined Mrs. Mohl, begin a course of study which includes all phases of homemaking and keeping a central theme, "A Family Centered Home", in mind at all times. Three definite units of study are made as the classes study repair, remodeling and care of clothing; food and its preparation with individual stress placed upon light meals the first year; and the home as a place to live and to enjoy.

During the second year of the course, the students who have had a summer project between the Freshman and Sophomore years are ready for work on woolen clothes and heavier meals. Special attention is given to the dinner meal, continued Mrs. Mohl. Advanced work is given on the housing unit, as the care of the building is studied and put into practice when the class works on their own classroom and in the kitchen.

The third and fourth years of the course are used by the girls to make suits or dresses of their own individual needs. One of the biggest projects during these years is the planning and serving of a school lunch menu, as well as planning and serving a family meal to other members of the class group.

The Home Economics program is jointly financed by the Grant County Board of Education and the West Virginia Department of Education, ended Mrs. Mohl, who expressed the hope that the future will bring more small equipment and space to the confined quarters.

Keyser Child Badly Burned

KEYSER—The condition of little Patricia Wolfe, who suffered second degree burns when her dress caught fire, was reported as "good" last night at Potomac Valley Hospital.

The little seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wolfe, 41 Gilmore Street, was burned about the arms, legs, back and stomach, in the kitchen of her home Wednesday afternoon.

Her parents said she had reached across the kitchen stove and her clothing caught fire from an open gas burner.

She screamed and her mother rushed to her aid, tore the burning dress from her and extinguished the flames.

The child was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital in serious condition suffering from burns and shock. However, attendants and physicians last night reported her condition as "good."

Dr. Earl K. Holt Will Leave For New Hampshire

Accepts Hospital Position At Concord

BALTIMORE, March 5 (AP) — Dr. Earl K. Holt Jr., leaves Maryland for his new post as superintendent of New Hampshire State Hospital in Concord with the highest praise for his colleagues here and a frown for cuts in the State mental health budget.

The 33-year-old son of two psychiatrists has served 19 months as assistant commissioner of the Department of Mental Hygiene here.

He will become ranking administrative officer of New Hampshire's mental hygiene program.

"You will never find a better commissioner or better superintendents than you have in Maryland," he said.

"The patients are better dressed and cleaner and there have been other strides. The educational program, for example, is coming along very nicely, though, of course it will not produce dividends for a few years," he added.

The doctor is "not very happy" about restrictions on the Maryland department's budget.

"I'm not angry about them," he said, "and I don't say they shouldn't have been made. But while dollars don't make good hospitals, dollars make good hospitals possible."

Dr. Holt's colleagues will say goodbye to him March 17 at a farewell dinner.

PETERSBURG — Ninety four girls out of 167 in the upper four classes of Petersburg High School are enrolled in one of the four classes in Home Economics, reported Bess Mohl, who is completing her 20th year at the school.

A survey of the students enrolled indicates that many are members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes. The course, which was originally intended to be only a two-year course, but was extended to a full four years by request of the students, sees about 12 per cent of those first enrolled complete all four years of the course.

In the 15' by 29' classroom, where the students meet, they are confronted with the problem of doing their classroom work at the same time doing the labratory work in the adjoining room, which is even smaller than the classroom. The small kitchen is well equipped for its limited space with a few wall cabinets, two electric stoves, an automatic washer, two wash sinks and a refrigerator. Spaced around the walls of the classroom are ten sewing machines used by the students as part of their instructional work.

First year students in the course, outlined Mrs. Mohl, begin a course of study which includes all phases of homemaking and keeping a central theme, "A Family Centered Home", in mind at all times. Three definite units of study are made as the classes study repair, remodeling and care of clothing; food and its preparation with individual stress placed upon light meals the first year; and the home as a place to live and to enjoy.

During the second year of the course, the students who have had a summer project between the Freshman and Sophomore years are ready for work on woolen clothes and heavier meals. Special attention is given to the dinner meal, continued Mrs. Mohl. Advanced work is given on the housing unit, as the care of the building is studied and put into practice when the class works on their own classroom and in the kitchen.

The third and fourth years of the course are used by the girls to make suits or dresses of their own individual needs. One of the biggest projects during these years is the planning and serving of a school lunch menu, as well as planning and serving a family meal to other members of the class group.

The Home Economics program is jointly financed by the Grant County Board of Education and the West Virginia Department of Education, ended Mrs. Mohl, who expressed the hope that the future will bring more small equipment and space to the confined quarters.

Keyser Makes Plans For '54 Recreation

Directors Chosen; Meeting Scheduled

KEYSER—The Keyser Recreation Board has made appointments and plans for the spring opening of playgrounds.

A favorable report is made by John R. Shelton on the prospects for an outstanding Barber Shop Quartet presentation, announcing that five groups have signified intention of participating from out of the city.

The board also announces that a special meeting will be held on March 10 with State Recreation Consultant John G. Scherlacher, of West Virginia University. The meeting will be held here.

A tentative program has been outlined for a "ground breaking" ceremony to be conducted at the site of the new swimming pool, as soon as the contractor can get equipment here when the weather is suitable.

In addition to a discussion on playground opening, the members re-appointed John R. Shelton and Frederick T. Clark as recreational directors for the season. Girl assistants will be appointed to assist the two directors again this year. The board also discussed the Teen-Age Center.

It was decided to invite all officers of the several playground to a meeting to be held April 6, at which time tentative programs will be outlined for the season. The board will encourage playground officers to present new ideas and projects at the meeting.

Garrett County Youth Is Shot With Pistol

OAKLAND—A 16-year-old Garrett County youth suffered an accidental pistol wound in his right hip last Sunday, the result of horseplay with an older brother.

Garrett County Sheriff Paul W. Fisher, who investigated, said Carltop Whitmer was wearing a hip holster with a .38 calibre pistol when he drove up to the home of his older brother, Glenn Whitmer, in Gortner. The older brother made a playful grab for the pistol, Sheriff Fisher said, adding that the gun was apparently cocked as the younger brother drew back.

The gun went off at close range while in Glenn Whitmer's hand and the projectile entered Carlton's right hip.

The youth was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, where attaches said no attempt will be made at present to remove the bullet since it is lodged close to the spine.

Pennsylvania State Police also reported another accident Wednesday morning which involved a tractor trailer. Investigating troopers said a rig operated by Robert Holliday, 45, of Grittleberg, N. J., was struck by a car operated by Leo V. Pittman, 28, of Star Route, Everett, Pa., as the trailer was being backed onto Route 220 two miles north of Bedford.

Britain Claims New Submarine World's Fastest

BARROW, England, March 5 (AP) —Britain today launched a new submarine hailed by experts here as the world's fastest. The 225-foot craft—boosted along by hydrogen peroxide which most women know as hair bleach—was developed from captured German war secrets.

Naval experts said the secrecy-shrouded Explorer—Britain's answer to America's atomic-powered sub, the Nautilus—will be able to dart halfway around the world without surfacing. An Admiralty spokesman said he would "not deny" reports that the Explorer can outrun the Nautilus.

The 340-foot Nautilus, launched last Jan. 21, is expected to develop more than 26 knots (30 miles an hour) while submerged. She is designed for almost unlimited cruising range. The conventional battery and Diesel powered submarine has a top speed of 16 or 17 knots when submerged. A British Admiralty announcement said the hydrogen peroxide was used as a propulsion "agent" on the Explorer. The actual fuel used is oil but details of the engine are secret.

Rear Adm. Geoffrey Barnard, deputy chief of the British naval staff, told a luncheon gathering after the launching that the Explorer's novel propulsion mechanism was developed from German secrets "left lying about after the war."

Three Airmen Sentenced In Fatal Beating

Convicted In Death Of French Soldier

BITBURG, Germany, March 5 (AP)—Three Young U. S. airmen wept hysterically today after a court martial convicted them of fatally beating a French soldier. They were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 5 to 10 years.

The three men stood motionless as the conviction was read, but after they left the courtroom they broke down. A doctor and a chaplain were called. A court officer said, "The men are terribly shocked. It is a stiff jolt."

Passing of sentence four hours later was anti-climactic. Airman 3.C. Thurman G. Holcomb, 20 of Big Stone Gap, Va., and S.Sgt. Frank E. Puckett, 22, of Banner Elk, N. C., were sentenced to 10 years hard labor each. Airman 1/4. C. Don G. Wells, 22, of Keavy, Ky., got 5 years.

They were convicted in the fatal fist-beating of French Pvt. Louis Piazza, 21, on Jan. 2 in the French Zone town of Trier near this U. S. airbase.

All three had pleaded innocent. The court waited nearly two hours for the trio to regain their composure before bringing them back into the courtroom.

Holcomb, called to the stand, was asked if he had anything to say.

"I am very sorry for anything I have done," he replied.

But one fact which is obvious is the usually greater value of a king and queen on your side as opposed to the ace of the suit. The ace can never take more than one trick, while the combination might take two. Then again, think of what value those cards add to a jack, or even to a 10 where it can be finessed against a jack.

2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 NT

Though the honor strength was divided evenly, with 20 count to each side by the 4-3-2-1 method, it seems as if South could get two tricks with each of his king-queens, by leading toward it, plus probably a ninth if a third spade established soon enough.

That is not quite what happened, however, as a little element known as "timing" upset the applecart for the overbidders. West led soundly, the second suit named by the dummy, his club 2, which the Q won. The spade 4 was led to the Q, the heart 4 to the Q and then the spade 2, on which East used his A so he could return the club J to the A. The club 6 then removed the K, setting up the 5 for West. Now the diamond 2 was led to the K, enabling South then to cash the spade Q, 10 and 7.

The heart 9 lead now gave West a chance to score his A and the club 5, following that with the diamond J to the A to give his side its fifth trick and beat the contract.

This hand is interesting as showing how much closer South came to getting nine tricks with the four king-queens than he could have with four aces such as the other side held. It managed to get only those four toppers home plus one other trick in clubs.

"Hello, Emily. What's new?"

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD March 5 (INS) — Five months in New York directing Shirley Booth in "By the Beautiful Sea" was an exciting experience for Chuck Walters. But when he found that the Booth play would not go into New York for another month because it was impossible to get the right theatre, he heard the siren call of Hollywood again.

He's coming home to direct "The Glass Slipper" with Leslie Caron and the Petit Ballet troupe.

Rest assured that MGM will give Leslie (up for an Oscar for "Lili") a big cast. Michael Wilding plays opposite her and the entire setup she had with "Lili" repeats — Helen Deutsch scripting, Edwin Knopf producing, Walters directing, and Bronislau Kaper writing the score.

So, I was very interested to hear that Howard Hawks, who is producing and directing "The Land of the Pharoah" in Egypt, has signed Hawkins through an arrangement with J. Arthur Rank. Hawkins is one of the top British stars.

That sensitive boy, John Kerr, in Deborah Kerr's play, "Tea and Sympathy," has been asked to play the role of the young Charles Lindbergh in "The Spirit of St. Louis."

Kerr, who is very shy and who, definitely, I am told, is afraid of motion pictures, hasn't agreed as yet. But how wonderful he would be.

Leland Hayward and Billy Wilder have said they want an unknown, and young Kerr would be unknown as far as motion pictures are concerned.

I asked Lana Turner, when I was at her house at a cocktail party, whether it's true that she and Lex Barker are putting a night club act together to introduce at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas. She just laughted and didn't answer, but I hear it very straight that secretly she and Lex have been working on this idea.

Chatter in Hollywood:

You'll never make me believe that Julius LaRosa's interest in Dorothy McGuire is yesterday's news. She's the singer whose G. I. husband made a loud protest when she and Julius were linked following LaRosa's trouble with Arthur Godfrey.

Julius received a special delivery letter from Dorothy, and although he was with a crowd of friends, he left immediately to read the letter by himself. He also listens to Arthur Godfrey's show every morning on the radio, and I don't believe that's because of any interest he has in Mr. Godfrey.

Is or is not Dawn Addams' engagement to Prince Vittorio Massimo broken?

Mrs. Rudolph Schirmer has left for New York w[illegible] getting her divorce. She was in [illegible] twice and both times, at the last minute, there was a switch in plans.

Martha Raye, who's doing so well on TV, also has a new romance in her life. He's Eddie Olsen, TV production man.

The man in Julie London Webb's life seems to be Pete Rugolo, who gave Betty Hutton such a rush a few days ago. He and Julie were at the Encore again.

That's all today. See you Monday.

So, I was very interested to hear that Howard Hawks, who is producing and directing "The Land of the Pharoah" in Egypt, has signed Hawkins through an arrangement with J. Arthur Rank. Hawkins is one of the top British stars.

With Howard is his bride, the former Dee Hartford, and they are already in Cairo shooting backgrounds.

That sensitive boy, John Kerr, in Deborah Kerr's play, "Tea and Sympathy," has been asked to play the role of the young Charles Lindbergh in "The Spirit of St. Louis."

Kerr, who is very shy and who, definitely, I am told, is afraid of motion pictures, hasn't agreed as yet. But how wonderful he would be.

Leland Hayward and Billy Wilder have said they want an unknown, and young Kerr would be unknown as far as motion pictures are concerned.

I asked Lana Turner, when I was at her house at a cocktail party, whether it's true that she and Lex Barker are putting a night club act together to introduce at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas. She just laughted and didn't answer, but I hear it very straight that secretly she and Lex have been working on this idea.

Chatter in Hollywood:

You'll never make me believe that Julius LaRosa's interest in Dorothy McGuire is yesterday's news. She's the singer whose G. I. husband made a loud protest when she and Julius were linked following LaRosa's trouble with Arthur Godfrey.

Julius received a special delivery letter from Dorothy, and although he was with a crowd of friends, he left immediately to read the letter by himself. He also listens to Arthur Godfrey's show every morning on the radio, and I don't believe that's because of any interest he has in Mr. Godfrey.

Is or is not Dawn Addams' engagement to Prince Vittorio Massimo broken?

Mrs. Rudolph Schirmer has left for New York w[illegible] getting her divorce. She was in [illegible] twice and both times, at the last minute, there was a switch in plans.

Martha Raye, who's doing so well on TV, also has a new romance in her life. He's Eddie Olsen, TV production man.

The man in Julie London Webb's life seems to be Pete Rugolo, who gave Betty Hutton such a rush a few days ago. He and Julie were at the Encore again.

Tomorrow night the Walter Annenbergs are giving a dinner dance for Joan Benny and Seth Baker, their bridal attendants and about 30 young people at the Mocambo.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

The Screen's First First Lady

Mary Pickford, one of the all-time immortals of the films, has been in town for a while and it seemed like a good idea to ask her about this shiny new medium — television. She's been on it only a couple of times, —at an Academy Awards ceremony, some bond drives she could not avoid—and a quiz show and she's very much opposed to appearing live. She feels the public's mental image of a celebrity should be protected as a sacred duty. No Pickford film has ever been on TV and none will be either. She doesn't want the Mary of yesterday competing with today's standards.

John Crosby

But the 60-year-old Mary has got a lot of firm ideas about television, nevertheless. For one thing, she thinks there's a great deal of acting talent around that isn't being used. She thinks TV has got to scour the country for it, though, the way the movies did.

"They should be scouring the highways and byways, even grammar schools. But you need really able scouts to find people. Who would have picked Will Rogers or Marie Dressler from their looks? It's like a book you haven't read when you just look at a person's face. Young actresses used to ask me if I thought they'd be good in movies and I'd say, 'I don't know. I haven't read you yet'."

She feels that experienced scouts with the ability to recognize talent ought to be sent out to look behind the soda fountains and in elevators for promising youngsters rather than, as is the present case, waiting for the talent to come to TV. She thinks that today's young people are able to see the finest in plays and movies and so have developed appreciation and the ability to express themselves far beyond the point that was possible in her own day. The kids, she thinks, are ready. But somebody has to go look for them.

It's a nice optimistic thought and I hope she's right. This is a great big country and yet the sources of talent are still New York and Hollywood. You have to be in one of those citadels of show business—or you don't exist. Anyone with ambition for show business heads for New York or Hollywood But a lot of others who have perhaps no ambition but have got talent, or have both talent and ambition but no money, stay home.

By talent, I rather think Miss Pickford i speaking of personality, which is a form of talent too little appreciated. I recall that out-spoken Hungarian, Michael Curtiz, who has been a movie director in Hollywood since the Spaniards owned it, telling me that talent without a vivid personality would get you nowhere in films. If you had the personality, it would be nice if you had talent too. But it wasn't necessary, as one of Mr. Curtiz's discoveries, Errol Flynn, has repeatedly demonstrated.

I doubt that there's any one of us who has not seen a waitress who was not more captivating than some of the Hollywood products. Conversely, it's a little dismaying to see the expensive training lavished one some of the wierdest raw material in order to teach it how to walk and talk when you know there's a girl down the street who can walk and talk very well without lessons.

At Pickfair, Miss Pickford and

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Q O U G N J J U I U L Q B Y N P P W B J Q N P L
S L Q O U L U I Q S W U I Q N P S L Q—F N J P Z P U.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THEN FLY BETIMES, FOR ONLY THEY CONQUER LOVE, THAT RUN AWAY—CAREW.

But the 60-year-old Mary has got a lot of firm ideas about television, nevertheless. For one thing, she thinks there's a great deal of acting talent around that isn't being used. She thinks TV has got to scour the country for it, though, the way the movies did.

"They should be scouring the highways and byways, even grammar schools. But you need really able scouts to find people. Who would have picked Will Rogers or Marie Dressler from their looks? It's like a book you haven't read when you just look at a person's face. Young actresses used to ask me if I thought they'd be good in movies and I'd say, 'I don't know. I haven't read you yet'."

She feels that experienced scouts with the ability to recognize talent ought to be sent out to look behind the soda fountains and in elevators for promising youngsters rather than, as is the present case, waiting for the talent to come to TV. She thinks that today's young people are able to see the finest in plays and movies and so have developed appreciation and the ability to express themselves far beyond the point that was possible in her own day. The kids, she thinks, are ready. But somebody has to go look for them.

It's a nice optimistic thought and I hope she's right. This is a great big country and yet the sources of talent are still New York and Hollywood. You have to be in one of those citadels of show business—or you don't exist. Anyone with ambition for show business heads for New York or Hollywood But a lot of others who have perhaps no ambition but have got talent, or have both talent and ambition but no money, stay home.

By talent, I rather think Miss Pickford is speaking of personality, which is a form of talent too little appreciated. I recall that out-spoken Hungarian, Michael Curtiz, who has been a movie director in Hollywood since the Spaniards owned it, telling me that talent without a vivid personality would get you nowhere in films. If you had the personality, it would be nice if you had talent too. But it wasn't necessary, as one of Mr. Curtiz's discoveries, Errol Flynn, has repeatedly demonstrated.

I doubt that there's any one of us who has not seen a waitress who was not more captivating than some of the Hollywood products. Conversely, it's a little dismaying to see the expensive training lavished one some of the wierdest raw material in order to teach it how to walk and talk when you know there's a girl down the street who can walk and talk very well without lessons.

At Pickfair, Miss Pickford and

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Q O U G N J J U I U L Q B Y N P P W B J Q N P L
S L Q O U L U I Q S W U I Q N P S L Q — F N J P Z P U.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THEN FLY BETIMES, FOR ONLY THEY CONQUER LOVE, THAT RUN AWAY—CAREW.

Society Gives $50. For Fund

Refreshments were served with the tables decorated in an Irish theme. Mrs. William Clayton and Mrs. Mabel Watkins were hostesses for the evening.

Others present were Rev. B. F. Hartman, Mrs. Amelia Miller, Mrs. Elwood Stewart, Mrs. Charles Bauer, Mrs. Clayton, Mrs. Polly Day, Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. Anna Bowers, Robert Webster, Robert Webster, Jr., and Miss Bonnie Tauer.

Rise Almost Takes Stock Market To 24-Year High

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—The Stock Market pressed ahead today firmly with a rise that took it to within a shade of a new 24-year high.

The oils and railroads provided the energy for the assault on the old peaks. They were helped strongly by the aircrafts, coppers, steels, chemicals, rubbers, utilities and others. No section of the market was depressed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 70 cents and advanced to $116.20. That compares with the 1953-54 peak of $116.30 set on Jan. 5, 1953, a mark that has not been exceeded since June 4, 1930.

As a general rule, price changes were bounded by 1 to 3 points on the higher side and around a point on the lower side.

Rise Almost Takes Stock Market To 24-Year High

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—The Stock Market pressed ahead today firmly with a rise that took it to within a shade of a new 24-year high.

The oils and railroads provided the energy for the assault on the old peaks. They were helped strongly by the aircrafts, coppers, steels, chemicals, rubbers, utilities and others. No section of the market was depressed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 70 cents and advanced to $116.20. That compares with the 1953-54 peak of $116.30 set on Jan. 5, 1953, a mark that has not been exceeded since June 4, 1930.

Volume expanded to 2,030,000 shares, passing the two million mark for the tenth time this year.

As a general rule, price changes were bounded by 1 to 3 points on the higher side and around a point on the lower side.

Southern Pacific was the day's most active issue up 1⅞ at 45⅜ on 57,400 shares. Glenn Martin was second up ⅜ at 20.

City Officials Agree On Street Cleaning Plans

Movable Signs To Help Clear Vehicles

City officials yesterday promised full cooperation with a broad program which would use public cooperation and existing ordinances to clear vehicles from streets which are to be cleaned by Street Department crews.

The Mayor and Council turned thumbs down on a Street Department sponsored ordinance which would have given street workers power to have towed away any vehicles found parked in the downtown areas from 1 to 7 a. m. on nights they were to be visited by street sweeping crews.

A suggestion that the power be given to the Police Department met the same fate, on grounds existing ordinances were sufficient.

Objects To Plan

The most vocal objector to the ordinance was Mayor Roy W. Eves, on grounds it provided no warning prior to towing, that police powers would be given to street workers, and that the job can be done with public cooperation with existing ordinances.

To be studied is a plan proposed largely by the mayor which calls for the placing of metal signs on streets the day they are to be cleaned. Those who ignore the signs would be subject to prosecution by the Police Department as violators of parking rules.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, promised to prepare plans for securing the signs, but pointed out that it will cost money to purchase the signs.

Will Plan Program

She agreed that "all must help" and that it was time to "try something."

Police Commissioner John J. Long promised police will do all they can to help.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, pointed out that red lanterns could be placed on the signs, if necessary.

The mayor said a reflecting sign would probably be sufficient.

One problem is that the signs would have to be affixed and taken down on each visit of the street sweeper.

This would take time, and the signs cost money, but it was pointed out that money is wasted when street sweepers visit a street and are unable to clean it because of parked cars.

Mrs. Roeder proposed several weeks ago that an ordinance be passed to clear vehicles from downtown streets on nights they are to be visited by the sweeper.

She insisted it is the council's responsibility to foster a year-around clean up program.

City Has Ordnance

Finan pointed out that Section 30, Chapter 14, of the City Code covers the subject of litter dropped in the city, and added he placed the clause giving street crews authority to tow cars away only to avoid red tape.

Commissioner Long said police enforce every complaint they get on violations of the litter ordinance.

It was suggested by the mayor that streets could be cleared for the street sweeper if police were to warn motorists, as they do when a street is to be cleared for a parade.

Commissioner William J. Edwards suggested that warning tags could be made for police to put on cars, advising them that the street is to be cleaned.

Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan recalled that a motorcycle could be used to place the signs, as is done for sickness.

Blue Ridge Bus Lines Purchase Seen Imminent

Greyhound Corporation Near Close Of Deal

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 5 (AP)—The long contemplated, much discussed purchase of Blue Ridge Bus Lines by the Greyhound Corp. appeared imminent tonight.

R. Paul Smith, president of Blue Ridge and its parent firm, Potomac Edison Co. acknowledged "we have just about closed the basis of our agreement."

Smith said he would have an announcement Monday.

While admitting that basic terms of an agreement have been reached by Blue Ridge and Greyhound, Smith said the actual transaction might still be a year or more off because of the necessary clearance of such a deal by the various regulatory agencies concerned.

Last October, commenting on a report that the deal was about to go through, Smith laughingly said such reports had been in circulation for 10 years.

He said at that time it was still talk and that Greyhound wasn't the only rumored purchaser. But he said it was all talk.

Tonight, Smith said he could only say that a basis of agreement had been reached with Greyhound Corp. and that he would make a full announcement Monday.

City Defers Decision On Smoke Plan

Mayor Roy W. Eves, under whose jurisdiction the program falls, reported he had been checking complaints during the illness of Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector.

It was agreed that the work would be continued on that basis until March 19, when the sick leave and vacation time due Owens expires.

Saying the subject was brought up at the request of Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, Mayor Eves reported he had asked Owens to continue treatment until all of his time is used up.

Services are being provided, the mayor said, in reply to Police Commissioner John J. Long's query, "Who is doing the work?"

The mayor said he himself had been handling complaints lodged against Memorial Hospital and the Queen City station.

In reply to Commissioner Long's, "Do we want the work to go on?" Commissioner William V. Keegan replied that was a question to be decided when Owens' time is up.

"We would do well," Commissioner Keegan replied, "to get four or five more factories in Cumberland and forget about smoke."

The mayor said the city has no control over domestic furnaces, adding that the Pittsburgh program provides this through controlling the quality of coal, and increases the cost of heating to consumers since they must purchase high grades of coal.

Mine Water Plan Is 'Dangerous,' McKeldin States

Health And Resources Bodies Meet Governor

ANNAPOLIS, March 5 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin told Secretary of Interior McKay today that Maryland officials think a plan to dump Pennsylvania mine water into Chesapeake Bay is "fraught with danger."

The message was sent to Washington after a meeting of the Governor and 11 representatives of state departments and agencies involved in health, natural resources, conservation and recreation.

Decide To Mark Time

The telegram to McKay asked for a meeting between the secretary and the committee, including the governor, and urged no further action on the plan.

Dr. R. V. Truitt, director of the Department of Research and Education, said at today's meeting "There are enough rivers in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to absorb this waste."

Others said the plan probably was made because of stringent anti-pollution laws in the neighboring state.

Would Harm Oyster Beds

Truitt said that even if the water wasn't acid it would harm Maryland's oyster beds by diluting the salt water needed for their growth.

Ernest Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Department, said the 137-mile tunnel would dump the water in to Maryland's favorite fishing, hunting and recreation area and would coat the bottom of the fishing grounds with iron deposits and kill marine life.

McKeldin said he would name a chairman of the committee Monday and would follow the McKay telegram with a letter.

Mahoney Joins Protest

BALTIMORE, March 5 (AP) — George P. Mahoney, Democratic candidate for nomination for governor, tonight joined the host of others who are protesting a federal plan to dump waste water from Pennsylvania mines into the Chesapeake Bay.

"I urge that you use every facility at your command to head the proposal off," Mahoney said in a letter to secretary of the Interior McKay.

Mahoney called the plan to bring the mine drainage to the bay a threat to Maryland's seafoods as well as the scenic and recreational values of the bay.

Mahoney's opponent in the primary race, H. C. Byrd, was among others expressing the same opposition earlier this week.

Ike Refers City Stamp Request To Postal Department

In a letter to Mayor Roy W. Eves, Sherman Adams, presidential assistant, said President Eisenhower appreciated receiving the resolution.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. also thanked the city for his copy of the resolution.

Thousands of signatures have already been secured on petitions, being circulated by the Allegany County Historical Society and the Cumberland Free Public Library, calling for a special stamp to mark the 200th anniversary of the historic fort founded here January 26, 1755.

Douglas To Begin Canal Hike Here

Expedition Scheduled For March 20

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said yesterday his Chesapeake and Ohio Canal hiking expedition will start from Cumberland March 20.

But U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, visiting at home over the weekend, said Justice Douglas had telephoned him from Washington late yesterday to report the change in plans.

Sen. Beall, one of the strongest and earliest proponents of plans to build a C & O Canal Parkway from Washington to Cumberland, plans to have dinner with Justice Douglas when the party arrives here by automobile March 19.

The Justice got the idea for the hike after The Washington Post had run an editorial backing the Parkway. The Justice, veteran of many a rugged outdoor expedition, wrote to the Post to say he favored preserving the canal area as it is.

That was in January. Since then, such interest has been aroused that the hiking party now includes about 25 people, many of them naturalists.

Sen. Beall said Justice Douglas and his party plan to stay overnight at local hotels March 19 before "saddling up" for the long walk next morning.

No definite timetable for the jaunt has been announced, but the party plans to walk all the way to Washington, camping out along the way.

Sen. Beall, who will be unable to make the trip, said he is looking forward to his dinner meeting with Justice Douglas. The two men have traded considerable correspondence over the Parkway in Washington papers.

Police Continue Investigation Of Hit-Run Death

Raymond P. Alkire Is Killed Instantly

City and county authorities are continuing an investigation into the hit-and-run death of Raymond Peter Alkire, 79, of Wiley Ford, who was killed instantly Thursday night on River Avenue near the Wiley Ford Bridge.

Clothes of the man were examined thoroughly yesterday in an effort to find some clue in his death. Two sons of the victim, Benjamin and John Alkire, who resided with their father in Wiley Ford, were also questioned yesterday at the State's Attorney's office.

One factor in the man's death was the fact that snow was swirling about the street at the time of the accident, which would hamper the view of the motorist. Police said practically every bone in Alkire's body was broken in the mishap, which occurred about 11:20 p. m.

Police Headquarters was notified of the death at 11:25 p. m. and Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney, Officers Kenneth W. Morrissey and Richard C. Lashley went to the scene. Later, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, and City Police Detective Roy C. Hawse, joined them.

From the position of the man's body, police judged he was struck by a Cumberland-bound vehicle. An immediate check of night spots in nearby West Virginia was made by police to learn if any persons had left about that time for Cumberland.

They added the man was probably carried for some distance. Two splotches of blood were found 23 feet apart on the highway and there is a possibility that the victim's blood got on the hit-and-run car.

There were no skid marks. The body was found by two passing motorists, Ray DeHaven, 644 Columbia Avenue, and Ralph H. Johnson, RD 1. Another driver stopped and phoned police from a nearby establishment, police added.

The body was taken to the Scarpelli Funeral Home.

Sloan served in the Navy for 29 months in World War II, and during that time saw action in five major invasions in the Pacific. Affiliated with the Methodist Church, of which his wife is a member, he also is a member of George's Creek Valley Lodge 151, A. F. & A. M., the Lonaconing Republican Club, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The Lonaconing Republican said he will file his official papers with the Board of Election Supervisors in the next five or 10 days.

James W. Bishop, 15 North Prospect Square, who has been serving as County Treasurer by appointment of the County Commissioners since October 1, 1951, filed his notice of candidacy for election January 28. He also is a Republican and a native of Lonaconing.

Parkway Funds May Be Placed In 1955 Budget

Cabinet Member To Ask Allocation

Funds for constructing the first several miles of the C&O Canal Parkway between Cumberland and Hancock still have a chance of being included in the 1955 budget by Congress.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall last night said he has met with the Secretary of the Interior several times to discuss the possibility of having funds for the project included in the budget.

Senator Beall added that Secretary of Interior Dougles McKay has agreed to ask President Eisenhower to include the necessary funds in the budget. In the event that the money is placed in the budget for use in constructing the Parkway, the funds would become available July 1.

Mapping Under Way

The Frostburg Senator said he would continue to work for the allocation so that construction of the Parkway could begin as soon as possible. He added that funds for the aerial photographing of the entire Parkway route have already been included in the budget of the Department of Interior.

Last month Department of Interior surveyors and engineers began preliminary work for mapping of the C&O Canal near Cumberland. Mapping work, including placing of bench marks along the canal right-of-way, is still continuing, Beall said.

The agreement between the federal government and the State of Maryland concerning the Parkway is that the Department of Interior would pay for the cost of constructing the Parkway, and Maryland would purchase the additional right-of-way land along the canal.

W. Va. Uninterested

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, said the SRC has funds to take options on the land as soon as it is needed by the Department of Interior to go ahead with the project.

One source reported that two West Virginia representatives in Congress have declared their state has no interest in the Parkway, although it will run close to the Maryland-West Virginia line.

At the same time, however, the local office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security reports that many West Virginia residents from nearby communities have applied for jobs in the event construction work gets underway soon.

When work on the Parkway does begin, it will start at or near Cumberland.

38,983 Voters Now Are Listed On County Books

Slight Decline Shown In January

Allegany County's registered voter list continued a slight drop in January as 21 new registrants were added and 25 deleted—23 by death and two by request, leaving 38,983 citizens able to vote as of February 1, according to William A. Wilson, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

Those added in January by Registrars Irvin J. Neat, Republican, and C. William McDermott, Democrat, included 15 Republicans (eight men and seven women) and six Democrats (five men and one woman.)

The 23 stricken off the poll books because of death included 14 Republican (eight white men, five white women and one colored man) and nine Democrats (eight men and one woman.) Removed by request were two men, one belonging to each party.

Besides the deletions and additions, the registrars transferred the names of 85 voters from one precinct or election district to another, made eight changes of names and changed 36 addresses of persons moving from one place to another within the same precinct.

The February 1 voter list showed 38,531 white voters and 452 Negro voters registered. By parties there were 22,044 Republicans, 16,679 Democrats, 192 persons who declined to state political preference, 23 Socialists and 45 members of other parties.

By sex the Republicans included 11,386 men and 10,658 women, the Democrats 8,625 men and 8,054 women, the independents 149 men and 43 women, the Socialists 15 men and eight women, and those in other parties 29 men and 16 women.

Registration is expected to pick up during the spring months as the June 28 state and county primary election nears. The deadline for registering for a primary vote is May 29. Registrars are on duty at the Board of Election Supervisors office in the Court House Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p. m. and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays. Special visits for registration in towns around the county start April 12.

McFarland Impressed With Data Presented At Highway Safety Conference In Capitol

Returning from a Highway Safety Conference called in Washington by President Dwight D. Eisenhower last month, Herbert R. McFarland, 612 Washington Street, has compiled an interesting report of the sessions.

McFarland, who represented the Military Order of the Purple Heart at the conclave, said President Eisenhower made a 12-minute talk to the assembly, outlining the problem and calling for a program to decrease highway and traffic injury, fatality and monetary loss.

Every state was represented at the conference and governors of more than half the states of the union participated. Sinclair Weeks, Secretary of Commerce, presided and the invocation was given by the chaplain of the U. S. Senate, Rev. Frederick Brown Harris.

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado was chairman of the conference steering committee and Rear Admiral Harold B. Miller, USN Retired, was the conference director.

McFarland said the event was well-planned and organized with numerous group conferences, which broke the group of 4,000 delegates down into workable-sized discussion sections.

Safety engineers, roads officials, numerous organizations, insurance groups, transportation men, representatives of women's clubs, and almost every conceivable civic body was represented, providing a real cross-section of America, McFarland commented.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon presented conference reports in a 20-minute talk. Workshop panels were most interesting and helpful. McFarland says he learned more about the problem and possible solutions in a few days than he imagined possible.

Cities which have the best safety records were represented and officials showed how they have done the job to minimize traffic toll.

Movable Signs To Help Clear Vehicles

City officials yesterday promised full cooperation with a broad program which would use public cooperation and existing ordinances to clear vehicles from streets which are to be cleaned by Street Department crews.

The Mayor and Council turned thumbs down on a Street Department sponsored ordinance which would have given street workers power to have towed away any vehicles found parked in the downtown areas from 1 to 7 a. m. on nights they were to be visited by street sweeping crews.

A suggestion that the power be given to the Police Department met the same fate, on grounds existing ordinances were sufficient.

Objects To Plan

The most vocal objector to the ordinance was Mayor Roy W. Eves, on grounds it provided no warning prior to towing, that police powers would be given to street workers, and that the job can be done with public cooperation with existing ordinances.

To be studied is a plan proposed largely by the mayor which calls for the placing of metal signs on streets the day they are to be cleaned. Those who ignore the signs would be subject to prosecution by the Police Department as violators of parking rules.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, promised to prepare plans for securing the signs, but pointed out that it will cost money to purchase the signs.

Will Plan Program

She agreed that "all must help" and that it was time to "try something."

Police Commissioner John J. Long promised police will do all they can to help.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, pointed out that red lanterns could be placed on the signs, if necessary.

The mayor said a reflecting sign would probably be sufficient.

One problem is that the signs would have to be affixed and taken down on each visit of the street sweeper.

This would take time, and the signs cost money, but it was pointed out that money is wasted when street sweepers visit a street and are unable to clean it because of parked cars.

Mrs. Roeder proposed several weeks ago that an ordinance be passed to clear vehicles from downtown streets on nights they are to be visited by the sweeper.

She insisted it is the council's responsibility to foster a year-around clean up program.

City Has Ordnance

Finan pointed out that Section 30, Chapter 14, of the City Code covers the subject of litter dropped in the city, and added he placed the clause giving street crews authority to tow cars away only to avoid red tape.

Commissioner Long said police enforce every complaint they get on violations of the litter ordinance.

It was suggested by the mayor that streets could be cleared for the street sweeper if police were to warn motorists, as they do when a street is to be cleared for a parade.

Commissioner William J. Edwards suggested that warning tags could be made for police to put on cars, advising them that the street is to be cleaned.

Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan recalled that a motorcycle could be used to place the signs, as is done for sickness.

Gigliotti Takes Teaching Post

Oswald Gigliotti, 306 Washington Street, has been appointed a social studies teachers at Fort Hill High School and will assume his new duties Monday, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer.

Gigliotti will succeed William E. McProuty, who resigned effective yesterday to take an insurance job in Annapolis. McProuty had been on the Fort Hill faculty since April 1952. Beside his teaching duties he also was assistant football coach and junior varsity football and basketball mentor at Fort Hill.

The new teacher has attended two colleges, St. Francis at Loretto, Pa., and Frostburg State Teachers College. After graduation from La-Salle High School in 1945, he enrolled at St. Francis, where he majored in economics, graduating in 1950. After traveling in Europe he decided to study for the teaching profession, and so enrolled at Frostburg in September 1952. He attended there the past year and a half, finishing in January.

Gigliotti married an Italian girl while in Europe and they are the parents of a son, Francis.

Blue Ridge Bus Lines Purchase Seen Imminent

Greyhound Corporation Near Close Of Deal

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 5 (AP)—The long contemplated, much discussed purchase of Blue Ridge Bus Lines by the Greyhound Corp. appeared imminent tonight.

R. Paul Smith, president of Blue Ridge and its parent firm, Potomac Edison Co. acknowledged "we have just about closed the basis of our agreement."

Smith said he would have an announcement Monday.

While admitting that basic terms of an agreement have been reached by Blue Ridge and Greyhound, Smith said the actual transaction might still be a year or more off because of the necessary clearance of such a deal by the various regulatory agencies concerned.

Greyhound covers the same territory but concentrates on handling through passengers between the larger cities and leaves most of the intermediate service to Blue Ridge.

Smith said negotiations are with the Greyhound Corp. and not one of its sectional companies such as Atlantic Greyhound or Capitol Greyhound.

Last October, commenting on a report that the deal was about to go through, Smith laughingly said such reports had been in circulation for 10 years.

He said at that time it was still talk and that Greyhound wasn't the only rumored purchaser. But he said it was all talk.

Tonight, Smith said he could only say that a basis of agreement had been reached with Greyhound Corp. and that he would make a full announcement Monday.

City Defers Decision On Smoke Plan

Definite action on the future of the city's Smoke Abatement program was deferred for several weeks yesterday by informal action of the Mayor and Council.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, under whose jurisdiction the program falls, reported he had been checking complaints during the illness of Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector.

It was agreed that the work would be continued on that basis until March 19, when the sick leave and vacation time due Owens expires.

Saying the subject was brought up at the request of Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, Mayor Eves reported he had asked Owens to continue treatment until all of his time is used up.

"It is expensive," Mrs. Roeder pointed out, "to continue operating the smoke office without providing services."

Services are being provided, the mayor said, in reply to Police Commissioner John J. Long's query, "Who is doing the work?"

The mayor said he himself had been handling complaints lodged against Memorial Hospital and the Queen City station.

In reply to Commissioner Long's, "Do we want the work to go on?" Commissioner William V. Keegan replied that was a question to be decided when Owens' time is up.

"We would do well," Commissioner Keegan replied, "to get four or five more factories in Cumberland and forget about smoke."

Commissioner Keegan pointed out that home furnaces are "as big offenders as we now have."

The mayor said the city has no control over domestic furnaces, adding that the Pittsburgh program provides this through controlling the quality of coal, and increases the cost of heating to consumers since they must purchase high grades of coal.

Mine Water Plan Is 'Dangerous,' McKeldin States

Health And Resources Bodies Meet Governor

ANNAPOLIS, March 5 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin told Secretary of Interior McKay today that Maryland officials think a plan to dump Pennsylvania mine water into Chesapeake Bay is "fraught with danger."

The message was sent to Washington after a meeting of the Governor and 11 representatives of state departments and agencies involved in health, natural resources, conservation and recreation.

Decide To Mark Time

The group decided to mark time on fighting the move until further information is available.

The telegram to McKay asked for a meeting between the secretary and the committee, including the governor, and urged no further action on the plan.

The announcement brought immediate protests from both houses of the Legislature.

Dr. R. V. Truitt, director of the Department of Research and Education, said at today's meeting "There are enough rivers in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to absorb this waste."

Others said the plan probably was made because of stringent anti-pollution laws in the neighboring state.

Would Harm Oyster Beds

Truitt said that even if the water wasn't acid it would harm Maryland's oyster beds by diluting the salt water needed for their growth.

Ernest Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Department, said the 137-mile tunnel would dump the water in to Maryland's favorite fishing, hunting and recreation area and would coat the bottom of the fishing grounds with iron deposits and kill marine life.

McKeldin said he would name a chairman of the committee Monday and would follow the McKay telegram with a letter.

Mahoney Joins Protest

BALTIMORE, March 5 (AP) — George P. Mahoney, Democratic candidate for nomination for governor, tonight joined the host of others who are protesting a federal plan to dump waste water from Pennsylvania mines into the Chesapeake Bay.

"I urge that you use every facility at your command to head the proposal off," Mahoney said in a letter to secretary of the Interior McKay.

Mahoney called the plan to bring the mine drainage to the bay a threat to Maryland's seafoods as well as the scenic and recreational values of the bay.

Mahoney's opponent in the primary race, H. C. Byrd, was among others expressing the same opposition earlier this week.

Ike Refers City Stamp Request To Postal Department

By the direction of President Eisenhower, a City of Cumberland resolution calling for the issuance of a commemorative stamp to mark the bicentennial of Fort Cumberland has been referred to the Postmaster General.

In a letter to Mayor Roy W. Eves, Sherman Adams, presidential assistant, said President Eisenhower appreciated receiving the resolution.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. also thanked the city for his copy of the resolution.

Thousands of signatures have already been secured on petitions, being circulated by the Allegany County Historical Society and the Cumberland Free Public Library, calling for a special stamp to mark the 200th anniversary of the historic fort founded here January 26, 1755.

Douglas To Begin Canal Hike Here

Expedition Scheduled For March 20

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said yesterday his Chesapeake and Ohio Canal hiking expedition will start from Cumberland March 20.

Original plans had called for launching the safari from Washington and walking to Cumberland, a trek of more than 180 miles.

But U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, visiting at home over the weekend, said Justice Douglas had telephoned him from Washington late yesterday to report the change in plans.

Sen. Beall, one of the strongest and earliest proponents of plans to build a C & O Canal Parkway from Washington to Cumberland, plans to have dinner with Justice Douglas when the party arrives here by automobile March 19.

The Justice got the idea for the hike after The Washington Post had run an editorial backing the Parkway. The Justice, veteran of many a rugged outdoor expedition, wrote to the Post to say he favored preserving the canal area as it is.

He invited the author of the editorial to hike with him along the canal from Washington to Cumberland. Two Post editors accepted.

That was in January. Since then, such interest has been aroused that the hiking party now includes about 25 people, many of them naturalists.

Sen. Beall said Justice Douglas and his party plan to stay overnight at local hotels March 19 before "saddling up" for the long walk next morning.

No definite timetable for the jaunt has been announced, but the party plans to walk all the way to Washington, camping out along the way.

Sen. Beall, who will be unable to make the trip, said he is looking forward to his dinner meeting with Justice Douglas. The two men have traded considerable correspondence over the Parkway in Washington papers.

Police Continue Investigation Of Hit-Run Death

Raymond P. Alkire Is Killed Instantly

City and county authorities are continuing an investigation into the hit-and-run death of Raymond Peter Alkire, 79, of Wiley Ford, who was killed instantly Thursday night on River Avenue near the Wiley Ford Bridge.

Clothes of the man were examined thoroughly yesterday in an effort to find some clue in his death. Two sons of the victim, Benjamin and John Alkire, who resided with their father in Wiley Ford, were also questioned yesterday at the State's Attorney's office.

One factor in the man's death was the fact that snow was swirling about the street at the time of the accident, which would hamper the view of the motorist. Police said practically every bone in Alkire's body was broken in the mishap, which occurred about 11:20 p. m.

Police Headquarters was notified of the death at 11:25 p. m. and Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney, Officers Kenneth W. Morrissey and Richard C. Lashley went to the scene. Later, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, and City Police Detective Roy C. Hawse, joined them.

From the position of the man's body, police judged he was struck by a Cumberland-bound vehicle. An immediate check of night spots in nearby West Virginia was made by police to learn if any persons had left about that time for Cumberland.

Investigators report Alkire was hit nearly in front of Sullivan's Used Car lot, which is several hundred feet from the Potomac River bridge.

They added the man was probably carried for some distance. Two splotches of blood were found 23 feet apart on the highway and there is a possibility that the victim's blood got on the hit-and-run car.

There were no skid marks. The body was found by two passing motorists, Ray DeHaven, 644 Columbia Avenue, and Ralph H. Johnson, RD 1. Another driver stopped and phoned police from a nearby establishment, police added.

The body was taken to the Scarpelli Funeral Home.

Parkway Funds May Be Placed In 1955 Budget

Cabinet Member To Ask Allocation

Funds for constructing the first several miles of the C&O Canal Parkway between Cumberland and Hancock still have a chance of being included in the 1955 budget by Congress.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall last night said he has met with the Secretary of the Interior several times to discuss the possibility of having funds for the project included in the budget.

Senator Beall added that Secretary of Interior Dougles McKay has agreed to ask President Eisenhower to include the necessary funds in the budget. In the event that the money is placed in the budget for use in constructing the Parkway, the funds would become available July 1.

Mapping Under Way

The Frostburg Senator said he would continue to work for the allocation so that construction of the Parkway could begin as soon as possible. He added that funds for the aerial photographing of the entire Parkway route have already been included in the budget of the Department of Interior.

Last month Department of Interior surveyors and engineers began preliminary work for mapping of the C&O Canal near Cumberland. Mapping work, including placing of bench marks along the canal right-of-way, is still continuing, Beall said.

The agreement between the federal government and the State of Maryland concerning the Parkway is that the Department of Interior would pay for the cost of constructing the Parkway, and Maryland would purchase the additional right-of-way land along the canal.

W. Va. Uninterested

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, said the SRC has funds to take options on the land as soon as it is needed by the Department of Interior to go ahead with the project.

One source reported that two West Virginia representatives in Congress have declared their state has no interest in the Parkway, although it will run close to the Maryland-West Virginia line.

At the same time, however, the local office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security reports that many West Virginia residents from nearby communities have applied for jobs in the event construction work gets underway soon.

When work on the Parkway does begin, it will start at or near Cumberland.

38,983 Voters Now Are Listed On County Books

Slight Decline Shown In January

Allegany County's registered voter list continued a slight drop in January as 21 new registrants were added and 25 deleted—23 by death and two by request, leaving 38,983 citizens able to vote as of February 1, according to William A. Wilson, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

Those added in January by Registrars Irvin J. Neat, Republican, and C. William McDermott, Democrat, included 15 Republicans (eight men and seven women) and six Democrats (five men and one woman.)

The 23 stricken off the poll books because of death included 14 Republican (eight white men, five white women and one colored man) and nine Democrats (eight men and one woman.) Removed by request were two men, one belonging to each party.

Besides the deletions and additions, the registrars transferred the names of 85 voters from one precinct or election district to another, made eight changes of names and changed 36 addresses of persons moving from one place to another within the same precinct.

The February 1 voter list showed 38,531 white voters and 452 Negro voters registered. By parties there were 22,044 Republicans, 16,679 Democrats, 192 persons who declined to state political preference, 23 Socialists and 45 members of other parties.

Registrars are on duty at the Board of Election Supervisors office in the Court House Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p. m. and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays. McFarland Impressed With Data Presented At Highway Safety Conference In Capitol

Returning from a Highway Safety Conference called in Washington by President Dwight D. Eisenhower last month, Herbert R. McFarland, 612 Washington Street, has compiled an interesting report of the sessions.

McFarland, who represented the Military Order of the Purple Heart at the conclave, said President Eisenhower made a 12-minute talk to the assembly, outlining the problem and calling for a program to decrease highway and traffic injury, fatality and monetary loss.

Every state was represented at the conference and governors of more than half the states of the union participated. Sinclair Weeks, Secretary of Commerce, presided and the invocation was given by the chaplain of the U. S. Senate, Rev. Frederick Brown Harris.

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado was chairman of the conference steering committee and Rear Admiral Harold B. Miller, USN Retired, was the conference director.

McFarland said the event was well-planned and organized with numerous group conferences, which broke the group of 4,000 delegates down into workable-sized discussion sections.

Safety engineers, roads officials, numerous organizations, insurance groups, transportation men, representatives of women's clubs, and almost every conceivable civic body was represented, providing a real cross-section of America, McFarland commented.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon presented conference reports in a 20-minute talk. Workshop panels were most interesting and helpful. McFarland says he learned more about the problem and possible solutions in a few days than he imagined possible.

Cities which have the best safety records were represented and officials showed how they have done the job to minimize traffic toll.

The first step usually taken was that of providing adequate and safe parking areas.
